Clarksburg Officials Discuss Budget, City Hall Renovations

CLARKSBURG (June 27) — Clarksburg's Mayor and Aldermen approved the city's 2022-23 budget at a regular meeting Monday night and received an update on the construction at City Hall by Mayor Howell Wayne Todd.

The proposed budget shows $265,950 in revenues and $255,275 in expenditures for a proposed surplus of $10,675. State and local tax revenues fund 68% of the budget. Primary expenditures include payroll expenses for employees, insurance, street repair, and maintenance.

"Our budget has changed very little during the past four years," said Todd. "We make a concerted effort to stretch every dollar we receive and apply them to projects that affect the greatest majority of our residents."

The city's Wastewater Fund shows revenues of $109,084 and expenditures of $150,985. The balance sheet of the Wastewater Fund shows a deficit of $41,901 primarily due to incurring a depreciation charge of $55,000.

"We have made significant progress on balancing the books of the Wastewater Fund as required by the state, but the depreciation charge really blows a hole in it," according to Todd. "If we hold fast to the track we are on, we should be totally in the black in three-to-four years."

The city plans to use its allocation of $591,000 Federal American Rescue Plan (ARP) Funds to replace the two oldest sewer lift stations between Clarksburg and Huntingdon. Todd considers the ARP funds a "godsend," for the city is "living on borrowed time" with the current 20-year-old lift stations.

In other business, the financial reports for May were approved, and Todd updated the Aldermen on discussions with an owner of unkept property and the renovation/addition to City Hall. "This long-awaited $230,000 project finally got underway June 2, and it has gone rather smoothly so far," said Todd. "Our original project budget was $150,000, but COVID, escalating building costs and labor costs hit us at the right time. We went out for bid in early 2021. We had no choice to postpone the project."

In the last six months, Todd reported over $90,000 in private funds have been raised to make the project a reality. The project includes the additions of an office, a small meeting room, a portico to allow people to get out of their cars and enter during inclement weather, and a major face-lift for City Hall's current meeting room.

"City Hall is booked almost every weekend, sometimes two events on a single day, and these improvements will bring the facility up to a level we can all be proud of for years to come," Todd said. Estimated completion date is late September.

Unemployment Increases Slightly Across Tennessee

NASHVILLE — New data released by the Department of Labor and Workforce Development showed unemployment rates increased slightly during May in each of the state's counties. Even with the minimal increases, 93 of Tennessee's 95 counties maintained rates lower than 5% for the month.

In Carroll County, 450 members of the 11,443-person labor force were unemployed, giving the county a 3.9% unemployment rate. This is a 0.3 percentage-point increase from April's rate and a 0.5 percentage-point decrease from the unemployment rate in May 2021.

Henry County unemployment rates also increased by 0.3 of a percentage-point between April and May. Of a 14,442-person labor force, 508 were unemployed, bringing the county's unemployment rate to 3.5%. April's rate was 3.2%, and May 2021's rate was 3.7%.

506 members of Weakley County's 15,389-person labor force were unemployed in the month of May, giving Weakley County an unemployment rate of 3.3%. This is a 0.5 percentage-point increase from April's rate of 2.8% and a 0.2 percentage-point decrease from last May's rate of 3.5%.

The counties with the lowest unemployment rates are in middle and east Tennessee. Williamson county recorded the lowest jobless rate in the state for May. At 2.3%, its rate increased 0.3 of a percentage-point from April's revised rate of 2%. Moore County had the second-lowest rate of 2.5%, a 0.4 percentage-point increase when compared to the previous month.

Perry County's rate came in at 5.5%, the highest in the state. That represented a 0.4 of a percentage point increase from April's rate of 5.1%. Bledsoe County had the second-highest rate in May at 5.1%, also a 0.4 of a percentage point increase for the month. Four west Tennessee counties ranked among counties with the highest unemployment rates: Shelby County, Lake County, Decatur County, Lauderdale County, and McNairy County.

The increase in county unemployment followed the slightest uptick in the statewide unemployment rate in May. Tennessee's jobless number inched up to 3.3% in May, just 0.1 of a percentage-point higher than the state's all-time-low rate of 3.2%.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS) calculates county and statewide unemployment rates differently. It does not factor in seasonal impacts on data when determining county unemployment rates, while it does seasonally adjust the statewide unemployment number.

Nationally, May's unemployment rate mirrored April's rate of 3.6%.

revenues and expenses equal to the 2021-22 fiscal year budget. Kim Carter, recording secretary for the CCWA, said the budget cannot yet be approved because of the extenuating circumstances related to the transfer of ownership of the lake and the related funds associated with that purchase.

Carroll County Mayor Joseph Butler said the $10 wheel tax applied to the registration of automobiles in Carroll County should cease on December 31, 2022. That $10 tax helped fund the development of the lake. He was unsure of the continuation of the annual $50,000 the County of Carroll appropriates to the lake. While, some continuing local funding to TWRA was in the original legislation, Butler said he is unsure concerning the future of that funding.

The Board approved the 2020-21 financial audit for the term ending June 30, 2021. Revenues were $802,470 including $251,000 from the annual $10 wheel tax and $50,000 from the County of Carroll and $4320,021 from the Town of Huntingdon. Expenditures were $800,132.

The Carroll County Watershed Authority will continue to exist until it can complete any unfinished business. Members include: Dale Kelley, Joseph Butler, Natalie Porter, Bob Clark, Brad Chappell and Joe Smothers.

Northwest Tennessee Economic Development Council, is a private, non-profit community action agency gaining its charter from the Tennessee State Legislature in 1965. Community Action Agencies were the direct result of the initiatives established during President Lyndon B. Johnson's "War on Poverty" and his "Great Society" movement in the 1960s.

Community Action Agencies are a primary source of support for more than 3.1 million people living in poverty in the United States. The majority of CAA clients are extremely poor. Nearly 40% of the families served have incomes below 75% of the federal poverty threshold. CAA Professionals expertly coordinate and integrate an array of services at federal, state and local levels. CAA staff, board, and volunteers use innovative solutions to help people achieve self-sufficiency.

Community Action Agencies are governed by a uniquely structured volunteer board of directors: at least one-third is comprised of representatives from the low-income community; up to one-third is from the private sector; and one-third is local, elected public officials.

Electric Department Board Meets With New Leadership

HUNTINGDON (June 30) — Carroll County Electric Department Board of Directors held its first meeting under new general manager, Ryan Drewry. It marks the first change in leadership since July 1, 2014, when immediate past manager Danny Brawner was selected to lead the utility.

Drewry served as CCED's office manager previously.

It was a meeting with few items of business to conduct.

The Board honored Terry Howell for eight years of service on the Board. He served in the appointed position representing the McKenzie area. He also served as chairman for his last four years.

Drewry praised Howell for his 'great service' on the Board. Howell said he was proud to serve and noted CCED's personnel are second to none.

Drewry announced two upcoming retirements from the staff. Marsha Mash has 33 years of service and Hilda Wallace has almost 49 years. One lineman resigned for other work opportunities. Drewry announced CCED will hire one lineman and one office person. He noted the new automatic digital

The Board approved the 'write-off' of bad debt in the amount of $49,790 for the year.

Customers' monthly bills will increase during the hot weather, said Drewry, in part because TVA adds a fuel surcharge because it generates a portion of its electricity from natural gas during peak demands. Drewry said CCED has not experienced any system problems during high demand periods.

Postage Rates Increase July 10

The United States Postal Service filed notice with the Postal Regulatory Commission (PRC) of price changes to take effect July 10, 2022.

The new prices include a two-cent increase in the price of a First-Class Mail Forever stamp from 58 cents to 60 cents.

The prices, approved by the Governors of the U.S. Postal Service, raise First-Class Mail prices approximately 6.5 percent. This is just 3 percentage points less than the national inflation rate of 8.6%, as the Bureau of Labor Statistics reported in May.

The one-ounce letter domestic price increases by two cents, from $0.58 to $0.60. The single-piece letter additional ounce price increases from 20 cents to 24 cents, the metered mail one-ounce price increases from 53 to 57 cents and the price of a postcard stamp will increase from 40 to 44 cents. The one-ounce letter international price increases by ten cents, from $1.30 to $1.40. The Postal Service also seeks price adjustments for Special Services products including Certified Mail, Post Office Box rental fees, Money Order fees and the cost to purchase insurance when mailing an item.

As inflation and increased operating expenses continue, these price adjustments will help implement the Delivering for America Plan, including a $40 billion investment in core Postal Service infrastructure over the next ten years. With the new prices, the Postal Service continues to provide the lowest letter-mail postage rates in the industrialized world and offers a great value in shipping.

The Postal Service generally receives no tax dollars for operating expenses and relies on the sale of postage, products, and services to fund its operations.

Former Countian Dies in Crash

FROM THUNDERBOLT BROADCASTING

The Martin Police Department and Tennessee Highway Patrol are investigating a fatal crash Friday morning between a tractor-trailer and pickup truck.

The accident happened just before 10:30 a.m. on Highway 431 near Highway 22 and Highway 45.

Martin Police Chief Don Teal says 64-year-old Terry Mask, of Lexington, Tennessee (formerly of Carroll County), was killed when the Peterbilt tractor-trailer he was driving collided with a 2015 GMC Sierra truck driven by Joshua Tharp, of Greenfield.

Tharp was airlifted to a Nashville hospital.

TWRA Begins Management of Lake Halford

BY TWRA

NASHVILLE — The Tennessee Wildlife Resources Agency officially began management of Lake Halford (also known as the Carroll County 1000 Acre Recreational Lake) July 1, 2022. The lake continues to be open for fishing and recreational activities.

The agency held a public listening session in May to better understand community priorities for the lake and plans to maintain current recreational activities. Residents and visitors can expect to see additional fisheries management activities at the lake, as well as increased TWRA boating law enforcement presence.

Lake management that involves permitting, user fees, and other regulations will require additional rule making procedures from the Tennessee Fish and Wildlife Commission. This is expected to occur later this year, at which time more information will be available. The following amenities will be affected by this requirement until further notice:

User Fee: In accordance with other TWRA managed lakes, a user fee will be implemented after a rule making process is completed. No user fees will be charged for the remainder of the summer. A valid Tennessee fishing license and boating registration are still required.

RV Park: Existing reservations will be honored, but no additional reservations will be accepted until a rule making process is completed.

Homeowner Dock Permits: The permitting process for docks is temporarily frozen until a rulemaking process can be completed.

Marina Gasoline Sales: Gasoline pump is indefinitely closed.

TWRA will establish three permanent positions at Lake Halford, including a lake manager. These jobs postings will be posted on the Tennessee State Career site (www.tn.gov/careers). Community members and visitors can direct questions to the Region 1 TWRA office.

Additional Background: Tennessee Senate Bill 2402 (House Bill 2149) and the Governor's FY2022-23 budget allocated $11 million to transfer ownership of the Carroll County 1000 Acre Recreation Lake from the Carroll County Watershed Authority into Tennessee Wildlife Resources Agency management.

The Tennessee State Legislature also enacted a name change from 1000 Acre Lake to Lake Halford, honoring Tennessee State Representative Curtis Halford. TWRA is partnering with the Carroll County Watershed Authority and local leaders on the transition.

Budget

A financial audit report of the 2020-21 fiscal year budget was approved.

According to the audit by ATA Accounting, the town revised the general fund's original appropriation approved by the Council. Overall, these changes resulted in a 11.6 percent increase in budgeted revenues and a 3.65 percent decrease in budgeted expenditures from the original budget. Actual revenues and other financing sources were over the final budgeted amounts by $56 thousand in the general fund. Expenditures were $389 thousand under budget in the general fund.

But while the budget audit provided an insight into the finances, members of the Huntingdon Police Department addressed deficiencies in their department.

Jill Taylor, a dispatcher, said the department needs additional funding. She said she recently gave her notice to quit, however, she was in attendance at the meeting to address the problems at HPD. She said the officers drive automobiles in disrepair; the dispatch center goes offline with electrical outages, and the pay is inadequate.

Taylor accepted a position at the Carroll County Sheriff's Department as a dispatcher. The County Commission recently approved funding to convert part-time dispatcher positions to full time.

Lieutenant Angie Barker, a 20-year veteran of the department, said she loves Huntingdon, however, the officers deserve reliable patrol cars and better pay. Some nights, the town has only one officer, said Lt. Barker.

Barker said she recently had to have an attorney help her get the proper funding in her city's retirement account.

The November 8, 2022 local elections will include elections of four Huntingdon councilmen. Expiring terms include Will Atkins, Kelly Eubanks, Andrew Maddox, and John Sanders. Mayor Dale Kelley's term ends November 2024, along councilmen Nina Smothers, Charlie Hodges, and Carl Byars. The Council called for the election in November.

Earl David Bircham

Dresden's Felonious Gangster

A few months back, I came across a Facebook post about "Weakley County's notorious gangster of the 1940s." I had never heard of Earl David Bircham, but his crime spree and subsequent capture were very intriguing. This story may be a little longer than most, but it is well worth the read. I would also like to take a second and thank Shawn M. Herron and The Courier-Journal for supplying the research for the story.

Earl David Bircham was born October 15, 1902, to William A. Bircham (1875-1913) and Flora Bircham (1881-1910). He was reared in a small community five miles north of Dresden. Not much is known or written about Bircham until 1939 following his conviction for armed robbery of the Peoples Bank of Dresden. He was sentenced to 20 years in a Tennessee State Prison.

Upon escaping the penitentiary, he lived his life on the run and was considered to be the FBI's Public Enemy #1. He was wanted in Tennessee, Kentucky, Kansas and Ohio for robbery, burglary and countless episodes of prison escapes during the 1940s. Then one night, it all came to an end.

Around 9:15 p.m. on August 14, 1949, Louisville Police Officers John Tennyson and John Ross radioed that they were on East Chestnut Street, trying to stop a late model Packard with Kenton County license plates.

Later, Officer Ross stated that when he got a good look at the driver, as they pulled alongside to talk to someone they thought was simply a confused driver, he recognized the individual from wanted posters at the station (Earl David Bircham), but wasn't sure of the subject's name.

He told the driver that he was under arrest and the chase was on. Ross fired once at the vehicle. The officers reported to the dispatcher that they'd turned south on Preston Street. Ross fired again. Dispatch made the call of the officers needing assistance. The chase ended when the speeding vehicle failed to make a turn and hit a tree on a side yard of Burnett Avenue.

Ross later reported he and Tennyson had gotten out of their vehicle and that he'd fired a warning shot into the air. The driver fled between houses, and the two officers split up, with Tennyson coming in through the front and Ross going around to the other side.

Tennyson encountered

Bircham first, and from a range of fewer than six inches, Bircham shot him twice in the chest. According to witnesses, Tennyson screamed "God help me! I'm shot!" – and died immediately. Ross encountered him moments later but did not know Tennyson had been shot. At that time, Ross thought that he had only one bullet left in his revolver.

Bircham started toward Ross with his hands up, stating he was giving up, but when he was less than ten feet away, he pointed a weapon that had been concealed in one of his raised hands. He shot Ross twice, with both bullets passing through Ross's left arm and entering his abdomen. Ross tried to fire back but the revolver only clicked. Fearing Bircham would return, he struggled to climb a fence and got back to his cruiser, where he collapsed.

A woman in the car, who turned out to be the driver's wife, June Bircham, had stayed in the vehicle the entire time, screaming. The homeowner stayed with Bircham's wife until additional officers arrived on the scene. Within minutes a huge crowd gathered slowing the investigation and the search.

Luther Williams and his wife, Kathleen, thought they heard fireworks several blocks away. When a neighbor's dog began to bark, Williams, barefooted, walked outside. No sooner than stepping outside he saw Bircham jump over his fence. Holding a pistol in each hand, he ordered Williams to turn over his car keys. When Williams refused to cooperate, Bircham attempted to shoot Williams, but both pistols failed to fire.

Kathleen then slammed the back door shut as Bircham screamed for her to open the door. Again tried to fire the .38 pistols but nothing happened.

Bircham then put a gun on Williams' back and forced him up the steps to the door. When they reached the top step, Williams "whirled around, grabbed the guns, and they fell down the steps." From there Williams wrestled the guns away from Bircham and began choking him into submission until he gave in.

Kathleen Williams had called the police during the struggle. Approximately 20 minutes later, the police were at the Williams' home. Luther, a former U.S. Marine, later said it was the first time he'd had a gun pointed at him. To add to the drama, the Williams' had a 19-month-old son who was asleep inside. It was later learned that one of the revolvers had one live round and would have been the next bullet to be fired.

Upon investigation, approximately $6,850 was found in the car and $7,521 was found on June Bircham. Three additional weapons were located in the vehicle including an automatic weapon (machine gun). After a short period of questioning, Bircham was taken to the hospital to be identified by Ross. Bircham was identified as the person in question.

Agent Fred Hallford, the FBI Special Agent in Charge, later noted that the driver, Earl Bircham, was on the FBI's most-wanted list and the "top public enemy." He had escaped from custody several times, most recently from the state prison in Kansas. His wife, June, was noted to also carry a small pistol and had left Alabama to meet her husband after his escape.

Bircham was wanted for the escape and several bank robberies, as well as other "smaller jobs" in the Nashville area. He was wanted in Louisville for the robbery and shooting of a city alderman, following the theft of a local business's payroll.

Bircham was charged with murder in the Louisville Police Court the next day. On August 22, Bircham entered a not-guilty plea. The case was transferred to Judge Franklin Fitch, in the County Court, because the shooting had occurred outside the Louisville city limits of Jefferson County.

On September 1, an additional charge of assault and attempted robbery was filed against Bircham, with Williams being the victim. The case was resubmitted to the September Grand Jury resulting in Bircham's re-indictment. The trial was moved to October 11 because of the re-indictment.

On October 8, Bircham attempted to escape Jefferson County Jail when he managed to saw through two of the bars on his cell and used two fake guns carved out of soap. He managed to get past one guard but was subdued by additional guards before he could escape.

The jury heard both sides of the case and retired to deliberate the verdict. It took just an hour and nine minutes of deliberation before the jury returned a verdict of guilty and recommended death. A motion for a new trial was denied and he was sentenced to be executed on March 18, 1950. A series of appeals prolonged Bircham's execution date.

At 1:10 a.m., on February 1, 1952, David Earl Bircham was seated and strapped into Kentucky's electric chair where he was executed. His body was released to his family, and he was buried at the Pisgah Methodist Church Cemetery, in Martin, Tennessee.

As for June Bircham, she was given probation for her cooperation, left Kentucky and was last known to have moved to Detroit, Michigan.

HUNKER DOWN WITH KES

What So Proudly We Hailed

I spent most all of this past Fourth of July weekend humming the same tune over and over.

O beautiful for spacious skies...

From the Redwood Forest to the Gulf Stream waters; as far as the eye can see, wooded hills, rolling prairies, running through fields of clover and dogs swimming in the creek. A full moon over an Arizona desert, an early morning Montana sky, a sudden cloudburst unloading on a pristine West Tennessee afternoon, a Canyon that is truly Grand, the view in any direction from Frisco Bay, the rippling waters fleeing across a Minnesota Lake and roll on Mighty Mississippi roll on...

Picnics, watermelon and firecrackers; the town square, Independence Hall and the Old North Church; Benjamin Franklin, Paul Revere and Will Rogers; a new white dress, bare feet, pretty girls, long speeches and "Daddy, when do we eat?"

For amber waves of grain...

Fried chicken, corn-on-the-cob, potato salad and paper plates. Hot baked beans covered with bacon and drowning in brown sugar, coleslaw mixed with love, Deviled eggs, cathead biscuits larger than Jumbo Larkin's fist, fresh peach cobbler and jar after jar of Aunt Beatrice's homemade jams.

Barbecue pork by the barrelful—sliced, chopped or still on the bone; all smothered in your choice of Sweet Baby Ray's sauce, KC Masterpiece, Old Hickory Classic, Jack's Old South Competition Vinegar sauce and Uncle Herschel's special secret homemade sassy and red hot sauce guaranteed to clear out your sinuses...

Betsy Ross, Johnny

Tremain, Sons of Freedom, and "no taxation without representation;" Colonel Travis, Davy Crockett, and one hundred eighty more... Tippecanoe and Tyler too; parades with bass drums and red uniforms, longer speeches; We, the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect union...

For purple mountains' majesties...

The Grand Tetons, Pikes Peak, the Bear Tooth Range, Mount McKinley, Mount St. Helens, Mount Hood, the Big Horns and the Great Smoky Mountains; Mount Vernon and the steep hill overlooking Paris Landing State Park where I once spent a wonderful afternoon.... Bunker Hill, San Juan Hill, Mount Suribachi and Pork Chop Hill...where a wave of gritty American soldiers didn't spend such a peaceful day...

Crooked mountain trails;

slow, meandering streams and camping above the tree line. Rodeos and pick-up trucks; Thomas Jefferson and unalienable rights; the U.S. hockey team in Lake Placid; baseball, hot dogs, motherhood and apple pie; John Boy Walton, the Long Ranger, Clark Kent and Chuck Berry.

A land so fertile, and accommodating, and plentiful, and willing to be used... And oh, how it loves a gentle hand, good sense and lots of laughter!

Red checked tablecloths and washtubs full of ice-cold Coke; bobbing for apples. Country ham, sweet potato pie and hush your mouth! "Boys, I can't eat another bite." Talk about a heritage!

A birthday for all of us and gosh, it is always so hot... JOHN HANCOCK; dough boys in the Argonne Forest and Ira Hayes helping to raise our flag on Iwo Jima; forget about the political correctness, the finger pointing, the infighting, the family squabbles and what you hear a few extremists screaming on TV—jump on us in a serious way and you'll see our true colors... of thee I sing.

America! A-mer-i-ca...

An eagle in flight over Mount Rushmore, Crispus Attucks, Nathan Hale and Uncle Sam; red, white and blue have always been my favorite colors; George Washington, Alvin C. York, Audie Murphy and PFC Leon Colbert; Wrigley Field; and truths that are self-evident....that all men are created equal; 1776, courage, Valley Forge and let freedom ring; here's to the Lady in the Bay and "Son, hold that Flag up high, with reverence and pride – so the whole world can see it!"

God shed His grace on thee...

Plenty, goodness, majestic, independence...truly a land flowing with milk and honey...where all are endowed by their Creator with...life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness... Let's not be dismayed or take it for granted. And bless your hearts, Kate Smith and John Wayne and Merle Haggard; Old Glory; all night sings and dinner on the ground; if I could hear my mother pray again; one nation under God...even if we can't see it, or understand at times, or forget once in a while...

And crown thy good with brotherhood...

Good friends and family reunions; united; sack races; honeysuckle and lemonade; Articles of Confederation; the first to fight for right and freedom; block ice, folding chairs, blue grass music and more speeches; Lexington, Concord and I can be ready in a minute—men; a hand placed reverently over a heart; don't ever let it touch the ground... "Daddy, where did all these flags come from?" Patriotic, proud, thankful, grateful... stand up, America, and take a bow...

From sea to shining sea...

Honored To Live Here, Kes

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

New State Laws Benefit First Responders, Emergency Services

NASHVILLE (June 29) — New Tennessee laws supporting first responders and emergency services went into effect July 1. Among these include legislation that expands benefits for firefighters, strengthens protections for police and service animals and secures crucial funding for ground ambulance services statewide.

More Workers Compensation Benefits for Firefighters

Legislation sponsored by Senator Paul Bailey (R-Sparta) expands benefits for firefighters injured in the line of duty. Under existing law, the Barry Brady Act allows firefighters to be eligible for workers compensation benefits for certain cancers. The act established a presumption that any conditions or impairments of full-time firefighters were caused by certain occupational cancers that occurred while on the job.

Cancers covered in the Barry Brady Act are non-Hodgkin's lymphoma, colon cancer, skin cancer, and multiple myeloma. The new law expands the list of cancers to include leukemia and testicular cancer.

Joker's Law: Protecting Service K-9s

Another new law strengthens the penalty for anyone who harms a law enforcement or service animal in Tennessee. Known as Joker's Law and sponsored by Senator Mike Bell (R-Riceville), the bill increases the penalty for anyone who knowingly and unlawfully kills a police dog, fire dog, search and rescue dog, service animal, or police horse.

Offenders will now be charged with a Class B felony. Previously, the minimum charge was a Class E Felony. Anyone between the ages of 14 and 17 who kills or causes injury to one of those animals could also be tried as an adult.

The law is named in honor of Joker, a K-9 with the Bradley County Sheriff's Office who was seriously injured after being shot during a pursuit last year.

Securing Federal Funds to Cover Ground Ambulance Services

A new law sponsored by Senator Ken Yager (R-Kingston) extends the Ground Ambulance Assessment for one year to meet Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) requirements and ensure Tennessee receives crucial funding for ambulance services.

The Ground Ambulance Assessment was created in 2018 to help fill the gap between the expenses incurred by ambulance services to perform a transport and what Medicaid reimburses for this transport. Without using any state dollars, ground ambulance services pay into a fund that draws down over $20 million in federal funds that is then paid back out to these services based on their Medicaid transports.

Carroll County Sheriff's Reports

Foot Pursuit — Michael Edward Newbill, Jr., 46, of 166 Clay Street, Trezevant, was arrested following a June 23 foot pursuit in Trezevant.

According to the report by Deputy Scotty Davis, he went to a Clay Street residence and spoke with a female victim, who said Newbill had threatened her and then rode off on a bicycle toward Crooked Street. A computer check confirmed Newbill was wanted out of Gibson County. Davis located a man fitting Newbill's description sitting on a bicycle on Hames Street, and when asked, the man confirmed he was Newbill. When Davis started to exit his patrol vehicle, Newbill jumped off the bike and fled on foot. After a foot pursuit, Newbill was taken into custody by Davis and Deputy Ryan Hamilton. Charges filed against Newbill were not listed in the report.

Wreck, False Report — Cody Lee Lynn, 25, of 615 Big Buck Road was charged with filing a false report by Deputy Scotty Davis following a June 23 traffic accident on Big Buck Road.

According to Davis's report, Lynn called the Sheriff's Department to report he had just been assaulted by a man, who had then stolen his 2005 Volkswagen Jetta. About that same time, the Sheriff's Department received a call about a traffic accident with a vehicle on fire on Big Buck Road. Davis then went to Lynn's residence and observed Lynn had visible injuries consistent with a vehicular crash. When asked about it, Lynn said he had wrecked his vehicle and his mother had come and picked him up. Davis spoke with Lynn's mother, who confirmed her son's account. Davis transported Lynn to the scene of the accident, where officers with the Tennessee Highway Patrol cited Lynn for multiple violations.

Animals at Large — Charlotte Lynn Hinson, 46, who was listed as homeless, was arrested on warrants for theft of property and vandalism out of the Huntingdon Police Department on June 26.

According to the report by Deputy Eric Sawyers, Paul Stokes contacted the Sheriff's Department on June 26 and reported someone had stolen his 1968 Ford truck from Huntingdon and someone saw the truck in Trezevant. Sawyers noted he saw Hinson driving the truck the day before on Highway 436 but he did not know the vehicle was stolen at the time. Sawyers spotted Hinson driving the vehicle on Big Buck Road later that afternoon on June 26 and initiated a traffic stop. Stokes was called to the scene to pick up his vehicle, and it was discovered that numerous items in the vehicle did not belong to Stokes. Sawyers also noted the truck had been partially repainted.

License Violation, Warrant — Jason Bradley Batton, 46, of 73 Elm Street, McKenzie, was charged with driving on a revoked license and arrested on an outstanding warrant during a June 27 traffic stop in McKenzie.

Deputy Ryan Hamilton reported he pulled over a black UTV driven by Batton after observing Batton driving in a reckless manner on Elm Street and Walnut Avenue. A computer check showed Batton's license was revoked for a DUI conviction, and it also showed Batton had a warrant out of Decatur County. After exiting the vehicle, Batton attempted to flee on foot but only got about 20 yards before being caught and taken into custody.

Protection Order Violation — Ashton Lynn Warren, 21, of 545 Holmes Mill Road, Huntingdon, was charged with violating an order of protection on June 28.

Deputy Scotty Davis reported Warren tried to contact a female victim through Instagram in violation of a court order of protection. David noted Warren was also charged with violating an order of protection June 12.

Be sure to mark your calendar for Saturday, July 16th, when we will have our Tomato Festival. We will have all things tomato, and be sure to bring your garden’s biggest tomato to enter the Biggest Tomato Contest.

Jackson Symphony to Perform Free Concert in Huntingdon

The Jackson Symphony presents a free community concert on Huntingdon’s Court Square Thursday evening, July 21, beginning at 6:30 p.m. “Symphony on the Move” is an hour-long event sponsored by Huntingdon’s Paula Atkins and Clarksburg Mayor Howell Wayne Todd in cooperation with The Dixie and the Town of Huntingdon.

“The arts are such an important part of our lives, whether we realize it or not,” said Mrs. Atkins, “and to bring something like the Jackson Symphony to town is very special.”

Mrs. Atkins saw an opportunity to use a spot on the Symphony’s summer schedule and called Mayor Howell Todd to see what he thought about the two of them covering the cost. “He said he was ‘all in,’ and we took it from there,” said Atkins.

Todd said his response to Mrs. Atkins was immediate. “Paula and I are no different from many Carroll Countians who are appreciative of the role good classical music plays in our own lives. We wanted to make an effort to have it available to our local friends. Music has been so important to me all my life, and good classical music ranks right up there very close to the old hymns in providing a good tonic for my soul,” he said.

Sherry Freeman, Executive Director of the Symphony, said, “We are excited to bring our ‘Symphony on the Move’ community concert to Huntingdon.” This will be the group’s 42nd community concert. The concert represents all genres of music and entertains a large variety of age groups with recognizable tunes from musicals, today’s top hits, and a blend of classical pieces.

Mayor Todd encourages people to “come in their casual summer attire of tee shirts, polos, shorts, and flip flops, along with a comfortable lawn chair, and maybe a fan, to enjoy the music.”

Angela DeMaris at The Dixie also encourages event-goers to eat and shop at many of Huntingdon’s local businesses.

Atkins and Todd express deep appreciation for the assistance of Angela DeMaris at the Dixie and Kim Carter at City Hall in providing the Court Square area for the event. In the case of inclement weather, the Dixie is an alternate location.

Children Learn About Natural Gas At Carroll County Library

HUNTINGDON (June 30) — What is natural gas and what does it do? The children visiting the Carroll County Library learned those answers on June 30 from West Tennessee Public Utilities, the local natural gas distributor. Madison Endres, marketing manager for WTPUD, provided information about natural gas to the children. They learned about the smell of natural gas through a scratch and sniff postcard, what the colored marker flags mean to identify underground utilities, and to phone 811 before digging so the respective utility companies can mark their underground lines. The children enjoyed seeing heavy equipment used for the installation of underground natural gas lines. Brent Dillahunt, general manager of the Huntingdon-based WTPUD, said the distributor has 1,400 miles of main gas lines and 16,000 customers in five West Tennessee counties.

McKenzie's Historic Caboose Undergoes Restoration

The City of McKenzie recently contracted Mike Mazza of Mazza's Painting to repaint the city's historic caboose, which is located downtown to the left of McKenzie's Splash Pad. The caboose had never been repainted since its arrival to McKenzie.

The month-long project consisted of pressure-washing, scraping off old paint, priming, and using Bondo Body Repair before finally repainting the caboose. It is still McKenzie red with black tracing underneath the caboose, around the windows, and on the handrails.

Mazza also painted the caboose's interior blue. The City of McKenzie also contracted Mike Mazza to repaint the backside of the Farmers Market, also located downtown. He finished the Farmers Market repaint in early June.

UT Martin's Cindy West Receives President's Award

MARTIN (June 27) — Cindy West, dean of the College of Education, Health, and Behavioral Sciences at the University of Tennessee at Martin, received one of seven President's Awards presented to faculty and staff members throughout the UT system. West received the "Embrace Diversity" award, which honors an individual who respects the qualities and circumstances that make each individual and the UT system stronger. The awards were presented following the UT Board of Trustees annual meeting June 24 in Knoxville. President's Awards, established in 2016, are the highest honor a UT employee can receive and are intended to spotlight success and inspire excellence. Honorees are selected each year from a system-wide pool of candidates nominated by campus and institute leaders. Since she began serving as college dean in 2015, West has dedicated herself to recruiting and serving students and faculty of color. During her time as dean, she has actively recruited six Black faculty members, and since beginning her career at UT Martin in 1990, she has recruited and supported 31 faculty members of color. West also makes herself available to any students or faculty member who needs assistance by maintaining and open-door policy. West co-founded UT Martin's Call Me MiSTER program, which strives to prepare male students from diverse backgrounds for future careers in education and is the only program of its kind in Tennessee. The program, which began at Clemson University in 2000, provides participants with financial assistance as well as a cohort and mentorship system that provides them with academic and social support. In fall 2022, the group will have 17 students, and the first graduates will complete their degrees in 2023. "When you think about embracing diversity on the Martin campus, Cindy West is the first name that comes to mind," said Chancellor Keith Carver. "She's a tireless recruiter of students for both social work and education and behavioral sciences programs. She's also an incredible recruiter of new staff and faculty talent who will help diversify our campus." Other UT Martin faculty and staff members nominated for awards include Dr. Michael Gibson, professor of geology; Gina McClure, chief housing officer; Dr. Steve Elliott, associate professor of mathematics; Dr. Clinton Smith, chair of the Department of Educational Studies and associate professor of special education; Ryan Martin, assistance director of residence life; and Ashley Bynum, associate athletic director for compliance/academics.
