City Employees Eligible for Discounted Bethel Tuition

MCKENZIE (April 22) — Officials at Bethel University announce the university and the City of McKenzie signed a memorandum of understanding to offer full-time city employees a 25% tuition discount in its College of Professional Studies.

“The City of McKenzie is grateful for our long-standing partnership with Bethel University. For many years, Bethel and the City of McKenzie have worked hand-in-hand sharing sports fields and planning city-wide and Bethel festivals and events. Bethel University is such an anchor and attribute to our community, and this Memorandum of Understanding between Bethel and the City to assist our employees in obtaining academic degrees is a huge gift to all our McKenzie City full-time employees. This discounted tuition rate will enable them to obtain various degrees and certifications on higher levels which will enhance their personal and professional development,” said McKenzie Mayor Jill Holland. “This generous gesture from President Butler and the University is greatly appreciated by all of us, and is one more spoke in the wheel which strengthens and unites the connection between Bethel and our community.”

“Bethel University is extremely fortunate to have its main campus in McKenzie, Tennessee. Our relationship with the City of McKenzie and their employees has always been great! Bethel University hopes this will be another way to say ‘Thank You’ to the city employees who support us so much on a daily basis. We hope this will help them achieve more professional development,” said Bethel University President, Dr. Walter Butler.

Bethel University’s College of Professional Studies programs are designed for working adults who need flexibility to earn a degree. Enrolled students can be considered fulltime while taking one class at a time, one night a week, either online or in a classroom setting.

Bethel University is a private, not-for-profit university affiliated with the Cumberland Presbyterian Church located in McKenzie, Tenn. The College of Professional Studies is home to all of Bethel University’s adult degree programs, offering both on-campus and online courses.

Cancer Bake Auction Raises $18,819

MCKENZIE — The final total for the proceeds from the Carroll County Relay For Life Bake Auction totals $18,819, according to Sherrye Washburn, chairman of the annual radio auction to benefit the American Cancer Society.

Each year, local cooks and artisans prepare items to be auctioned over five days on WHDM Radio. The proceeds from the donated items benefit the local Relay For Life.

The auction started in the small studio of WHDM 1440 in downtown McKenzie several decades ago. It has expanded through the years and is now hosted by the McKenzie Church of Christ, where food items are spread over many tables. In the past, the late Jerome Crawford and Dr. John Vandyc of Paris would bid on Catherine Crawford’s homemade chocolate turtles. The bid would exceed $1,000, at times. Several items reached several hundred dollars this year.

over the 12 year term. Jim Crone of TRANE in Memphis made a presentation to the Board in March and guaranteed the school system's savings on utilities will exceed the cost of the project. The cost is $559,875 and the program savings is estimated at $581,815. The program's interest rate is .5 percent. The project includes interior and exterior lighting at the three school sites and the Board of Education office. A few exterior parking lots are excluded because the existing lighting is owned by Carroll County Electric and field lighting. The project must be approved by ESSI for funding. Dr. Jonathan Kee, director of schools, complimented Rhonda Pritchard on her 35 years of teaching service. She is retiring and is now serving as a math teacher at Huntingdon Middle School. The board acknowledged the employment of Brittany Lay as a Huntingdon Middle School teacher. Trips were approved for HHS Volleyball to Cape Girardeau, on July 19-21, and Huntingdon Middle School and HHS bands to travel to St. Louis-Six Flags on May 21 and 22. The Board had in-person HHS student presentations from Mustang Mentors, Future Farmers of America students, and SCOPE attendees. Aden Hutcherson, Paridhi Patel and Wyatt Forbes spoke about attending SCOPE this year. students from across the state to discuss current topics in education. The SCOPE event is for students to simulate being on the school board and to make decisions applicable to the students. The 2022 topics were: (1) The school calendar shall be changed to a year-round schedule. (2) Students shall only be permitted to park on school property if they meet certain criteria. (3) Uniforms shall be worn by all students. (4) No student shall be permitted to leave campus during the lunch period. FFA students plan to build an environmental garden at the intersection of Cox and Hale streets. It will be fed by an natural spring of water. Speaking for the FFA were Andrew Cotton, Sydney Vinson and Maggie Belle Logan. Dr. Kee said the environmental garden will beautify what is generally a mud hole. The water was tested and contains no chlorine, so it is not city water, said Kee. Mustang Mentors as high school students who work to build character among students throughout the HSSD system. Ben Livingston, Kaylan Belew, Campbell Cary and Aden Hutcherson spoke on the group's behalf. Henry County recorded a low rate of 3.4 percent, down from 3.7 one month earlier and 4.7 one year earlier. From a labor force of 14,231, 484 were unemployed. Weakley County recorded a low rate of 2.6 percent, down from 2.7 percent one month earlier and 4.1 percent one year earlier. From a labor force of 15,507, 404 persons were unemployed. The United States unemployment rate 3.6 percent, down from 6.0 percent one year earlier. In Tennessee, the rate decreased in 92 counties, increased in two, and remained the same in one. The county with the lowest unemployment was Moore with a rate of 1.9 percent followed by Williamson County also at 1.9 percent. Cocke County and Perry County had the highest rates at 5.2 percent.

Budget

Budget Chairman Darrell Ridgely said the proposed raise is for all county employees, not countywide elected officials, who were granted a five-percent raise by the state of Tennessee. Ridgely said, if approved, the three-percent raise will match last year's raise at three-percent. The retroactive bonuses will also be granted to the families of three county employees who died of COVID during the fiscal year. Frank Rezac, Jr., 55, of Huntingdon died February 16, 2022. Randy Butler, 60, of Huntingdon, died February 16, 2022. Deann Spellings, 39, of Huntingdon, died November 8, 2021. Rezac was supervisor of the Carroll County Jail; Butler worked with the Carroll County Highway Department; and Spellings was the principal at Carroll Academy. The Budget Committee also voted to grant the Carroll County Rescue Squad a total of $60,000 to construct an addition to its headquarters on Chickasaw Street in Huntingdon. The proposal now heads to the full Commission for approval. The proposed construction is for a 42 by 60-foot addition, costing $100,000. Kurt Taylor, captain, said the Rescue Squad's 'Rescue 1' truck is too large to fit in the building. Presently it is housed at the Carroll County District 1 Fire Station in Huntingdon. The truck responds to automobile crashes, search and rescues, water searches and other events. It also has a cascade air-refilling system for the firefighters' self-contained breathing apparatus. Presently, the county's 'air van' is out of service and the Rescue Squad's 'Rescue 1' has been utilized to refill firefighters' tanks at fire scenes. McKenzie and Huntingdon fire departments have their own cascade refill systems at the respective fire departments, and McKenzie, Huntingdon, and McMoresville fire departments have extrication equipment to extricate persons in automobile accidents. The Rescue Squad responds to everywhere in the county except McKenzie, which has all the equipment and its own rescue team. The Rescue Squad also transports bodies to the state's Medical Examiner for the county of Carroll.

Campbell

Dusty King, the co-counsel for the McKenzie Industrial Board along with attorney Michael Carter filed a motion for summary judgment, which was granted by Chancellor Vicki Hoover last Tuesday. King said the hearing was conducted electronically over Zoom with Chancellor Hoover, Clerk and Master Kenneth Todd, IDB Executive Director Monica Heath, King and Carter in attendance. Blaine Campbell of Campbell Arms did not attend nor did he have any legal representatives. At the heart of the IDB's request for summary judgment was the fact Campbell's third-party complaint against the IDB did not have merit, especially after the arms manufacturer lost a case filed against it by the Tennessee Economic and Community Development. McKenzie Industrial Development Corporation still has another legal complaint against Campbell Arms for non-payment of rents and a loan. King said the IDB will assess how to proceed with that complaint after winning summary judgment last week. On September 2, 2021, Chancellor Hoover ruled in favor of the Tennessee ECD requiring Campbell Arms to repay a Fast Track incentive grant. The complaint indicated Campbell failed to create 50 new jobs in Carroll County. Chancellor Hoover ruled in favor of the state of Tennessee, requiring Campbell Arms, LLC to refund $200,000 plus $47,016 in interest for breach of a performance contract. In the year 2017, Campbell, LLC agreed to create, fill, and maintain 50 new jobs at its Hill Road facility in the McKenzie (Airport)

Industrial Park-South. At that time, an attorney for Campbell Arms indicated Campbell Arms was unable to fulfill its obligation to create the jobs because the landlord, the McKenzie Industrial Development Corporation (IDB), evicted Campbell from the building. The attorney contended the McKenzie IDB served as a hostile landlord. The company then relocated outside of Huntingdon and attempted to fulfill its obligation to create 50 jobs. Dusty King, attorney for the IDB, said the IDB did file suit to evict Campbell for non-payment, however, the case was abandoned before reaching court. King said the IDB was not a party to the ECD and Campbell's contract. It only served as a conduit for the funds to transfer from the state to Campbell. Celebrating McKenzie's oldest business and historical record

Isham G. Harris

The Antebellum Years

As this weekly series is now well into its third year, I have decided to expand the topics from just Carroll County and broaden the spectrum to included Tennessee history. There are a few ideas in the works for a more definitive path, but for now, rest assured the articles will still be based on Tennessee history and localized when possible.

Recently, I came across information about Governor Isham G. Harris. In 1857, Harris, a former resident and attorney in Paris, Tennessee, was elected governor. The actions he took as governor led to Tennessee's secession from the United States and set up some long-standing repercussions for the state. After the Civil War, Harris became a United States Senator for Tennessee and even held the title of president pro tempore of the United States Senate.

The story of Isham Green Harris begins just outside of Tullahoma, Tennessee in 1818. He was the ninth child of Isham Green Harris (1770–1840), a farmer and Methodist minister, and Lucy Davidson (1773–1849). In 1806, the family had migrated from North Carolina to Middle Tennessee.

Shortly after his fourteenth birthday, he persuaded his father to allow him to leave home. Harris moved to Paris, where his brother, William Rowland Harris (1803–1858), was an attorney. He found work as a store clerk. In 1838, with the help of his brother, Harris moved to Ripley, Mississippi to open his own business.

While in Ripley, he ran his store and began to study law. Harris later sold the business for a profit and returned to Paris. Back in Paris, he continued studying law under the tutelage of Judge Andrew McCampbell. In 1841, he was admitted to the Henry County bar and opened his practice.

In 1843, he married Martha Mariah Travis (1822–1897) of Henry County. Her father, Major Edward Travis, "a prominent gentleman of this [Henry] county in antebellum days," was a veteran of the War of 1812. As his law practice grew, so did his wealth. The Harris family had a large farm and home in Paris along with a plantation in Shelby County.

In 1847, Harris ran for the Tennessee State Senate on the Democratic ticket against Whig candidate Joseph Roerlhoe. Harris easily won the seat and represented Henry, Obion, and Weakley counties. The following year, he was a presidential elector on the Democratic ticket of Lewis Cass and William O. Butler.

By 1848, Harris was a rising star on the political stage as he was elected to the United States House of Representatives and re-elected in 1850. He represented the Ninth Congressional District joining the likes of David Crockett and President James K. Polk (past representatives of the Ninth).

Instead of seeking a third term in Congress, Harris elected to move to Memphis to return to practicing law. From 1852 to 1857, Harris did not seek political office but still was considered a leader amongst the Democrats in Tennessee.

In 1856, Harris was once again selected as a presidential elector for the state's at-large district. This allowed him to campaign throughout Tennessee for Democratic nominee James Buchanan. His oratory ability brought him increased attention.

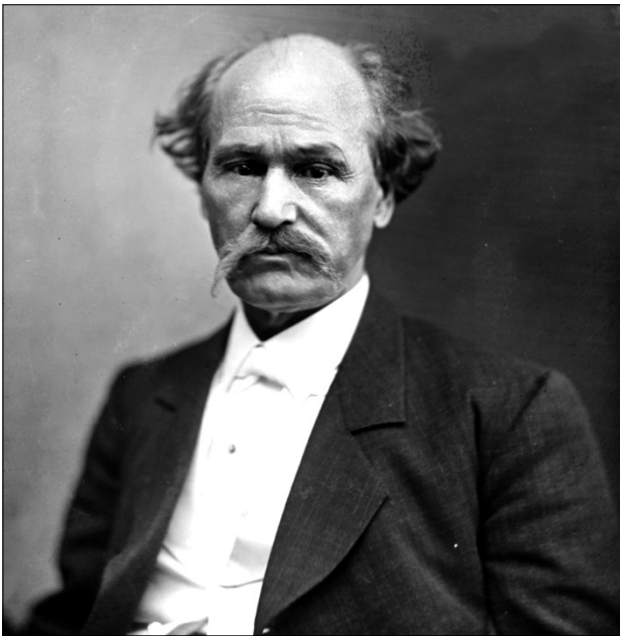

As Governor Andrew Johnson was working towards running for a third term in 1857, a train derailment and subsequent injuries forced him to return home. Harris received the Democratic nomination for governor. Tennessee, like Congress and most of the nation, were divided on numerous issues including slavery. Harris' opponent, Robert Hatton, had ties to abolitionists, while Harris was a slave owner, which in essence polarized the election. Harris became the sixteenth Governor of Tennessee defeating Hatton 71,178 to 59,807.

As Harris began his first term in office, Tennessee's political pendulum swung further in favor of the Democratic Party as the national Whig Party began to implode and the Know-Nothing Party failed to take hold.

In 1859, Harris was backed by the Democrats for a second term. His opponent, John Netherland, was the nominee for the Opposition Party (a mixture of ex-Whigs, ex-Know Nothings, and disgruntled Democrats). Harris ran a campaign of fear-mongering on an intrusion of Southern rights through Northern aggression and dominance in Washington, D.C.

Netherland promised the Constitution would protect the south. Harris won re-election by over 8,000 votes and fanned the flames toward Southern Secession.

By 1860, the United States was a hotbed of volatility focused on the presidential election. On one side, there was a semi-united Republican ticket headed by Abraham Lincoln and Hannibal Hamlin. On the other were various factions of the Democratic Party and Third Parties which included: the Northern Democratic Party (Stephen Douglas and Herschel Johnson); Southern Democratic Party (John C. Breckinridge and Joseph Lane); Constitutional Union Party (John Bell and Edward Everett); and the People's Party (Sam Houston).

Harris campaigned in favor of Breckinridge and warned a Republican victory was a dead nail for Southerners. He went as far as to warn if the "reckless fanatics of the north won" the south would secede.

When Lincoln was elected in November 1860, Harris called a special session of the legislature to meet in January 1861. The purpose of the session was to set a statewide referendum if Tennessee should secede.

In a letter to members of the Tennessee legislature, the Governor Harris wrote:

Gentlemen of the Senate and House of Representatives: The ninth section of the third article of the Constitution provides that, on extraordinary occasions, the Governor may convene the General Assembly. Believing the emergency contemplated, to exist at this time I have called you together. In welcoming you to the capital of the State, I can but regret the gloomy auspices under which we meet. Grave and momentous issues have arisen, which, to an unprecedented degree, agitate the public mind and imperil the perpetuity of the Government.

The systematic, wanton, and long-continued agitation of the slavery question, with the actual and threatened aggressions of the Northern States and a portion of their people, upon the well-defined constitutional rights of the Southern citizen; the rapid growth and increase, in all the elements of power, of a purely sectional party, whose bond of union is uncompromising hostility to the rights and institutions of the fifteen Southern States, have produced a crisis in the affairs of the country, unparalleled in the history of the past, resulting already in the withdrawal from the Confederacy of one of the sovereignties which composed it, while others are rapidly preparing to move in the same direction. Fully appreciating the importance of the duties which devolve upon you, fraught, as your action must be, with consequences of the highest possible importance to the people of Tennessee; knowing that, as a great Commonwealth, our own beloved State is alike interested with her sisters, who have resorted, and are preparing to resort, to this fearful alternative, I have called you together for the purpose of calm and dispassionate deliberation, earnestly trusting, as the chosen representatives of a free and enlightened people, that you will, at this critical juncture of our affairs, prove yourselves equal to the occasion which has called for the exercise of your talent and patriotism.

...The attempt of the Northern people, through the instrumentality of the Federal Government -- their State governments, and emigrant aid societies--to confine this species of property within the limits of the present Southern States--to impair its value by constant agitation and refusal to deliver up the fugitive--to appropriate the whole of the Territories, which are the common property all the people of all the States, to the Southern man who is unwilling to live under a government which, may by law recognize the free negro as his equal; "and in fine, to put the question where the Northern mind will rest in the belief of its ultimate extinction" is justly regarded by the people of the Southern States as a gross and palpable violation of the spirit and obvious meaning of the compact of Union--an impertinent inter-meddling with their domestic affairs, destructive of fraternal feeling, ordinary comity, and well-defined rights.

As slavery receded from the North, it was followed by the most violent and fanatical opposition. At first, the anti-slavery cloud, which now overshadows the nation, was no larger than a man's hand. Most of you can remember, with vivid distinctness, those days of brotherhood, when throughout the whole North, the abolitionist was justly regarded as an enemy of his country.

Weak, diminutive and contemptible as was this part in the purer days of the Republic, it has now grown to colossal proportions, and its recent rapid strides to power, have given it possession of the present House of Representatives and elected one of its leaders to the Presidency of the United States; and in the progress of events, the Senate and Supreme Court must also soon pass into the hands of this party. Whilst I cheerfully submit to your discretion the whole question of our federal relations, having no doubt myself as to the necessity and propriety of calling a State Convention, yet I respectfully recommend that you provide by law for submitting to the people of the State the question of Convention or No Convention, and also for the election of delegates by the people, in the ratio of legislative representation, to meet in State Convention, at the Capitol, at Nashville, at the earliest day practicable, to take into consideration our federal relations, and determine what action shall be taken by the State of Tennessee for the security of the rights and the peace of her citizens.

The question of Convention or No Convention, can and should be determined, and the delegates chosen at the same election, which can be very easily accomplished by heading one set of tickets Convention, and another set No Convention. If a majority of the people vote for Convention, then the persons receiving the largest number of votes in their respective counties and districts, to be commissioned as delegates.

This will place the whole matter in the hands of the people, for them, in their sovereignty, to determine how far their rights have been violated, the character of redress or guarantee they will demand, or the action they will take for their present and future security...

A Huntingdon newspaper called Carroll Patriot wrote that Harris was "more deserving of the gallows than Benedict Arnold." In February, the referendum failed 69,675 to 57,789.

Following the Battle of Fort Sumter in April 1861, Harris refused President Lincoln's request for 50,000 troops to aid the Union. Harris read his response to a crowd in Nashville, "Not a single man will be furnished from Tennessee."

On April 25, Harris addressed a special session of the state legislature, stating that the Union had been destroyed by the "bloody and tyrannical policies of the Presidential usurper," and called for an end to the state's ties to the United States. Harris pushed through the general assembly an ordinance of independence and another one allying Tennessee with the Confederacy.

In May 1861, Harris raised the Army of Tennessee with approximately 100,000 troops. Also in May, the Hillman, which was carrying a shipment of lead to Nashville from St. Louis, was seized by the Governor of Illinois. In response, Harris seized $75,000 from the customs office in Nashville. All before a secession was voted on by the people of Tennessee.

On June 8, 1861, Tennesseans voted in favor of the Ordinance of Secession, 104,913 to 47,238.

Next week's article will discuss Harris' actions during the war and how he later became a United States Senator.

HUNKER DOWN WITH KES

If Albert Had Just Reversed His Theory...

When we were "younger, so much younger than today" we didn't think nothing about Albert Einstein's Theory of Relativity. It was just a term in a high school science book. When he started using words like cosmological and astrophysical, we just shook our heads and broke out a copy of Mad Magazine.

Lately, I've been seriously rethinking this whole notion of time, space, continuum, relativistic velocity and the intrinsic relationship between mass, energy and the overriding propensity of objects in motion to remain in motion...

Let me put this to you in good ole West Tennessee English. When I was a kid, time moved slower than frozen molasses.

Listen, I spent three days in one half-hour morning session of Miss Belle's third grade reading class. I kid you not! And then we'd line up for those Friday afternoon spelling bees and we'd just stand there. And stand there. And stand...

Spring was the worst. It was perfect baseball weather! And the hands on that old Standard Time clock above the green alphabet strip high above the front of the class were not moving at all! It was some of that relativity stuff sucking us into one of Einstein's famous black holes.

And we were just innocent children...

I loved Bro. L. H. Hatcher. I still do to this day. He made me feel like I was the most important person in the whole congregation. What a gift that was for a young child lost in an adult world at times. But let me tell you something, when he got to preaching on how Joshua and those Israelites surrounded the whole city of Jericho, time didn't stand still—it turned around and ran in the opposite direction!

It got worse in high school. Football practices lasted an eternity. On the days that Doug Paschall, Tommy Heron and Bobby Roberts took turns running over me, it was longer than that!

And you don't want to get me started on front porch sitting. The grown-ups did the sitting. And talking. And laughing. Us kids did the enduring. You hear those days now often referred to as "lazy, hazy, endless, carefree days of yesteryear"...let me tell you, the key word there is "endless!"

Time didn't hardly move at all when we were children.

And most of y'all are way too young to understand the "relativity" of where I am going here. But as I have gotten older, time has speeded up.

A lot.

I'm pretty sure it has to do with Einstein's astrophysical theory of time and space. Some of that "relativistic velocity" has finally jumped off those old textbook pages into real life. Captain Kirk called it warp speed.

Or maybe I've just graduated to the Twilight Zone.

I wake up thinking, "I've got a couple of things to do today," but before I can get started on either one, dark overtakes me like a rapid moving apparition. The day just "went."

There is some good news

here, I don't have to wait for Christmas like back in the old, slow days. It took forever when I was "wishing" for a Red Ryder BB gun. You get my age and buy something called an Xbox for a grandson and before you can get it paid for, you're shopping for wireless earbuds, a Nike sweatshirt and two hoverboards for the NEXT Christmas!

I was singing Auld Lang Syne to welcome in the New Year just last week...and next week, May is upon us. The first four months of this year went by like fence posts out along new highway 22 when Leon was seeing how fast our 1960 Chevrolet would go.

We are getting dressed for an evening out and before I finish tying my shoes, Cathy will tell me I've got to change shirts. The one I have on has gone out of style. And let's not talk birthdays at all. They are speeding by faster than Superman can leap a tall building!

We grew up working hard as we could to speed things up. And now, for the life of me, I can't slow them down!

I'm still trying to enjoy every day, appreciate every friendship, live life as large as possible...just like me and Yogi, Ricky and Buddy approached every moment back in 1957.

I've just got to do it faster than ever before...Einstein's cosmological clock is moving like a runaway freight train...

Respectfully,
Kes

PS: The absolute worst thing was putting your head down in the early elementary grades for 20 minutes after lunch for a mandatory rest period. You couldn't talk, look around, throw peas at each other or roll ball bearings across the floor. Miss Dorothy didn't even want you to breathe! Oh, how I wish I could find those 20 minutes today...

Inglenook Book Club April Meeting

Inglenook Book Club held the April meeting at Lakeside Senior Living Community in McKenzie on April 13. Hostesses were Carolyn Moore and Mary Newman. They served delicious coconut/orange cake along with Easter chocolates.

President Carolyn Moore called the meeting to order. The Pledge of Allegiance, Club Aim and Motto were recited by all.

Roll call and the reading of March minutes were given by the recording secretary and approved as read. Treasurer Donna Ward gave the treasurers report, and it was approved.

Happy Birthday was sung by all for our April birthday gal, Pedie Petersen.

Sunshine Committee Chair Sheila Rogers was absent so Suzanne Howell distributed birthday/get well cards. She also had two names of ladies inquiring to become members.

In unfinished business President Moore stated 23 packs of markers, 20 packs pencils, 8 packs index cards, and Clorox wipes were collected and taken to the school in March.

New business was brought forward, where Carolyn Potts mentioned the club give a monetary donation to the McKenzie Memorial Library. Motion was made and approved by all present.

The program was given by Shirley Martin, who spoke to us about author Anna Lee Huber, who is a USA Today Bestselling Author, Daphne award-winning author of the Lady Darby Mysteries, Gothic Myths series, and the anthology The Deadly Hours. Huber is a summa cum laude graduate of Lipscomb University in Nashville, where she majored in music and minored in psychology. Ms. Huber was born and raised in a small town in Ohio, where from a young age her imagination was boundless. She spent summers playing Star Wars with her four brothers and one sister, wearing her mother's old night gowns, snow boots, and using plastic bats for light-sabers. She had dreams of becoming a rock star, more along the lines on Amy Grant than Britney Spears, so she attended college in Music City USA-Nashville. This is where she met her husband while she was acting in a school production of Our Town. They wed shortly before she graduated from Lipscomb.

Ms. Huber, whose love for writing fiction, now pens her best selling Lady Darby historical mystery series for Berkley Publishing, the Verity Kent historical mystery series for Kensington Publishing, the Gothic Myths series for Brightstone Media, and is also part of The Deadly Hours anthology with fellow authors Susanna Kearsley, C.S. Harris, and Christine Trent, published by Sourcebooks.

Ms Huber resides in Indiana with her husband and two young daughters, and a trouble-making tabby cat named Pita. When not hard at work on her next novel, she enjoys reading, singing, traveling, and spending time with her family.

Booked were passed to members with the next book passing date of April 27.

Our next meeting will be on May 11 at 3pm at Lakeside Senior Living. Items to bring for the school May meeting will be scissors. Our hostesses will be Carolyn Goodwin and Elaine Williams. Zia Locke will present program for Sandi McMahan. Benediction was recited by all and the meeting was adjourned. Everyone made it home safely before the storms came into McKenzie. Members present: Victoria Ard, Carolyn Goodwin, Jean Hollomon, Suzanne Howell, Geneva Johnson, Gayron Lyles, Gail Mack, Shirley Martin, Carolyn Moore, Beverly Mueller, Mary Newman, Pedie Petersen, Carolyn Potts, Marilynn Putman, Suzanne Russell, Genia Sherwood, Sally Sutton, Donna Ward, and Elaine Williams.

SUDOKU WEEK 17

Level: Beginner

Fun By The Numbers
Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:
Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

McKenzie Water Dept. Water Quality Report for 2021

Is my drinking water safe?

Yes, our water meets all of EPA's health standards. We have conducted numerous tests for over 80 contaminants that may be in drinking water. As you'll see in the chart, we only detected six of these contaminants. We found all of these contaminants at safe levels.

What is the source of my water?

Your water, which is ground water, comes from the Memphis Sand Aquifer. Our goal is to protect our water from contaminants and we are working with the State to determine the vulnerability of our water source to potential contamination. The Tennessee Department of Environment and Conservation (TDEC) has prepared a Source Water Assessment Program (SWAP) Report for the untreated water sources serving water to this water system. The SWAP Report assesses the susceptibility of untreated water sources to potential contamination. To ensure safe drinking water, all public water systems treat and routinely test their water. Water sources have been rated as reasonably susceptible, moderately susceptible or slightly susceptible based on geologic factors and human activities in the vicinity of the water source. The McKenzie Water Dept. sources rated as reasonably susceptible to potential contamination.

An explanation of Tennessee's Source Water Assessment Program, the Source Water Assessment summaries, susceptibility scorings and the overall TDEC report to EPA can be viewed online at https://www.tn.gov/environment/program-areas/wr/water-resources/water-quality/source-water-assessment.html or you may contact the Water Dept. to obtain copies of specific assessments.

A wellhead protection plan is available for your review by contacting Earnest Umstead at the McKenzie Water Dept. between 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays.

Why are there contaminants in my water?

Drinking water, including bottled water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that water poses a health risk. More information about contaminants and potential health effects can be obtained by calling the Environmental Protection Agency's Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

Este informe contiene información muy importante. Tradúscalo o hable con alguien que lo entienda bien.

For more information about your drinking water, please call Earnest Umstead or Billy Wood at 731-351-3114.

How can I get involved?

Our City Council meets on the second Thursday of each month at 7 p.m. at the City Hall. Please feel free to participate in these meetings.

Is our water system meeting other rules that govern our operations?

The State and EPA require us to test and report on our water on a regular basis to ensure its safety. We have met all of these requirements. Results of unregulated contaminant analysis are available upon request. We want you to know that we pay attention to all the rules.

Other information

The sources of drinking water (both tap water and bottled water) include rivers, lakes, streams, ponds, reservoirs, springs, and wells. As water travels over the surface of the land or through the ground, it dissolves naturally-occurring minerals and, in some cases, radioactive material, and can pick up substances resulting from the presence of animals or from human activity.

Contaminants that may be present in source water:

- Microbial contaminants, such as viruses and bacteria, which may come from sewage treatment plants, septic systems, agricultural livestock operations, and wildlife.

- Inorganic contaminants, such as salts and metals, which can be naturally-occurring or result from urban storm water runoff, industrial, or domestic wastewater discharges, oil and gas production, mining, or farming.

- Pesticides and herbicides, which may come from a variety of sources such as agriculture, urban storm water runoff, and residential uses.

- Organic chemical contaminants, including synthetic and volatile organic chemicals, which are by-products of industrial processes and petroleum production, and can also come from gas stations, urban storm water runoff, and septic systems.

- Radioactive contaminants, which can be naturally-occurring or be the result of oil and gas production and mining activities.

In order to ensure that tap water is safe to drink, EPA and the Tennessee Department of Environment and Conservation prescribe regulations which limit the amount of certain contaminants in water provided by public water systems. FDA regulations establish limits for contaminants in bottled water which must provide the same protection for public health.

Do I Need To Take Special Precautions?

Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general population. Immuno-compromised persons such as persons with cancer undergoing chemotherapy, persons who have undergone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune system disorders, some elderly, and infants can be particularly at risk from infections. These people should seek advice about not only their drinking water, but food preparation, personal hygiene, and precautions in handling infants and pets from their health care providers. EPA/CDC guidelines on appropriate means to lessen the risk of infection by Cryptosporidium and other microbiological contaminants are available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

Lead in Drinking Water

If present, elevated levels of lead can cause serious health problems, especially for pregnant women and young children. Lead in drinking water is primarily from materials and components associated with service lines and home plumbing. McKenzie Water Dept. is responsible for providing high quality drinking water, but cannot control the variety of materials used in plumbing components. When your water has been sitting for several hours, you can minimize the potential for lead exposure by flushing your tap for 30 seconds to 2 minutes before using water for drinking or cooking. If you are concerned about lead in your water, you may wish to have your water tested. Information on lead in drinking water, testing methods, and steps you can take to minimize exposure is available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline or at http://www.epa.gov/safewater/lead.

Water System Security

Following the events of September 2001, we realize that our customers are concerned about the security of their drinking water. We urge the public to report any suspicious activities at any utility facilities, including treatment plants, tanks, fire hydrants, etc. to the police dispatcher at 731-325-2264.

Think before you flush!

Flushing unused or expired medicines can be harmful to your drinking water. Properly disposing of unused or expired medication helps protect you and the environment. Keep medications out of Tennessee's waterways by disposing in one of our permanent pharmaceutical take back bins. There are nearly 100 take back bins located across the state, to find a convenient location please visit: http://tdeonline.tn.gov/rxtakeback/.

Water Quality Data

What does this chart mean?

- MCLG - Maximum Contaminant Level Goal, or the level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MCLGs allow for a margin of safety.
- MCL - Maximum Contaminant Level, or the highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking water. MCLs are set as close to the MCLGs as feasible using the best available treatment technology. To understand the possible health effects described for many regulated constituents, a person would have to drink 2 liters of water every day at the MCL level for a lifetime to have a one-in-a-million chance of having the described health effect.
- MRDL - Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level or MRDL: The highest level of a disinfectant allowed in drinking water. There is convincing evidence that addition of a disinfectant is necessary for the control of microbial contaminants.
- MRDLG - Maximum residual disinfectant level goal. The level of a drinking water disinfectant below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MRDLGs do not reflect the benefits of the use of disinfectants to control microbial contaminants.
- AL - Action Level, or the concentration of a contaminant which, when exceeded, triggers treatment or other requirements which a water system must follow.
- Below Detection Level (BDL) - Laboratory analysis indicates that the contaminant is not present at a level that can be detected.
- Non-Defects (ND) - Laboratory analysis indicates that the contaminant is not present.
- Parts per million (ppm) or Milligrams per liter (mg/L) - Explained as a relation to time and money as one part per million corresponds to one minute in two years or a single penny in $10,000.
- Parts per billion (ppb) or Micrograms per liter - Explained as a relation to time and money as one part per billion corresponds to one minute in 2,000 years, or a single penny in $10,000,000.
- RTCR - Revised Total Coliform Rule. This rule went into effect on April 1, 2016 and replaces the MCL for total coliform with a Treatment Technique Trigger for a system assessment.

Contaminant	Violation Yes/No	Level Found	Range of Detections	Date of Sample	Unit Measurement	MCLG	MCL	Likely Source of Contamination

Carroll County Sheriff's Reports

Assault Investigation — Authorities are investigating a recent incident in which a McKenzie man was seriously injured during an April 14 altercation between father and son at their mutual residence.

According to the report by Deputy Michael Mulligan, deputies responded to 2240 Robinson Levee Road after Stephen Isaac Rougeou, 33, called and said that his father, Henry Rougeou, 58, had cut him with a razor knife and he was bleeding badly. Upon arrival, deputies found Henry Rougeou standing out by the road, and Stephen Rougeou came and met deputies in the driveway and shook off blankets that had been covering each arm. Mulligan noted that the son had six-to seven-inch cuts on both arms with the left arm bleeding excessively. Mulligan applied pressure to the wound, and a Life Flight helicopter was called after EMS arrived. Before he was transported from the scene, Stephen Rougeou told Mulligan that he and his father had been in a verbal argument, and, at one point, he grabbed his father's left ankle and pulled him out of his chair. Henry Rougeou then pulled a box cutter out of his pocket. The son said he let go of his father's foot, grabbed two chairs, and threw them at his father, striking him on the back of the head and neck. Stephen Rougeou said his father then slashed him with the box cutter on both arms. Henry Rougeou confirmed his son's account, but added that his son had threatened to twist his leg off, causing him to fear for his safety. Mulligan noted that the case has been referred to the District Attorney's Office for further investigation.

Theft — Deputies are looking into a possible case of theft at a Trezevant residence.

On April 18, Elizabeth Flippin told Deputy Michael Seavans that a Kobolt leaf blower has come up missing from her property on Front Street. Flippin said she had kept the leaf blower, which is valued at $139, under her carport. There were no suspects in this case at the time of the report.

BY JIM POTTS
jpotts@mckenziebanner.com

After three solid days of middle school baseball at Bethel University, Huntingdon defeated McKenzie 10-0 for the Middle School District Baseball Championship and finished their season unbeaten with an 18-0 record.

The tournament got underway Thursday, April 21 with two play-in games.

Camden vs Dresden
The Dresden Middle

School Lions defeated Camden Middle 10-6 to open the annual middle school baseball tournament. The scoring started early with Dresden getting a pair of runs in the top of the first inning and Camden answered with a run of their own in the bottom of the inning for a 2-1 lead after one inning. Dresden added another pair of runs in the top of the second inning to take a 4-1 lead.

After a scoreless third inning and top of the fourth, Camden's bats got hot resulting in five runs scored to take a 6-4 lead heading into the fifth inning which went scoreless. Dresden exploded for six runs in the top of the sixth inning to retake the lead 10-6 and shut Camden out in the bottom of the inning to secure the win and advance.

Huntingdon vs McKenzie

The final day of the tournament was busy especially for McKenzie and Huntingdon as the Rebels fell into the loser's bracket dropping the first game to the Mustangs 9-0. All of Huntingdon's runs were spread out taking a 1-0 lead in the first inning. They added two runs each in the second, third, fourth, and fifth innings to shut out the Rebels.

Caleb Ezell went the distance on the mound for the Mustangs giving up just two hits and striking out six batters to claim the win.

McKenzie vs Dresden
This game was probably the best game of the tournament with the Rebels coming from behind to eliminate the Lions and advance to the championship game.

After a scoreless first inning, Dresden struck first with a solo run in the top of the second inning and scored two more runs in the top of the third to lead 3-0 heading to the bottom of the inning. The Rebels plated their first run in the bottom of the third to make it a 3-1 game. The Rebels added a run in the bottom of the fourth to make it a 3-2 game.

In the fifth inning, Dresden scored four runs extending their lead to 7-2 and had Rebel fans considering what to do with the rest of their day. In the bottom of the inning, McKenzie had two outs and two strikes when they started getting hits and scored a pair of runs to make it 7-4. The Rebels loaded the bases and scored three more runs on a double tying the game 7-7. With Avery Brown on third base, Xander Johnsey got a hard hit that drove Brown home for the winning run as the Rebels won 8-7 to advance to the championship game.

Huntingdon vs McKenzie
After the exciting finish to the Rebel's semifinal contest, they had to face Huntingdon's Mustangs for the tournament championship. The game was definitely deja vu with the Mustangs shutting out the Rebels again 10-0 to win the championship. Huntingdon scored a solo run in the bottom of the first and added four more in the second inning to take a 5-0 lead. They added two runs in the third and fourth innings and a single run in the fifth inning.

Huntingdon's Owen Kreuziger went the distance giving up four hits and striking out seven Rebel batters. The Mustangs totaled 11 hits in the game.

Post Tournament
Following the championship game, they named the All-District Middle School team which included kids from all of the participating teams. West Carroll: Zack Fowler and Darion Taylor, Bruceton-Hollow Rock: Tanner Walker and Braxton Howard, Camden: Axel Mansfield and Carter Maines, Dresden: Landin Carter and Cooper Allman, McKenzie: Fletcher Holt, Luke Toombs, and Xander Johnsey, Huntingdon: Caleb Ezell, Silas Sharpe, Shawn Simpson, and Braylon Dearmon.

Huntingdon got the Championship Plaque while McKenzie won the Runner-Up plaque.

Rotary Donates to Young Life, Hears History of Club

MCKENZIE (April 19) — The Rotary Club of McKenzie donated $1,000 to support the Christian work of Young Life in the city. Young Life is a mission devoted to introducing adolescents to Jesus Christ and helping them grow in their faith. Each Young Life chapter has to raise its own money. Blake Cossey received the check to support the local mission. He was the guest speaker at an earlier Rotary Club meeting. At the Tuesday, April 19 meeting, Ed Perkins presented a history of the local service club, its service to the community, and its philanthropy to the community. Perkins has been a member for over 60 years. He started in 1960 when he was the president of the Student Government Association at Bethel University. When he turned 21 years old, he was allowed to join and has been a member ever since. Dr. Roy N. Baker, president of Bethel University, asked Perkins to attend and represent the students at Bethel University. Perkins is a past president of the club (1963-64) and a past district governor, the youngest to ever serve. He also was the sponsor of the first two ladies to join Rotary in the district, once women were allowed to join Rotary. The Club sponsors the annual honors banquets and programs at the three McKenzie schools, provides scholarships to Bethel and TCAT-McKenzie, donates to

Recently, the club and its Moore Fund contributed $1,000 to Carroll County Electric to help those who

The club has purchased gift cards for the students to purchase food. Recently, the local service club obtained funding to enhance Carroll Lake and to construct fish at-

Macedonia FCE Meeting Notes

BY SARAH BROWN

MACEDONIA (April 5) — The Macedonia FCE club met at the home of Martha Peters. The Creed was read in unison. Minutes of the last meeting were read by Sarah Brown in the absence of the secretary, Veronica Giamo. Roll call was answered by telling something that makes you laugh. The Bake Sale was postponed until a later date. The Scrapbook will be discussed further at the May meeting. In new business, it was noted that the Macedonia Cake Walk was on Friday night. We did not have a program due to the absence of several members.

Our craft project was decorating coasters using ceramic tiles and permanent markers. Ruth McElroy was our instructor. This was a fun project and they turned out very nice and colorful. We were excited to have Angie Menne in attendance today. Household Hint: Flies do not like basil. Plant some in pots around your doors and on your porch. This will keep flies away! It will also deter fruit flies inside house if you have some in small pots inside. We missed our members not in attendance today due to illness. Our next meeting will be 1 p.m. on May 4 at the Macedonia Community Center. We welcome new members.

Bell Receives Loyal Patriot Award At Department Directors Meeting

PARIS — Pharmacy Director Paula Bell was recently presented with the Loyal Patriot Award by Henry County Mayor John Penn Ridgeway for her service to the hospital and the community during the COVID-19 pandemic. The Loyal Patriot Award is the highest award that can be bestowed on a Henry County citizen. Mayor Ridgeway attended a HCMC Department Directors' meeting last week where he shared with the management staff his appreciation for their efforts over the last two years during the COVID-19 pandemic, a very difficult and demanding time in healthcare. He especially wanted to present Bell with the award because she stood up for the community and its health regardless of the negativity surrounding vaccination and masking. "I have known Paula for many, many years," said Mayor Ridgeway. "She is a fierce competitor and is never scared of taking it on the chin for what's right. She has been here for the community and HCMC and she truly is a patriot." "It is truly an honor to receive this award and means so much," said Bell. Bell along with her husband Jon are both from Paris. Bell received her Bachelor of Science in Biology at the University of Alabama, where she played golf for four years. She went to pharmacy school at the University of TN Health Science Center in Memphis. Bell has worked at HCMC for almost eight years after living in Memphis for 13 years. Bell enjoys being outdoors, spending time with family, playing outside with the kids whether it is basketball, riding bikes, baseball, softball, or golf.
