Dillingham Indicted for Misappropriation of Funds

An investigation by the Tennessee Comptroller's Office has resulted in the indictment of Teresa Dillingham, a former probation officer with Supervisory Services, Inc. (SSI), after investigators determined she misappropriated at least $17,526.62 in court costs and fees collected from probationers. Dillingham provided probation services to misdemeanor offenders in Carroll and Weakley counties. Between July 2023 and August 2024, she accepted payments from probationers but failed to remit them to the appropriate court clerks. Dillingham concealed the misappropriation by falsely updating probationers' records to indicate they had completed their supervision, even though their court payments had not been received by the courts. As a result, some

TCAP Tailgate Celebration Brings Fun, Games to West Carroll Elementary

West Carroll Elementary School recently hosted a TCAP Tailgate Celebration to recognize and reward students for their hard work during state testing. The event was designed to help students relax and de-stress after completing the Tennessee Comprehensive Assessment Program (TCAP).

Teachers set up fun tailgate stations filled with drinks, snacks, sidewalk chalk and bubbles. After enjoying their treats, students rotated through a variety of activity stations at the park. Games and activities included ladder toss, volleyball, disc golf, soccer, jumbo Jenga, cornhole, matball, football, softball/baseball, hula-hoops and jump ropes—offering something fun for everyone. Students also were able to play at the Trezevant City Park.

April Gonzales, Special Education teacher at WCES, emphasized the value of the celebration, “It’s important that we remember students may face pressure from standardized tests, and acknowledging their efforts is crucial. Celebrations like these reinforce positive learning experiences and encourage future academic efforts.”

Sixth-grade Math teacher Marcia Miller added, “The tailgate reward party was a well-deserved celebration. WCES faculty and staff want our students to know their effort has not gone unnoticed.”

West Carroll Elementary extends sincere thanks to the WCES PTO and West Carroll Central Office for supporting the event with snacks and supplies, making the celebration a memorable success.

Dental Services Available at Carroll Health Department

HUNTINGDON — Dental appointments are now available at the Carroll County Health Department. The dental services available are comprehensive care, including exams, x-rays, cleanings, fillings, extractions, and emergency care for uninsured adults and children and TennCare members who would otherwise not be able to receive this important care.

Tooth decay is one of the most common chronic diseases throughout the United States, including Tennessee. Tooth decay and gum disease have been linked to other chronic diseases such as diabetes, heart disease and adverse outcomes in pregnancy. Oral health is key in determining an individual’s quality of life. Poor oral health can adversely impact an individual’s nutrition, self-esteem, school performance, ability to obtain employment, and school and work attendance.

For more information regarding dental services, contact the Carroll County Health Department at 731-986-1990. For a list of all services offered at local health departments, go to <http://health.tn.gov/local>.

probationers were burdened with unnecessary hardships, including duplicate court costs and fee payments and unwarranted violations.

In addition to the misappropriated funds, investigators identified $940 in questionable payments that were not remitted to the courts but could not be definitively traced to Dillingham's personal use.

Dillingham, a McKenzie resident, resigned from SSI on August 6, 2024.

Based upon this investigation, in May 2025, the Carroll County Grand Jury indicted Teresa Suzanne Dillingham on one count of theft over $10,000, one count of official misconduct, and one count of forgery over $10,000.

"It's vital that courts and their probation service providers maintain strong controls over how funds are collected and remitted," said Comptroller Mumpower. "When payments are accepted without issuing receipts, and deposits are delayed, the opportunity for fraud increases."

district office will be replaced and a new, larger culvert installed.

The board also approved a resolution to accept the one-time teacher bonus of $2,000 included in the Education Freedom Act. The district has 97 staff members who will qualify for the funds.

Several budget amendments were approved, reallocating funds to be used for instructional supplies, Special Education equipment and staff development.

Also approved was the adoption of science textbooks for the next eight years. Supervisor of Instruction Ladona Herin reported K-8 science teachers chose Savvas (formerly Pearson), while high school physical science, biology, chemistry and physics would use McGraw Hill materials. She noted the shift from six-year to eight-year cycles and that all books are now "consumable," meaning each student must be issued their own copy. Herin estimated a total cost of around $200,000 based on a similar set of math books adopted two years ago.

The board heard from high school counselor Ashley Lowe and one of two students who attended the Student Congress on Policies in Education (SCOPE) conference at Belmont University in March. Junior Ryan Toombs thanked the board for the opportunity and spoke briefly about his experience in a competitive debate and learning about how school boards operate. Carli Beeler, also a junior, was unable to attend in person due to a softball game, but Lowe relayed a written statement thanking the board.

The board approved a field trip for six MHS Beta Club members to Walt Disney World in June.

Director of Schools Dr. Justin Barden reported that the Teacher Appreciation Banquet the prior evening had been a success, with almost 175 teachers, staff, board members and guests in attendance.

Dr. Barden thanked student school board representative Baylee Barden (his daughter) for her commitment as her graduation approaches. He announced that next year's representative would be Gracie Aird.

He noted that materials for the roofing project at MHS had arrived and work would begin this week.

The meeting adjourned after 30 minutes.

Board members Chad Brown and Spiros Roditis were absent.

permit (no more than $300 annually) or an unlimited annual permit for $300. There would also be a required distance away from a brick-and-mortar restaurant.

City Attorney Beau Pemberton stated that if a food truck did not have the permit, the owner would be cited in city court with a fine of $50.

In other business, the Council approved a $24,425 expense to perform exploratory work and simple repairs to a damaged culvert adjacent to Save-A-Lot and the Pockets Convenience Store. Thermocasting, LLC would perform the clean-out and inspection.

During department reports, the Fire Department received 58 calls for April with 34 being medical-based. The Police Department received 1650 calls for the month with one officer in the academy.

The Parks and Recreation Department is busy with league sports and is preparing for the opening of the splash pad on Memorial Day weekend. On June 14, the Tennessee National Guard will begin working at Mulberry Park. This includes a temporary shutdown of Locust Avenue so it can be rerouted from the center of the soccer complex to the outer perimeter.

The next regularly scheduled meeting of the McKenzie City Council is June 12 at 6 p.m.

Disaster Response Exercises Held Throughout Tennessee

NASHVILLE (May 7) — The Tennessee Military Department, in conjunction with the Tennessee Emergency Management Agency and more than 30 other partnering agencies, is conducting a disaster response exercise throughout Tennessee, May 12-18. Named "Vigilant Guard 2025," the exercise gives participants the opportunity to activate and employ their response plans to improve mission command, relationships, and interoperability among federal, state, and local agencies.

Co-sponsored by the United States Northern Command and the National Guard Bureau, the exercise allows National Guardsmen from Tennessee, along with those from Georgia, Mississippi, South Carolina, Texas, Utah, and Wyoming, the ability to command a statewide response to a major disaster in coordination with the Tennessee and Mississippi Emergency Management Agencies.

"These exercises, where we operate jointly and with various emergency responders, are crucial to our organization's readiness," said Maj. Gen. Warner Ross, Tennessee's Adjutant General. "The more we work alongside one another, the more we fine-tune our policies and procedures. Building these relationships are vital to our effectiveness, and continuing to practice what we do will make all of us much better when it's time to respond to the real thing."

More than 30 agencies are participating, including the U.S. Coast Guard, Shelby County Emergency Management Agency, and the Nashville Fire Department's Helicopter Aquatic Rescue Team. These agencies will be participating in training events at sites across Tennessee to include Baptist Memorial Hospital-Union City, Cleece's Ferry Boat Ramp in Nashville, Fort Memphis Fire Department Training Center, Milan's Volunteer Training Site, Millington-Memphis Airport, Paris Landing State Park, and others.

This year's exercise scenario is based on a 7.5 magnitude earthquake occurring along the New Madrid Seismic Zone near Tipton County. Exercise participants will work together to respond to numerous situations and conduct search and rescue, critical site security, and infrastructure failure response. All events will be coordinated through the Tennessee Emergency Management Agency and local emergency agencies.

Due to the exercise, the public may notice a higher military presence in some areas throughout the state, primarily Davidson, Hardin, Madison, Rutherford, and Shelby counties. The Tennessee Air National Guard will be employing an MQ-9 "Reaper," which is a Remotely Piloted Aircraft System that will be flying over the exercise sites to perform damage assessments and route reconnaissance as part of the overall exercise. The Tennessee Military Department will also host media during certain events to demonstrate capabilities.

More Than Three Million Tennesseans Now Have REAL ID

The Tennessee Department of Safety and Homeland Security, TDOSHS, announced that more than 3 million Tennesseans have obtained a REAL ID ahead of the federal implementation date, May 7, 2025.

Since the TDOSHS began issuing REAL IDs on July 1, 2019, they have issued 3,009,407 compliant credentials. The TDOSHS issued 358,852, or nearly 12%, of all REAL IDs in the past three months alone. There are approximately 5.8 million licensed drivers in Tennessee. Of those, 1,860,265 have chosen not to obtain a REAL ID, and 960,209 are currently in the renewal cycle and have not yet made a selection.

"Reaching this milestone reflects the commitment of our Driver Services team across the state," said Commissioner Jeff Long. "From front-counter staff to back-office personnel, our employees have worked diligently to process REAL ID applications and serve the public in a timely, professional manner. Their efforts helped us get as many Tennesseans ready as possible before the federal implementation date."

REAL ID credentials are now required for certain federal purposes—such as boarding commercial flights or entering some federal facilities. However, there is no cutoff for when a Tennessee resident can apply for one.

Assistant Commissioner Russell Shoup praised the Driver Services Division's multi-year effort and encouraged the public to continue taking advantage of the program. "REAL ID has been a long-term initiative, and this milestone is the result of years of planning, outreach, and public service. While many Tennesseans made the decision early, others may choose to get a REAL ID later—and that's just fine. Our Driver Services Centers remain ready to assist anyone who needs one."

REAL IDs are available at any Driver Services Center. Residents with a current Tennessee credential can also apply for a REAL ID at a participating County Clerk partner. To apply, individuals must bring documentation proving U.S. citizenship or legal presence, their Social Security number, and two proofs of Tennessee residency. A full list of required documents and location finder are available at tnrealid.gov.

The students also make site visits to area industries and companies. Mrs. Dyer invited Rotary members to visit the high school to learn more about the CTE programs.

Tennessee: Gasoline Prices Rise Slightly During Week

TENNESSEE (May 12) — Average gasoline prices in Tennessee increased 1.7 cents per gallon in the last week, averaging $2.70/g today, according to GasBuddy’s survey of 3,821 stations in Tennessee. Prices in Tennessee are 0.7 cents per gallon higher than a month ago and stand 51.0 cents per gallon lower than a year ago. The national average price of diesel has decreased 2.8 cents in the last week and stands at $3.473 per gallon, nearly the lowest tally since 2021. According to GasBuddy price reports, the cheapest station in Tennessee was priced at $2.34/g yesterday while the most expensive was $4.11/g, a difference of $1.77/g. The lowest price in the state yesterday was $2.34/g while the highest was $4.11/g, a difference of $1.77/g. The national average price of gasoline decreased 4.2 cents per gallon in the last week, averaging $3.08/g today. The national average is down 8.6 cents per gallon from a month ago and stands 50.6 cents per gallon lower than a year ago, according to GasBuddy data compiled from more than 11 million weekly price reports covering over 150,000 gas stations across the country. Historical gasoline prices in Tennessee and the national average going back ten years: May 12, 2024: $3.21/g (U.S. Average: $3.58/g) May 12, 2023: $3.15/g (U.S. Average: $3.51/g) May 12, 2022: $4.17/g (U.S. Average: $4.43/g) May 12, 2021: $2.84/g (U.S. Average: $3.01/g) May 12, 2020: $1.58/g (U.S. Average: $1.85/g) May 12, 2019: $2.55/g (U.S. Average: $2.85/g) May 12, 2018: $2.61/g (U.S. Average: $2.87/g) May 12, 2017: $2.08/g (U.S. Average: $2.33/g) May 12, 2016: $2.04/g (U.S. Average: $2.20/g) May 12, 2015: $2.40/g (U.S. Average: $2.66/g) “Even with oil prices jumping more than $4 per barrel compared to last week, the national average price of gasoline has resumed its decline as refineries wrap up seasonal maintenance and prepare to boost output,” said Patrick De Haan, head of petroleum analysis at GasBuddy. “Forty states have seen average gasoline prices fall over the last week, while just ten have seen increases—most notably on the West Coast, where another refinery fire in Northern California once again disrupted gasoline production. As we approach Memorial Day, gas prices may see some minor fluctuations, but for now, I don’t expect any significant changes to the national average, with prices staying near their lowest seasonal level since 2021.” GasBuddy is the authoritative voice for gas prices and the only source for station-level data. GasBuddy’s survey updates 288 times every day from the most diverse list of sources covering nearly 150,000 stations nationwide, the most comprehensive and up-to-date in the country. HUNKER DOWN WITH KES
We Are All Running Out Of Time

I try my darndest to write a graduation story every May. For a myriad of reasons. Most all of them revolve around the high school seniors who are marching into the auditorium, gym, football stadium, etc. one last time to the stick-in-your-head-for-ever-if-you-are-not-careful sounds of “Pomp and Circumstance.” I want to share my congratulations. Applaud as they pass by in a metaphorical way. Be one more in a long line to wish them well and remind them of the unending possibilities that lie ahead. Dream big is the universal theme on graduation day! It may seem like a whirlwind to them. A crossroad for sure, but where does it lead? I’ve heard it described as a celebration with an unsure ending. And one thing has always perplexed me about this solemn ceremony from time immemorial: are we graduating “from” something, or “to” something that hasn’t taken place yet? My beautiful Addison Grace is walking in with the Class of 2025. I don’t need to be rattling on like I usually do. This group deserves the very best graduation gift I can muster up. And if these seniors are worthy of the diplomas, they either are holding or about to be handed, they will realize the rest of this little tale is not about me at all. It’s about them! This May marks the 60th anniversary of my high school graduation. You could buy a dozen eggs for 50 cents in 1965. A new car was less than three thousand dollars. A hamburger at Frank’s Dairy Bar cost 40 cents. I walked down the aisle with Charlotte Melton by my side. Buddy Wiggleton had whispered to me just as we started in, “Are there any words to this music?” as “Pomp and Circumstance” blared out of the loudspeakers. I half listened to the litany of speakers. I did sneak a peep around at as many of my classmates as I could. Most of us had gone to school together for the past 12 years. Was this the end of it all? We didn’t have a graduation dance. Or even a party. We did go out to Carroll Lake and hang out for a while. But not everyone was there. We obviously had never graduated before. I guess we were too caught up with “all the possibilities” of life, to ponder on the here and now.... And life did absolutely, positively get between us for sure. But it never separated us. I don’t believe a single day has gone by in the past 60 years that I didn’t think of somebody in that class. Shoot, if Chubby Checker came on TV singing, “Let’s do the twist,” LaRenda Bradfield started dancing in my mind. As the clock wound down in my first State Championship football game as a coach, I was thinking about Bobby Brewer, John Ingram, Don Melton, and the rest of us running those gosh awful laps after practice our freshman year. I went back for our ten-year class reunion. We jumped right in like it was the day after we graduated. And then it was 20 years. And 30 and 40 flashed by quicker than you could ever imagine! None of those speakers told us on graduation night how fast life goes by. No one said you’d better depend on your family and friends...and not so much on world leaders or your bank account. I don’t remember our speaker reminding us to pay attention to the small, everyday things. Love much. Laugh often. Give freely. Care about the little people. It is important to me that our class holds a 60-year reunion. And it would be nice if someone gave us a dinner. Or honored seating at the homecoming game. Or maybe even a front-page group photo in the McKenzie Banner. But none of that would really matter. I want to hug LaRenda’s neck (which I’m not sure I’ve ever done) till she can hardly breathe and tell her that I love her. I want to hug James Hastings’ neck (which for sure I’ve never done) and tell him I love him. I want to ask Bobby King if he remembers Deake Bradley making those two game-winning foul shots in the district championship game against Paris. I want to hear Yogi play a lick or two on his banjo. I want to laugh with Ruth Ann Wiley over how our parents tried to get us “together.” I want to ask Emily Young about her older sister. And I’d like to know if Suzie Cozart remembers her sixth birthday party. I want to cry with the class one last time because of the seats among us that are forever empty. I wish I had told Buddy I loved him before it was too late. And Pam, Jane, Reggie, Grayline, Beverly, Larry, Charlotte, and the list goes on way too long. I promise you, they are far more than just names on this sheet of paper. By any way you want to measure it, the Class of 1965 graduated to something.... God Speed to All, Kes

THE WIT AND WISDOM OF DAVID JOHNSON
The Face of Addiction

PEOPLE WITH AN ADDICTION ARE some of the kindest, meanest, most truthful, most deceitful, gentlest, crudest, quietest, loudest, hardest working, laziest, most giving, most selfish, most loving, most heartless, most caring, most uncaring, most humble, most prideful people on the planet, which simply means they are the extreme versions of ourselves because we all can have any and all of those traits at any given time. But even though they are a mirror of ourselves and should make us say “there but for the grace of God go I,” what people tend to do is vilify those who struggle with an addiction—shaming them, condemning them, making fun of them, marginalizing them, shunning them, telling them to “just say no.” None of which helps. THERE ARE NO PAT ANSWERS for overcoming an addiction or in dealing with someone who has an addiction because of the countless, multi-faceted factors involved. It’s fascinating to me how much people think they know about addiction when they actually know nothing about addiction. While there are no simple answers to the complex problem of addiction, THERE ARE SOME TRUTHS I’d like to share: TRUTH #1 – If you’re struggling with an addiction and trying to step out of that black, hopeless life, YOU CANNOT DO IT ON YOUR OWN. How long have you been trying to do that? Can’t you see that you’re not strong enough, smart enough, or wise enough to find and follow the path to wellness and wholeness? YOU NEED HELP, and that help can, and should, take many forms, as in: • developing an intimate relationship with God • Alcoholics/Narcotics Anonymous • Celebrate Recovery • a licensed counselor with experience in treating addictions • a healthy social support system TRUTH #2 – If someone you love is lost in the labyrinth of addiction YOU CANNOT SAVE THEM. How many times and ways have you tried and seen your efforts go for naught? Countless times, right? You have to accept that YOU ARE POWERLESS to make them change. Rather than focusing on your loved one you need to focus on yourself and your feelings of guilt, shame, regret, anger, or resentment (or all the above). Those helpful resources I mentioned for the addict are also excellent resources for you, except that Alanon is a 12-step program specifically for the family members. TRUTH #3 – THE FACE OF ADDICTION is the face of your neighbor, your fellow church member, your fellow employee, your boss, your child’s school teacher, even yourself. ADDICTION IS NO RESPECTOR OF PERSONS. It crosses all socio-economic strata. No one ever made it a goal to become an addict or alcoholic. But step-by-step, slowly but surely, they headed down that road until one day their lives became completely unmanageable. Sadly, there will never come a time when our world is free from the scourge of addictions. We are too human, too driven for instant gratification, too influenced by the charms of Satan. BUT INDIVIDUAL BATTLES CAN BE WON; they can be won “one day at a time.” * Taken from The Wit and Wisdom of David Johnson, Volume 11: The Hairy Catfish Caper.

Huntingdon Police Reports

Drug Violation — According to a report by Officer Malachi Arline on April 23, he observed a gray Chrysler 300 speeding in a 30-mph zone on Buena Vista Road. He conducted a traffic stop, and when approaching the vehicle, he could smell a strong odor of marijuana. The driver, Dorian Williams, 23, admitted to having marijuana. In the car was a small plastic bag of marijuana, 200 mg of THC-infused syrup, and a small blunt. He was arrested and on the way to Carroll County Jail, he admitted to having two additional bags of marijuana in his pants and a bag of psilocybin mushrooms.

Aggravated Assault — According to a report by Officer Tony King on May 2, he responded to an assault at the Huntingdon Liquor Store. Trezevant Water System Water Quality Report for 2024

Is my drinking water safe?

Yes, our water meets all of EPA's health standards. We have conducted numerous tests for over 80 contaminants that may be in drinking water. As you'll see in the chart, we only detected nine of these contaminants. We found all of these contaminants at safe levels.

What is the source of my water?

Your water, which is ground water, comes from a tertiary sand aquifer. Our goal is to protect our water from contaminants and we are working with the State to determine the vulnerability of our water source to potential contamination. The Tennessee Department of Environment and Conservation (TDEC) has prepared a Source Water Assessment Program (SWAP) Report for the untreated water sources serving water to this water system. The SWAP Report assesses the susceptibility of untreated water sources to potential contamination. To ensure safe drinking water, all public water systems treat and routinely test their water. Water sources have been rated as reasonably susceptible, moderately susceptible or slightly susceptible based on geologic factors and human activities in the vicinity of the water source. The Trezevant Water System sources rated as reasonably susceptible to potential contamination.

An explanation of Tennessee's Source Water Assessment Program, the Source Water Assessment summaries, susceptibility scorings and the overall TDEC report to EPA can be viewed online at <https://www.tn.gov/environment/program-areas/wr/water-resources/water-quality/source-water-assessment.html> or you may contact the Water System to obtain copies of specific assessments.

A wellhead protection plan is available for your review by contacting Joe Waldrup at the Trezevant Water System between 7 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. weekdays.

Why are there contaminants in my water?

Drinking water, including bottled water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that water poses a health risk. More information about contaminants and potential health effects can be obtained by calling the Environmental Protection Agency's Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

Este informe contiene información muy importante. Tradúscalo o hable con alguien que lo entienda bien.

For more information about your drinking water, please call Joe Waldrup at 731-669-4831.

How can I get involved?

Our Water Board meets on the second Tuesday of every month at 6:30 p.m. at City Hall. Please feel free to participate in these meetings.

Is our water system meeting other rules that govern our operations?

The State and EPA require us to test and report on our water on a regular basis to ensure its safety. We have met all of these requirements. Results of unregulated contaminant analysis are available upon request. We want you to know that we pay attention to all the rules.

Other information

The sources of drinking water (both tap water and bottled water) include rivers, lakes, streams, ponds, reservoirs, springs, and wells. As water travels over the surface of the land or through the ground, it dissolves naturally-occurring minerals and, in some cases, radioactive material, and can pick up substances resulting from the presence of animals or from human activity.

Contaminants that may be present in source water:

- Microbial contaminants, such as viruses and bacteria, which may come from sewage treatment plants, septic systems, agricultural livestock operations, and wildlife.

- Inorganic contaminants, such as salts and metals, which can be naturally-occurring or result from urban storm water runoff, industrial, or domestic wastewater discharges, oil and gas production, mining, or farming.

- Pesticides and herbicides, which may come from a variety of sources such as agriculture, urban storm water runoff, and residential uses.

- Organic chemical contaminants, including synthetic and volatile organic chemicals, which are by-products of industrial processes and petroleum production, and can also come from gas stations, urban storm water runoff, and septic systems.

- Radioactive contaminants, which can be naturally-occurring or be the result of oil and gas production and mining activities.

In order to ensure that tap water is safe to drink, EPA and the Tennessee Department of Environment and Conservation prescribe regulations which limit the amount of certain contaminants in water provided by public water systems. FDA regulations establish limits for contaminants in bottled water which must provide the same protection for public health.

Do I Need To Take Special Precautions?

Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general population. Immuno-compromised persons such as persons with cancer undergoing chemotherapy, persons who have undergone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune system disorders, some elderly, and infants can be particularly at risk from infections. These people should seek advice about not only their drinking water, but food preparation, personal hygiene, and precautions in handling infants and pets from their health care providers. EPA/CDC guidelines on appropriate means to lessen the risk of infection by Cryptosporidium and other microbiological contaminants are available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

Lead in Drinking Water

If present, elevated levels of lead can cause serious health problems, especially for pregnant women and young children. Lead in drinking water is primarily from materials and components associated with service lines and home plumbing. Trezevant Water System is responsible for providing high quality drinking water, but cannot control the variety of materials used in plumbing components. When your water has been sitting for several hours, you can minimize the potential for lead exposure by flushing your tap for 30 seconds to 2 minutes before using water for drinking or cooking. If you are concerned about lead in your water, you may wish to have your water tested. Information on lead in drinking water, testing methods, and steps you can take to minimize exposure is available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline 800-426-4791 or at <http://www.epa.gov/safewater/lead>.

Water System Security

Following the events of September 2001, we realize that our customers are concerned about the security of their drinking water. We urge the public to report any suspicious activities at any utility facilities, including treatment plants, tanks, fire hydrants, etc. to 731-669-4831.

Think before you flush!

Flushing unused or expired medicines can be harmful to your drinking water. Properly disposing of unused or expired medication helps protect you and the environment. Keep medications out of Tennessee's waterways by disposing in one of our permanent pharmaceutical take back bins. There are nearly 100 take back bins located across the state, to find a convenient location please visit: <http://tdeonline.tn.gov/rtakeback/>.

Water Quality Data

What does this chart mean?

- MCLG - Maximum Contaminant Level Goal, or the level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MCLGs allow for a margin of safety.
- MCL - Maximum Contaminant Level, or the highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking water. MCLs are set as close to the MCLGs as feasible using the best available treatment technology. To understand the possible health effects described for many regulated constituents, a person would have to drink 2 liters of water every day at the MCL level for a lifetime to have a one-in-a-million chance of having the described health effect.
- MRDL - Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level or MRDL: The highest level of a disinfectant allowed in drinking water. There is convincing evidence that addition of a disinfectant is necessary for the control of microbial contaminants.
- MRDLG - Maximum residual disinfectant level goal. The level of a drinking water disinfectant below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MRDLGs do not reflect the benefits of the use of disinfectants to control microbial contaminants.
- AL - Action Level, or the concentration of a contaminant which, when exceeded, triggers treatment or other requirements which a water system must follow.
- Below Detection Level (BDL) - Laboratory analysis indicates that the contaminant is not present at a level that can be detected.
- Non-Defects (ND) - Laboratory analysis indicates that the contaminant is not present.
- Parts per million (ppm) or Milligrams per liter (mg/l) - Explained as a relation to time and money as one part per million corresponds to one minute in two years or a single penny in $10,000.
- Parts per billion (ppb) or Micrograms per liter - Explained as a relation to time and money as one part per billion corresponds to one minute in 2,000 years, or a single penny in $10,000,000.
- Picocuries per liter (pCi/L) - picocuries per liter is a measure of the radioactivity in water.
- RTCR - Revised Total Coliform Rule. This rule went into effect on April 1, 2016 and replaces the MCL for total coliform with a Treatment Technique Trigger for a system assessment.
- TT - Treatment Technique, or a required process intended to reduce the level of a contaminant in drinking water.

Iron: Iron occurs naturally in our raw water and occasionally accumulates in the distribution system. Iron shows up as "red" or "rusty" water at your tap. Although you do not want to drink water that is not clear, iron is not considered to be a hazard to your health. The aesthetic limit for iron is 0.3 ppm.

¹During the most recent round of Lead and Copper testing, only 0 out of 10 households sampled contained concentrations exceeding the action level.

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!
