Knox County Mayor Glenn Jacobs Headlines Pasta and Politics Event

HUNTINGDON (November 7) — Glenn Jacobs, Mayor of Knox County, also World Wrestling Entertainment's Hall of Famer, Kane, was the keynote speaker Saturday night at the Carroll County Republican Party's annual fundraiser, Pasta & Politics, hosted by Mayor Joseph Butler.

Mayor Jacobs joined Carroll County Mayor, Joseph Butler, Senator John Stevens, Representatives Curtis Halford and Tandy Darby, State Party Chairman Scott Golden and Carroll County Party Chairman Cyril Ostiguy, as the party celebrated its heriage ad looked forward to, prayerfully, a bright and prosperous future.

In his introduction of Mayor Jacobs, Mayor Butler noted the Carroll County Civic Center had hosted many famous wrestlers in the past...Jerry Lawler, Bill Dundee, Randy 'Macho Man' Savage...but none more recognizable than WWE Hall of Famer, Kane. Butler also noted that Mayor Jacobs, in his campaign three years ago, had pledged to make Knox County a business-friendly area and his track record of over 2,500 new jobs are a testimony to his work.

Mayor Jacobs told of his life story and how everyone should have the chance to become who they want to be as part of the American Dream, as he was a perfect example of that. He is the son of a U.S. Air Force family, which instilled in him a strong work ethic and a passion for individual freedom. Mayor Jacobs said he had been blessed to play college sports, be a professional wrestler, appear in movies and own an insurance agency, in Knoxville, with his wife, Crystal. They have two daughters and two grandchildren.

West Carroll School Board Hears Update on Legislation, COVID-19

BY JIM POTTS
jpotts@mckenziebanner.com

West Carroll School Board members tried something new at their monthly session Thursday, November 4. In an effort to go paperless, board members along with the school director were provided access to Chromebooks which had their agenda and other information needed to conduct their meeting. The paperless project is being spearheaded by Brittany Foster who gave instructions for accessing their materials at the start of the meeting.

School Director Preston Caldwell updated board members on the current COVID-19 situation in the schools system. As of Nov. 4, there were three positive COVID cases with 20 others quarantined. He recommended staying at Phase 3 guidelines which deal with minimal viral spread. Visitors will be allowed more access in school facilities. In-school assemblies will be allowed, and kids can eat in the cafeterias with assigned seats and distancing.

School Board Attorney Chris Hayden gave everyone an update on COVID legislation recently passed by the State and a new Federal order regarding COVID as well. The two apparently contradict each other with the state passing legislation that schools and businesses could no longer enforce vaccination and masking mandates. The new legislation also states that local health officials will no longer con-

On the other hand, President Joe Biden has released orders for OSHA (Occupational Safety and Health Administration) to enforce vaccination mandates for businesses and other employers that have 100 employees or more. These orders include stiff fines for non-compliance. Barring any legal challenges, which are expected, the federal order goes into effect on January 5, 2022.

Hayden also informed the board that the state passed legislation that would allow county caucuses for either political party to nominate a candidate to run for school board office starting with the next elections. There was considerable opposition from school officials including local school boards, Tennessee School Board Association, and the State Board of Education, but it passed along with the new COVID legislation during a late night session last weekend.

Board Chairman William Robinson commented, after Hayden's updates, "It needs to be communicated that this is not a board decision but a state and federal issue." Other board members and Director Caldwell agreed with the assessment.

School Director Preston Caldwell discussed the five-year Strategic Plan for the West Carroll School System which was passed last year by the board. He reiterated that the main topic is about climate and culture. He touched on three goals set in the plan. Goal I is to focus on each and every student and do their very best to teach the whole student. Goal II included recruiting and evaluating teachers and staff. For example, the board approved a four percent raise for staff and included a $500 Christmas bonus for each staff member. Goal III involves student relationships with each other as well as teachers and staff members. Caldwell used the recent Trunk or Treat as an example saying it was "by far the most turnout of any school-related event he had attended so far." No action was taken on the strategic plan.

Caldwell informed the board that the state has legislation ongoing that will change the BEP school funding formula. He advised that it will be a completely new formula based on student counts with multipliers added for such things as kids with disabilities, low-income kids, etc. Caldwell stated that, if approved, it will not affect West Carroll until the 2023-24 school year.

There was action taken on two items during the meeting, board members approved a lone bid from a Memphis distributor on a dishwasher for the High School cafeteria. The bid was $56,639. Board members also approved the first reading of a school board policy change regarding appeals to or appearances before the board.

The board adjourned with the next meeting set for December 7.

He told stories of growing up, going to church, marriage, and getting old.

The county of Carroll was created by the Tennessee General Assembly on November 7, 1821, and named it for the governor, William Carroll. The area from which the county was taken had been part of the Western District, which was controlled by the Chickasaws until ceded in the Jackson Purchase of 1818.

Three short videos gave cameos of the history of the county. It was narrated by Buddy Smothers.

Mayor Joseph Butler welcomed the audience to the event. Chamber of Commerce Director Brad Hurley said a committee worked to host the event and Matthew Holt, director of Renaissance at Bethel University, thanked the audience and the vocal and instrumental performers, the production crew for working to host the production.

and started immediately. Heyduck said collection of the garbage that has accumulated over the last three to four weeks requires longer than normal collection times. Sometimes, a normal one day route might take two to three days to collect and dispose.

A second rental truck will soon be added on a full-time basis with hopes to restore the regular weekly routes. Previously, Red River operated two trucks five days weekly.

Heyduck encouraged residents to leave their collection carts at the side of the road because the trucks are operating as they can, where they can. It might be several weeks before the trucks operate on a regular schedule, said Heyduck. The situation is improving day by day.

The county's Solid Waste Committee voted to waive residents' $18 monthly fee for the month of October.

With all of this information in mind, the board began discussing ideas for the future. One prominent idea involved moving McKenzie's football stadium from the Middle School to the high school to the 10 acres adjacent to the high school football practice field. Clear the current stadium's site and adjacent practice field and build a new elementary school on that property attaching it to the middle school to make it a K-8 school. The middle school would then be rebuilt to current standards. It was agreed that an undertaking like that would likely have to be done in three stages. Stage I would be to move the football stadium to the high school which is broadly estimated to run $2.5 to $4 million. Stage II would be to start building the new elementary school and Stage III would be to finish the elementary school and renovate the middle school. Current construction costs for a new school are approximately $300 per square foot.

Funding was brought up in the conversation to which Director Watkins indicated a combination of federal infrastructure money and a property tax increase would go a long way to fund such a project. The school's property tax has not increased since 1998. Watkins told board members planning the funding and plans would take about two years and have to go through the state legislature especially regarding the property tax increase. The school is still paying the financing note on the high school which was originally set at 20 years but was restructured twice making it a 25-year note. It will be retired in early 2022.

During the discussions, Watkins noted each grade K-12 currently had 90 students. He also noted the high school was built to hold a maximum of 600 students and should last much longer.

In other action, the board approved an overnight trip for the FFA to a Mission impact conference in Doyle, Tennessee. The next board meeting is for December 7.

Celebrating 200 Years
The Story of Carroll County Part 2

By 1825, Carroll County was establishing itself as a growing county. Mills were popping up throughout the county as more folks arrived via westward wagon trains. Tobacco and soon Carroll County's leading crop, cotton, enticed settlers to the area. Trading hubs like Christmasset took hold as more settlements like Sandy Ridge, Buena Vista and Carrollton (McLemoresville) took hold. Like most of the nation, Carroll County found itself divided between Union and Confederate sympathies following the election of Abraham Lincoln on November 4, 1860. South Carolina became the first state to declare its secession from the Union on December 20, 1860. In February 1861, citizens in Carroll County met at the Courthouse in Huntingdon to determine whether to stay with the Union or join the CSA. A report prepared by Isaac Hawkins, Alvin Hawkins, Dr. Bell and A.B. Hall reads as follows: “That we are in favor of the seceding states being restored to their allegiance to the government of the United States peaceable, if possible, but forcibly, if necessary.” After the meeting, those who favored the future Confederacy left through the southern gate and those who favored the Union left through the northern gate. Carroll County, like most of Tennessee (68,000 to 59,000) was against secession. The division within the county created a conflict between families, neighbors and communities. According to legend, this began the division between McKenzie and Huntingdon. Following the Battle of Fort Sumter in April 1861, Governor Isham Harris of Paris, Tennessee addressed a special session of the state legislature, declaring Lincoln and the Republicans were working to destroy the Union. Harris then requested the State of Tennessee leave the United States through a legislative declaration of secession. Harris' request led to Tennessee entering into a compact with the Confederate States of America. Carroll County didn't feel much of the effect of the war until 1862 when West Tennessee was cut off from the rest of the country following Confederate defeats at the battles of Fort Donelson (February 26, 1862) and Shiloh-Corinth (April 7, 1862). An excerpt from the War Leaflets by Annie Cole Hawkins of McKenzie Station described the beginning of the hardships: “By the year 1862, homemade canned goods came into use. Communication with the North had been cut off and we realized the fact that the South had been actually dependent on the Northern factories for hundreds of articles in daily use. Articles such as shoes, cloth, coffee, lamp oil and sugar became a luxury.” She goes on to describe Union troops moving through McKenzie Station as the citizens had not expected a raid: “I can never forget the sickening scene when they began their work of destruction. Bursting open the doors, tearing down and burning fences and gates, cutting and breaking up the family carriages, killing cattle, hogs, sheep, geese, turkeys, chickens and everything they could lay their cowardly hands on... The ruffians took all they wanted to eat and carry off, then piled the rest with the nice white lard and made a bonfire of it right at our window just for the sake of destroying and to keep the Southern Soldiers from enjoying it.” Carroll County did not produce a battle during the war but served as a pathway for troops. McKenzie's most noted Civil War event dates back to Christmas day 1862. In this event, Confederate Lieutenant General Nathan Bedford Forrest was following the Nashville and Northwestern Railroad to Dresden. Forrest learned of Union troops surrounding his location and preventing him from moving to the Tennessee River. With plans to outmaneuver the Union, he mobilized his forces to McKenzie Station on Christmas afternoon. Virtually surrounded, Forrest moved his men towards Huntingdon and then McLemoresville. With 10,000 Union troops moving from Huntingdon, Forrest and his men slinked their way towards Lexington. On December 31, 1862, Forrest and Union forces collided at Parker's Crossroads. Forrest made his way through the skirmish crossing the Tennessee River on New Year's Day. Raids from both sides continued until the end of the war in 1865. While Tennessee was the last state to secede from the Union so it was the first to re-enter bringing along with it the war-ravaged economic disadvantage counties. According to census records, by 1870, Carroll County was beginning to heal from its wounds. The county touted a total of 960 farms; 447 were over 50 acres, 226 over 100 acres, 180 over 500 acres, 4 had more than 500 acres and less than 1,000 acres. The cash value of the farms in 1870 was $1,674,572 which is $35 million in today's market. The principal markets were in Nashville, Memphis and Louisville. The county population totaled 19,447; 14,848 “whites” and 4,799 “colored”. McKenzie (established 1869) was Carroll County's largest town with a population of 1000 followed behind Huntingdon with 800. Other township populations listed were Trezevant 250, McLemoresville 200, Atwood 100, Lavina 200, Clarksburg 200, Buena Vista 50, Hollow Rock 200, Marlborough 200, Macedonia 60 and Maple Creek 40. There were two newspapers in the county, the Tennessee Republican in Huntingdon and The McKenzie Times in McKenzie. Records stated the people were interested in news based on secular, religious and agricultural press.

HUNKER DOWN WITH KES

Twenty-One Guns Ain't Near Enough

Have you ever “sat and wondered” what those Massachusetts militia guys thought as the British regulars filed into Lexington on that fateful April 19th morning in 1775. They were fixing to start a fight with the biggest dog on earth as those Red Coats marched into town with the early morning sun at their backs. They had been warned. Paul Revere and William Dawes had ridden all night. That's why they had gathered beside the road. These “minutemen” had first been organized as a guard against Indian attacks. The British had supplanted the Indians as the number one enemy. And it didn't take the locals long to muster once the word had gone out. History is a little blurred on which side fired the “shot heard around the world.” And that same history didn't record it as much of a fight, labeling it only a skirmish. Of course, history wasn't actually there. History didn't feel the lump in the throat. History didn't tighten any fingers around the trigger. History's knees weren't shaking. And history wasn't thinking about a wife, girlfriend or mother waiting back home with an even bigger lump. It certainly was more than a skirmish for the eight American soldiers who laid down their lives that sun drenched morning. It was getting late on a mild afternoon the following June as this fight was continued on a small hill on the outskirts of Boston... It had been a very long day. Most of the men had never shot at another person. And certainly, most had never been shot at! The horrible sights and sounds of a full-blown battle would be forever etched in their minds. On this occasion these patriots had looked the world's largest and most organized army directly in the eye and had not blinked. Twice General Gage's Red Coats had charged up Breed's Hill and the outmanned band of rebels repelled the attacks. The third charge would be the last. The defenders were down to their last few rounds of ammunition. They could have slipped away easily over Bunker Hill just behind them to fight another day. Nobody would blame them. They had fought gallantly. They were not going to “carry the day.” It was too much against too little. As the angered and somewhat embarrassed British forces rushed up for the final charge the patriots fired their last bullets...and then threw rocks down the hill at the oncoming enemy! They were disgruntled farmers. And inn keepers bent on protecting their property. Some were out of work longshoremen. Many were merchants. Cooks. Candlestick makers. Politicians. And at least one doctor. Some were very young. A few had labored long and hard under the British rule. They were all citizen soldiers. It would take six years. And they would endure the hardships of long marches. Months and months away from home. Harsh winters like Valley Forge. There were never enough weapons, shoes or food. They fought almost always against overwhelming odds. But they fought. Oh, how they fought! All the way from Lexington Green to the final battle at Yorktown. All of them became the first veterans of an American war. You talk about a legacy that will endure forever! And it has. They did it “all over again” in 1812. They battled each other in the War Between the States. They charged up San Juan Hill with little regard for life or limb. They stood toe to toe with the Germans in the trenches of World War I. They fought two separate enemies on two fronts on two different continents in World War II. They near 'bout froze to death in Korea. They sweated their guts out in the jungles of Viet Nam. They fought an altogether different type war in Iran and Afghanistan. But they fought. Oh, how they fought! Freedom wasn't free in 1776. Nor is it today. We are kidding ourselves if we believe differently. A tremendous price has been paid. The Declaration of Independence is a wonderful document but it didn't mean diddly-squat till “our soldiers” made General Cornwallis throw up his hands. It has been that way as long as America has existed. Our nation is so divided at the present moment it makes you hurt. Nobody seemingly wants to get along with anyone else. We fight and harangue over most every single issue. Except one. The importance and worth of the United States veteran cannot be overstated. We can't appreciate them too much. We can't thank them enough. We can't salute them too often. You talk about folks that have “stood in the gap” for us! Heroes all. It is high time we let them know how we feel... Most Respectfully, Kes

The McKenzie Banner to Offer Enhanced Digital Products, Services

BY JOEL WASHBURN
washburn@mckenziebanner.com

The McKenzie Banner has a larger audience than in its recent history. I am talking about the combined print and digital editions. While the number of printed pages has declined, the number of online subscribers has increased. The Banner offers many daily updates on www.mckenziebanner.com, which also includes years of archives replica editions of the full newspaper. There is no doubt the printed edition has suffered as in a national trend. More than a 1,000 communities are now ‘news deserts’ because the local publication ceased publishing. The Banner uses the United States Postal Service for delivery. In the year 2021, postage for the publication increased 10 percent. The mail service also ‘slowed’ its delivery time to save the USPS money. The Banner receives exceptionally good service from the area post offices and their carriers. The Chattanooga Times Free Press has converted to a Sunday-only print edition but offers online enhanced replica editions updated each day. They are issuing new iPads to each of their online subscribers. Our pledge is this: The Banner will continue to print weekly and just as the Times Free Press, will update news each day online. Other than the free obituaries, the online edition requires a paid subscription to access the news and photos. Newspapers and other traditional media outlets including radio and television, have seen great shifts in their audiences. I now watch many streaming services instead of traditional television and I listen to satellite radio or streamed radio - some from other countries. And yes, I read some online newspapers instead of the printed edition. The Banner's online replica edition offers features impossible in print — readers can enlarge the type; some stories are enriched by multiple photos; video is available for some stories. Now for another enhancement, coming in the 2022, The Banner will offer management of social media for businesses and organizations. We have the professional graphic design staff, we have professional photographers, professional writers and know the laws concerning fair use and copyright. We will provide more details as the new year arrives. Social media management is an additional service that complements The Banner's publishing, photography, printing and advertising specialty offerings.

McKenzie Rolls Moore County in Round One

BY JIM POTTS
jpotts@mckenziebanner.com

The McKenzie Rebels opened up the state playoffs hosting the Moore County Raiders from Middle Tennessee on a chilly Friday night, November 5, and turned it into a lopsided contest before halftime with multiple touchdowns on offense and defense.

The Rebels won the toss and elected to defer to the second half so the Raiders got the ball first to start the game. McKenzie's defense made their presence felt early forcing Moore County to go three-and-out and punt it to the Rebels.

It only took two plays for the Rebels to light up the scoreboard with Jackson Cassidy rushing 60 yards for the first touchdown. Zach Aird hit the first of nine extra points to give McKenzie a 7-0 lead with 10:07 left in the first quarter.

The Raiders had another short drive with a couple of positive plays but no more and nailed a 41-yard punt back to the Rebels.

Again, the Rebel offense scored quickly moving from inside their own 10 to the 25 on a Marquez Taylor run. Cassidy found Zach Aird all alone on the next play for a 75-yard touchdown strike with 7:03 left in the first quarter. Aird's extra point was good for a 14-0 lead for the Rebels.

Moore County finally got a drive going with help from a 40-yard pass completion into McKenzie territory. A few plays later, the Raiders were on the scoreboard with a 5-yard touchdown pass. The extra point was no good cutting the Rebel lead to 14-6 with 2:59 left in the opening quarter.

McKenzie wasted no time answering the Raider touchdown with another touchdown of their own. On the first play after the kickoff, Jackson Cassidy got loose for a 59-yard touchdown run, his second of the game, with 2:39 left in the first quarter. Aird's extra point split the up-rights for a 21-6 lead.

The Raiders got a decent kickoff return on the ensuing kick and rolled into McKenzie territory but were stopped on a fourth down play that turned the ball back over to the Rebels on downs.

Marquez Taylor ripped off a 21-yard run as the clock ran out on the opening period. Taylor ran for another 14 yards before Jackson Cassidy went to the air and hit Rashad McCreary for a 27-yard touchdown pass just seconds into the second quarter. Aird was good on his fourth extra point to extend the Rebel lead to 28-6.

Aird wasn't done contributing as he picked off a Moore County pass and took it 59 yards to the house for a touchdown. The extra point was good for a 35-6 lead. Moore County went three plays into their next drive and had another pass picked off by Elijah Edmonson in Raider territory. The Rebels moved the ball down to the Raider 25 where they faced a fourth down play completing a pass but not enough yardage for a first down.

Moore County took over on downs and completed some passes to near midfield but the Rebel D forced a fourth down play during which the ball was snapped over the Raider punter's head. This left the Rebels in excellent field position at the Moore County 14. Three plays later, Marquez Taylor was in the end zone on a 7-yard touchdown run with 4:23 left until the half. The extra point made it a 42-6 contest.

After the ensuing kickoff, Taylor picked off a Moore County pass and returned it 50 yards for another touchdown. The extra point was good for a 49-6 lead with 3:45 left in the half.

The Raiders committed another turnover on their next possession with a fumble that was recovered by the Rebels. Two plays later, Cassidy hit Andrew Cole for a 32-yard touchdown with six seconds left in the first half. The extra point was good for a 56-6 halftime lead.

The third quarter opened with McKenzie getting the ball and putting their second team offense on the field with Drew Chappell at quarterback. The two teams swapped possessions until Andrew Cole picked off a Raider pass midway through the third quarter. A few plays later Colt Norden ran it in for a 5-yard touchdown with 1:23 left in the third quarter. Aird nailed his ninth extra point of the night making it a 63-6 game.

The two teams continued to play younger players and swap possessions until Moore County scored a touchdown on a 5-yard touchdown with just seconds left to play. The extra point failed making the final score 63-12.

The Rebels rolled up 377 total yards in offense while giving up 158 yards to Moore County. 232 yards came on the ground while 145 were through the air.

Jackson Cassidy had the big night completing 5-7 passes for 145 yards and three touchdowns while rushing four times for 130 yards and two more touchdowns. Marquez Taylor had 68 yards rushing and a touchdown while intercepting a ball on defense and running it back for another score.

Zach Aird had a big night of his own hitting 9-9 extra points catching a 75-yard touchdown and adding a pick-six for another touchdown.

McKenzie will play host to Cornersville this Friday night in Round 2. Cornersville eliminated McEwen 42-8 last week. Game time is 7 p.m.. Ticket prices are still $8 in advance through GOFAN and will be $10 at the gate.

Mustangs Advance to Second Round of Playoffs

HUNTINGDON (November 5) — The Huntingdon Mustangs made short work of the Memphis Mitchell Tigers Friday in night's opening round of the 2A TSSAA playoffs. In true Mustang fashion, their dominant running game and control of the clock led to the 56-24 victory.

In 48 plays, Huntingdon rushed for 342 picking up six touchdowns. Leading the ground game was Aden Hutcherson with 22 carries for 178 and five touchdowns. Next was Cade Wood with 13 carries for 107 yards and one touchdown.

Gray Eubanks was one for three passing for 17 yards and one touchdown. The touchdown reception was to Wood.

Leading the defense in tackles was Landon Gordon with five solo and four assisted tackles. Blake Reeves recorded the one sack of the night.

In what was the coldest game of the season thus far, the Mustangs were hot. The opening quarter started with Memphis Mitchell winning the coin toss and deferring to the second half. Huntingdon's opening series consisted in battling Mitchell's all-out blitz attack. Fantastic blocking by the Mustang offensive line allowed for Hutcherson and Wood to cross midfield. On first-and-ten from the Tiger 32-yard line, Wood found running room and put up the first points of the night. Hunter Britt's extra point gave the Mustangs a 7-0 lead with 7:30 on the clock.

Mitchell's first possession centered around a pass-first no-huddle offense. Quarterback Antonio Jenkins led the Tiger offense picking up two first downs on the series before stalling out and turning the ball over on downs near midfield.

Huntingdon added six points on the next series. From 18 yards out, Hutcherson picked up his first touchdown. The PAT was no good as the Mustangs led 13-0 with 1:17 to play in the first quarter.

The Tigers showed their athleticism on second-and-long as Jenkins' pass to Tylon Nash was good for a 66-yard TD. Mitchell elected to go for the two-point conversion with a pass from Jenkins to Joseph Adams. With 53 seconds to play in the opening quarter, Huntingdon led 13-8.

The Mustangs scored their third touchdown in as many possessions. On fourth-and-goal from the one, Hutcherson was in for six. On a jet sweep, Wood picked up the two-point conversion increasing the Huntingdon lead 21-8.

On Mitchell's next series, it appeared the Tigers would add a touchdown. Starting deep in Tiger territory, they worked the ball to across midfield. Huntingdon was called for defensive pass interference giving Mitchell a fresh set of downs. Soon the Tigers were inside the red zone and 10-yard line. Elijah Flowers came up with a big stop on first-and-goal. Gordon was able to knock down a sure touchdown pass on second-and-goal. On fourth-and-goal from the four-yard line, Jenkins threw an incomplete pass to turn the ball over on downs.

The Mustangs came away with a huge defensive stand to only turn the ball over via a fumble on their second ball. Mitchell took over at the Huntingdon six-yard line. With 4:03 to play in the half, Jenkins teamed with Adams for the touchdown and the two-point conversion reducing the Mustang lead 21-16.

Huntingdon received the kickoff near midfield. Hutcherson moved the ball downfield for the Mustangs. On second-and-eleven from the Tiger 17-yard line, Eubanks hit Wood for the TD. A bad snap killed the chance for a PAT as the half closed with Huntingdon leading Mitchell 27-16.

The second half quickly saw things turn against Mitchell. Reeves forced Mitchell's Jalen Vardaman to put the ball on the turf allowing for Flowers the scope-and-score. The two-point conversion put the Mustangs up 35-16.

Things continued to go bad for Mitchell. As the Tigers looked to punt on their next drive, Flowers flew in to block the punt putting Huntingdon in scoring position.

On first-and-goal from the four-yard line, Hutcherson scored breaking the spirit of the Mitchell Tigers. The PAT put the Mustangs up 42-16.

The Mustangs scored two more times, one credited to Hutcherson and the last to Tayshawn Rivers. Mitchell picked up the final eight points of the night making the final score 56-24.

Huntingdon is on the road next Friday night traveling to Shelby County to play Memphis Academy of Health Sciences (10-1). Kick-off is 7 p.m. The winner of the Huntingdon / MAHS contest will play the winner of the Westview (10-1) / Fairley (9-2) game.

West Carroll Dominates Booker T. Washington

BY MICHAEL ODOM
Mirror-Exchange (Milan)

In the first round of the Class 1A playoffs, West Carroll senior Xander Moon put up one of his best ofensive performances of the year as he accounted for 364 yards of total offense to help the War Eagles advance.

Moon threw for two touchdowns and ran for another as West Carroll beat Booker T. Washington 43-24 in the Class 1A first round.

West Carroll (8-3) will travel to Region 7-1A foe Peabody for the second round on Friday. This will be the second time in three weeks that the two teams have met.

Moon totaled 222 rushing yards on 20 carries and completed 13-of-17 passes for 142 yards in his offensive outburst.

West Carroll's opening touchdown was a 28-yard touchdown pass from Moon to Dealon Drasal midway through the first quarter.

But after that touchdown, it was Malik Lee that took over the scoring with touchdown runs of one yard and five yards for the 21-0 lead with 8:51 left in the first half. Lee finished with 79 yards rushing and two touchdowns.

answered less than a minute later to cut West Carroll's lead to 21-8 at half-time.

Moon took back over in the third quarter with an eight-yard touchdown run and a 15-yard touchdown pass to Jay Long for the 35-16 lead with 3:52 to play.

Long scored his second touchdown on a 22-yard run to finish with 58 receiving yards and 36 rushing yards.

West Carroll's defense only gave up 73 rushing yards to Booker T. Washington led by Seth Edward's seven total tackles, including a tackle for loss.

Next Friday night, West Carroll will be looking for a better performance than two weeks ago when the War Eagles were shutout in a game that determined the Region 7-1A champion. Peabody needs four wins to win their fourth straight state championship.

Peabody hasn't been eliminated in the second round of the postseason since 2016. West Carroll is trying to make its third straight quarterfinal appearance.

Heartworks is Closing After 34 Years

McKENZIE (November 2021) — Linda Coleman is closing the doors to Heartworks in downtown McKenzie. After 34 years of serving the public with framing, home decor, painting classes, and house painting, Linda is retiring.

People drove for miles to shop at Heartworks, adjacent to the Park Theatre in downtown McKenzie. Best known for her framing services, Linda said she had many loyal customers, some of whom drove for miles, for her framing services.

She said she has had a great run, but its time to retire. She has framed many photographs, paintings, diplomas, and newspaper articles. She has also framed a National Guard uniform, turkey and duck as some of the oddities.

Keith and Linda Coleman purchased the business from Becky Eason and opened on April 14, 1987 at a location behind Carroll Bank and Trust-McKenzie. In 1989 or 90, they moved to Cedar Street adjacent to the theatre. They bought the building from Joyce Lunsford, who operated a Christian bookstore there. Through the years, the building served as a feed store, shoe store, and a men's store.

Today, the amount of inventory is slim and the fixtures are being sold piece by piece. The building must be empty by the end of November.

Through the years, Linda operated the store while husband, Keith operated Coleman Painting. Originally, the business sold crafts, picture frames, house paints, and antiques. Keith has retired and at the end of November, Linda will join the ranks of the retired.

The Colemans have four children - Gina King, Patricia Coleman, Mike Coleman, and the late Deborah Null, along with 10 grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

"I appreciate the many customers through the years," said Linda. "I will miss being on the (downtown) square and seeing what goes on."

To Linda's Facebook friends, she is known as a wordsmith, who chronicles her daily morning walks through McKenzie. She said that might continue, even though she will not report to work.

The new building owners are from the Memphis area and have not disclosed their intended use for the building, said Linda.

McKenzie High Students Attend Rising Star Leadership Conference

Andrew Cole and Shannan Cheney-Andrew represented McKenzie High School at the Rising Star Leadership Conference on November 4-5, 2021 at the University of Tennessee at Martin.

The purpose of the RisingStar Leadership Summit is to give student leaders across West Tennessee a chance to develop leadership skills and learn the importance of community involvement.

The RisingStar program is a part of the West-Star Leadership program through the University of Tennessee at Martin. Both programs work to shape the future of West Tennessee.

Duane Patrick is National Finalist in QuestBridge

Duane Patrick, a McKenzie High School student, is a national finalist in the QuestBridge National College Match Program.

This program matches students through an application process with the nation's best colleges and the student is considered for early admission and a full four-year scholarship from the college.

Through this program, Duane has an interview with Massachusetts Institute of Technology this week.

Currently, MIT's acceptance rate is 4.1%, which means only accepts around 4 applicants for every 100 people that apply. A 4.1% acceptance rate means that MIT is extremely competitive to get into. Students need excellent grades, test scores, essays, and letters of recommendation to even be considered.

West Carroll Hosts Middle School All-Star Football Game

West Carroll hosted the Centennial Bank West Tennessee All-Star Game on Saturday, November 6. Nearly 80 players from middle schools all over West Tennessee were invited and participated in the contest.

Carroll County was well represented with 13 players on the All-Star Teams. McKenzie: Tim Arline, Ethan Batton, and Ryan Toombs; Huntingdon: Broox Bennett and Silas Sharp; West Carroll: Qumarion Patterson, Ben Pruitt, Evan Norman, and Robert Wilkes; Hol-low Rock/Bruceton: Seth Thomas, Thatcher Crews, Brady Roberts, and Remington Turner.

The South team won the contest 30-7 with most of their points coming off of North team turnovers. The North team got on the board in the second half with a 90+ yard kickoff return.

Following the game, all of the participants received All-Star plaques courtesy of Centennial Bank, who sponsored the event. Three MVP awards were given. The Defensive MVP went to McKenzie's Ethan Batton. The Offensive MVP was North Henderson's Ross McDaniel. The Overall MVP went to Amaron Arnold from Lexington.
