McKenzie Council Begin Talks on LED Lighting, AMR Water Meters

BY JASON MARTIN
jmartin@mckenziebanner.com
Copyright 2018, Tri-County, Pub.

McKenzie (July 12) — The McKenzie City Board of Mayor and Council took part in a training workshop with Trane Building Advantage. The workshop focused on energy savings through streetlight replacement, automatic water reading (AMR) and facility efficiency projects.

The preliminary project cost is estimated at $4,908,227 over a 20-year bonded period. Trane estimates a guaranteed saving of $6,017,209. With a guaranteed savings, Trane will pay the City of McKenzie a specified amount, if for some reason, the yearly savings does not match the anticipated amount. The use of guaranteed savings will be applied to the maintenance and operations budget (utility dollars) as capital to make needed upgrades and modernizations to municipal building environmental systems.

The city governments of Paris and Rockwood along with Knox County and Robertson County have used Trane to implement the changes. The county school districts of Weakley, Haywood, Knox, Maury and Coffee have also moved towards Trane's energy efficient program.

The efficiency program does not replace the normal annual or capital budget. It is to provide a third (supplemental) funding stream by using guaranteed future energy and operational savings as a source of funding.

Through the preliminary study, the annual program cost is $226,893 per year for 20 years. This purchases existing streetlights from Carroll County Electric, upgrades approximately 1,400 streetlights to LED fixtures, implements of AMR for commercial and residential water meters, and upgrades HVAC and lighting in city own buildings. Trane guarantees $270,079 each year in savings.

If the city council agrees for Trane to continue, the council will authorize a letter for commitment. This allows for Trane to execute an "Investment Grade Audit" (IGA). The cost of the IGA is $49,885. If Trane does not develop a viable project during the IGA process, then the city will not pay for the IGA. In the event Trane does develop a viable project, the city will pay Trane for the IGA and the cost will be included in the overall project and paid for within the saving guarantees. If a viable project is developed and the city decides not to contract with Trane, then the city will be required to reimburse Trane for the cost of the IGA.

An IGA would take approximately 90 days. The IGA includes, Trane and other technical personnel to perform an in-depth study of McKenzie's facilities, street lights and water metering system to identify opportunities, areas of concern and cost saving potential. Upon completion of the IGA, Trane will provide the city a final proposal for a guaranteed energy utility saving performance contract. With the completion of the review and acceptance by the city of the IGA, Trane will develop strategies with a detailed scope of work.

After hearing the presentation from Stu Shunk of Trane, the council asked for a week to talk with individuals from the City of Paris and the Paris Board of Utilities about the project. Representatives from Trane will provide an additional workshop Thursday, July 19 at 5 p.m. at which time the council will decide to either grant or deny Trane's request to pursue an IGA.

Citizen's Refusal Delays Repair of Hazard

BY JIM POTTS

Trezevant Board members voted, during their regular meeting Tuesday, July 10, to accept the recommendation of City Attorney Charles Trotter and take property owner Ricky Nelson to court and either get an order allowing the city to come on his property and assess the city's drainage pipe that lies under his property or invoke the right of imminent domain. Trotter addressed the board telling them that his hands were tied at the moment and the board would have to give him some authority to take action one way or another. The issue with Nelson is holding up a pending agreement between the city, CSX Railroad, and the Tennessee Department of Transportation to get something done about the North Park Street crossing which is turning into a hazard. Trotter noted that several attempts have been made to contact Nelson including a certified letter and there has been no response. Mayor Dennis Mitchell also added that he had attempted to contact Nelson as well with no response. He emphasized that he, in representing the city, was not trying to take the property but merely get access to the property so the city can assess what needs to be done with the drainage line running under Nelson's property.

Nelson reportedly wants $6,000 for the property before anyone does anything to it. Trotter indicated he was told the property was allegedly worth only $1,900 dollars but no definite figure was available without getting an official property assessment. He told the board their choice was to either pay Nelson his price or go to court and he recommended not paying the price because it would likely open the door for other property owners to do the same thing.

He advised the board that state law was on their side because the city is responsible but not necessarily liable for water lines, sewer lines, drainage lines that run under private property. So there are easements for those lines similar to property owners getting easements for their driveways to connect to city, county, and state roadways. Trotter said knowledge of those line easements would normally show up on a warranty deed that gets passed from owner to owner but somewhere along the line they might get left off and the current deed might not list that easement.

In another property issue, progress has been made in getting property owners to clean up the Grimes property. City Attorney Trotter informed the board that Grimes has hired Steve West to represent him and the two attorneys have spoken recently about setting a time for Inspection Solutions to assess the property and make recommendations. Trotter advised that no legal action has been taken yet and that property improvements have been made since the last meeting.

Two companies submitted bids to do paving work on several streets in Trezevant this year. Martin Paving and Arrow Paving submitted bids to pave Skyline, Clearview, Church, Short, East Railroad, and Gin streets as well as a portion of Big Buck Road and Atwood St. Martin Paving submitted a bid of $141,713 while Arrow submitted a bid of $148,348. The board approved the lower bid from Martin Paving. No specific date has been set for the work to begin.

Mayor Dennis Mitchell advised the board that a Water Department loan had come due and the city could either renew the loan or pay it off completely. He noted that paying it off was not specifically budgeted but that money was available to pay off the loan at $3,038. The board voted to pay off the loan. Mitchel also told the board that a lot of funds would be needed for a pending water plant project that is being considered. This project was already being considered prior to a pump failure that caused water outages and pressure drops prompting the city to issue a temporary boil order last week. Mitchell told the board that water plant manager Danny Connell is getting some engineering assessments done and that money was available for this project through savings in the water budget for several years. He noted that they should be ready to to take action on this project at next month's meeting.

Board member Pam Bryant asked the mayor and board about the possibility of a sign ordnance controlling the height of posted signs. She was granted permission to research the issue and come back to the board with her findings next month.

Weststar Hosts Weakley County Candidate Forum

The WestStar Leadership Program's Weakley County alumni group hosted a forum July 12 for candidates seeking political office in Weakley County. Pictured are mayoral candidates Jason Plunk (left) and Jake Bynum (right), who participated in a debate during the event. Dr. Richard Robinson (center), associate professor of communications and faculty adviser to WUTM-FM 90.3 "The Hawk," served as forum moderator.

MARTIN — The WestStar Leadership Program's Weakley County alumni group hosted a forum July 12 for candidates seeking political office in Weakley County. Nine candidates participated in the event, five running unopposed and four running in contested races for county sheriff and county mayor.

Candidates were given three minutes to introduce themselves and tell why they are seeking countywide office. Mayoral candidates Jake Bynum and Jason Plunk ended the event with a formal debate. Debate questions were developed by a committee that included a Republican, a Democrat and an independent.

"WestStar's mission is to shape the future of West Tennessee, and that starts at the community and county level," said Dr. Charley Deal, WestStar executive director. "Our role is to be as non-partisan as possible but to get education about the candidates and where they stand on issues out to the general public."

An open reception held prior to the forum allowed community members to meet the candidates before they took the stage in the Boling University Center's Watkins Auditorium. Dr. Richard Robinson, associate professor of communications and faculty adviser to WUTM-FM 90.3 "The Hawk," served as forum moderator and introduced each candidate in turn.

"I came because I'm familiar with the candidates, and I've always been interested in local government," said Bennie Castleman. "I just wanted to hear what the candidates had to say, and I think they all did a great job. … I appreciate WestStar and the university having (this event)." Castleman and his wife, Barbara, are longtime resident of Weakley County and own two Shoe Shack locations in the area.

WestStar alumni groups in other counties have sponsored similar events for local candidates during the current election year. In February, WestStar partnered with the Tennessee Press Association and others to co-sponsor a gubernatorial candidate forum during the Tennessee Press Association Winter Convention in Nashville. In May, the 2018 WestStar class organized and sponsored a Tennessee gubernatorial forum that featured six candidates who are seeking the governor's office.

The WestStar Leadership Program is sponsored by the University of Tennessee at Martin.

Early voting for the Aug. 2 election runs July 13-28. Election days are Aug. 2 for the federal and state primary election and general county election, and Nov. 6 for the federal and state general election.

McKENZIE (July 12) — During the regular monthly meeting of the McKenzie City Board of Mayor and Council, members discussed possible changes to the fireworks ordinance. Mayor Jill Holland and members of the council received complaints of the fireworks policy being abused during the Fourth of July allowance window. Complaints included the shooting of fireworks before and after set dates, not obeying the quite hours and the pavilion at Mulberry Park catching fire.

Police Chief Craig Moates noted his department received complaints on shooting of fireworks after hours. Moates explained it is nearly impossible to catch an individual because of the time it takes for his officers to respond due to the possible threat of the sound of fireworks actually being gun fire.

With the possibility of banning fireworks completely, the council came to an agreement to request changes to the ordinance without a ban. The new proposed ordinance will allow the shooting of fireworks from July 1—July 5 and then again on the dates of December 24 and December 31. The hours will remain from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m.

The McKenzie 6U T-Ball All-Stars were given a mayoral proclamation for winning the state championship Mayor Holland presented each player and coach with a copy of the proclamation. Members of the team received congratulations and handshakes from council members. Members of the team include; Lane Brown, Charlie Cassidy, Hudson Garrett, Dierks Ghyers, Jake Ghyers, Ella Hawkins, Xander Morgan, Camden Papich, Charlie Scott, Seth Stafford, Rex Thompson and Tateum Toombs with coaches Chad Brown, Brian Stafford, Nick Ghyers and Mark Ghyers.

Mayor Holland informed the council of a grant the city will receive for a dog park. The non-matching grant (no money from the city) totals $25,000. The park will be constructed near the walking track at the City Park near the Como Street entrance.

Under financial matters, the city paid Richardson's Body Shop $6,513.90 and Floyd's Equipment Company $5,600 for repairs to a water department truck. The repairs stem from an accident during the winter month in which a civilian hit the truck on Forrest Ave. Insurance covered the cost of the repairs.

In old business, four ordinances were approved on the second reading. Ordinance 520 establishes an updated occupational safety and health program plan, devises rules and regulations, and provides for a safety director (Jennifer Waldrup) and the implementation of such program plan. Ordinance 521 amends the text of the zoning ordinance of McKenzie, Tenn. by prohibiting the issuance of certificates of occupancy to developers who fail to install landscaping. Ordinance 522 Peddlers and Door to Door Sales repeals and replaces the current ordinance, Chapter 2 and 3 of Title 9 of the McKenzie City Codes which includes a checklist for customers. Ordinance 523 temporarily continues the fiscal year (2017-2018) operating budget.

Under new business, the council approved on the first reading Ordinance 524 to amend the zoning ordinance by amending Chapter 4, Section 11-417, fence requirements, to require the finished/outside of wood fences to face the adjacent property.

Under department reports, Chief Moates stated the police department received 1235 calls for the month of June. He noted his department was down two officers with two anticipated hired within the next few weeks. The new officers will be attending the police academy.

Fire Chief Brian Tucker informed the council of 26 incidents for the month of June. There was one residential fire for the month. Tucker also informed the council of the completion of the new fire station roof. He said there were a few minor leaks but the company has been back to make necessary repairs.

In other city updates, the Farmers Market will soon add a pergola to the property. The new edition will allow local merchants the opportunity to use the area after the regular market season. Construction is still on hold for the Cedar Street sidewalk project as the Tennessee Department of Transportation (T-DOT) is still working with Americans with Disabilities Act Administration (ADA) to give the go ahead to begin the next steps toward construction.

The next regular meeting of the McKenzie City Board of Mayor and Council is August 9 at 6 p.m. at the McKenzie Municipal Complex.

HUNTINGDON (July 10) — The Huntingdon Town Council met briefly Tuesday. A light agenda included notification of the award of a sewer grant, authorization to apply for a water grant and recognition of the local 6U softball team's state championship.

The mayor relayed to the council that the town had been awarded a 2018 CDBG grant in the amount of $336,000 for sewer system improvements, which will include replacement of the Highway 22 Bypass pumping station, the Williams Street Pumping Station and completion of an evaluation study of the system.

The council authorized the town to submit an application for a FastTrack Infrastructure Development Program grant from the Tennessee Department of Ecomonic and Community Development as part of the Granges project expansion for a lift station replacement on Buena Vista Road. The project will cost a total of $455,000, with $395,850 in grant funds and a local match of $59,150.

Members approved a water bill adjustment for Chris Smith, whose property on Murray Lane experienced a leak. The bill was originally $752.80. Normal adjustment policy lowered the bill to $267.72, and the council followed precedent to further lower the bill to $250.

Also approved were two requests for the use of local parks. Eastview Baptist Church will use Sesquicentennial Park on Saturday, July 21 for "God's Day," a free event with food, games, music and a 5K run to support mission work. West Tennessee Edge, a local travel ball team, will use the north field of Veterans Park through November.

perform 60 point repairs on the gravity sewer, replace five manhole frames and covers, perform 10 manhole rehabilitations, and reconnect 200 service lines. The work is being done meet a Consent Order by the Tennessee Department of Conservation which ordered a continued effort to reduce to inflow and infiltration, make improvements to the operational condition of the WWTP lab and installation/replacement of dual operating pumps in the system lift stations. McKenzie has a population of 5,310 and all residents will benefit from this project.

Assistant to the Secretary for Rural Development Anne Hazlett today announced that the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) is investing $267 million in 103 infrastructure projects to upgrade water and wastewater systems in rural communities. Included in this announcement, Tennessee State Director Jim Tracy announces seven projects in Tennessee with an investment of over $511 million in loans and over $6.1 million in grants.

"Having access to adequate clean water is vital to the prosperity of Tennessee's rural communities" Tracy said. "We are grateful for Secretary Perdue's commitment to being a strong partner in addressing infrastructure needs."

USDA is making investments in seven Tennessee counties through the Water and Waste Disposal Loan and Grant program. The funds can be used to finance drinking water, storm water drainage and waste disposal systems for rural communities with 10,000 or fewer residents.

Inn

gathering space in the oversized lobby for guests, visitors and local residents; larger meeting and conference space; and a diversified room mix including suites and family rooms to meet customer demands.

"The new facility will create a space that the people of Henry and Stewart counties, and to a greater extent Tennessee, will be proud of for years to come," said Goodwyn Mills Cawood's Architect Patrick Neuber. "Our goal for this project is to create something that speaks to the unique nature of Paris Landing State Park and showcases the special views of Kentucky Lake. Creating a sense of place will help this facility meet the needs of locals and draw tourists to continue to allow the park to have a positive influence on the local economy."

The building design accentuates the picturesque waterfront views of Kentucky Lake while supporting the park's marina activities. Its proximity and central location to other park features will allow guests to maximize their stay and take advantage of all the amenities the park has to offer.

"After viewing the rendering drawings, I was convinced that the citizens of the 75th district will be pleased with the new inn," said Rep. Tim Wirgau, R-Buchanan. "One of my top priorities is having the inn finished on time. I believe that the stakeholders involved realize the importance of this, including Doster Construction. They'll give local contractors every opportunity to have a fair shot at working on this project, ensuring it's done right and giving the inn a local look and feel."

"I am very excited to be a part of the Paris Landing inn project," said Dustin Crouch with Doster. "I grew up just down the highway from the inn and spent many summer days out on the lake and around the park. It means so much to me to be able to come back home and build something at the lake for everyone to enjoy for years to come. Paris Landing State Park and the surrounding areas are important to me, my family and the community, and I will be reaching out to local contractors to get as many local companies involved in the project as possible."

The $26 million facility is expected to generate approximately 35% more annually than the previous structure in sales and occupancy taxes, serving as a catalyst for regional economic growth and prosperity.

The current inn will close in August 2018 with the new facility expected to open in the summer of 2020. Doster will host an outreach event for subcontractors interested in the project at the park on July 24 from 4:30-6 p.m.

OPINION

Inglenook Book Club July News

The Inglenook Book Club met in July at Lakeside Senior Living Center with Jean McKinnie and Elaine Williams serving as hostesses.

At the conclusion of refreshments and the business portion of the meeting, Vice President Sally Sutton introduced our speaker, Carolyn Goodwin, who chose best-selling writer David Baldacci as the subject of her program.

To date, David Baldacci has written and published 36 best-selling novels for adults, as well as six novels for younger readers. Along with several stand-alone novels, Balducci has written quite a few novels in series featuring the same characters.

His series include The Camel Club series, the King & Maxwell series, Will Robie series, the John Puller series, the Amos Decker series, and the A. Shaw series. These all involve political intrigue, terrorism, assassinations, and crime in general. The King & Maxwell series became a television series on the TNT cable network with Baldacci serving as consulting producer.

The Camel Club series features an eclectic group of eccentrics who study conspiracy theories, current events, and the machinations of government to discover the "truth" behind the country's actions. In the Amos Decker series, the "Memory Man" Amos Decker works with the FBI to solve crimes.

The Will Robie series features Will Robie and partner Jessica Reel who are the ones the government calls in when utmost secrecy is required to take out those who plot violence and mass destruction against the United States.

John Puller is a special agent, combat veteran, and Army investigator. Sean King and Michelle Maxwell are former Secret Service agents turned private investigators.

Baldacci's novels for younger readers include his Vega Jane fantasy series, the 39 Clues series, and the Freddy & the French Fries series.

Stand-alone novels include Absolute Power, his first published in 1996 and made into a film in 1997 starring Clint Eastwood and Gene Hackman. Two others—Wish You Well and The Christmas Train—have also been adapted for film. Wish You Well stars Ellen Burstyn, and The Christmas Train stars Danny Glover. This latter film has been shown recently on the Hallmark TV Channel.

David Gregory Baldacci was born and reared in Richmond, Virginia in 1960. After earning his BA degree from Virginia Commonwealth University and Juris Doctor from the University of Virginia School of Law, he practiced law in Washington, D.C. for nine years. He began writing novels while practicing law, and his first, Absolute Power, took him three years to write. It immediately became an international best-seller. Since then, all his novels have been best-sellers published in 45 languages in more than 80 countries with over 130 million dollars in sales.

David and his wife, Michelle, established the "Wish You Well" Foundation to combat illiteracy in America. In 2008 the foundation partnered with the "Feeding America" program to launch "Feeding Body and Mind," which addresses the connection between illiteracy, poverty and hunger. Through "Feeding Body and Mind," more than one million new and gently used books have been collected and distributed through food banks to families in need.

Baldacci was chosen in 1997 by People Magazine as one of the "Fifty Most Beautiful People." He and his family currently live in Fairfax County, Virginia.

Our next meeting will be in August with Geneva Johnson and Shelia Rogers serving as hostesses.

Members present were Victoria Ard, Carolyn Goodwin, Geneva Johnson, Zia Locke, Shirley Martin, Jean McKinnie, Sandi McMahen, Carolyn Moore, Mary Newman, Carolyn Potts, Shelia Rogers, Gaye Rowan, Genia Sherwood, Sally Sutton, Elaine Williams, and Donna Ward.

HUNKER DOWN WITH KES

Counting Alien Feet...

I took it to be a coiled up serpent at first. But it was a little too green. At sixty-nine miles an hour you had to look quick! And by the time I figured out it was a garden hose, I was already by it. Nine or ten mile markers flashed by as I pondered on how a perfectly rolled up garden hose got left in the middle of the interstate.

It was actually more like three fourths of a hose. The metal ends where it could be attached to something were missing. You'd think it fell off a truck, maybe heading to a garbage dump. But it could never have withstood the fall, bounce and slide...and still been coiled so tightly. Plus, with today's strict refuge rules, what landfill is so far away that you've got to travel down an interstate to get to it.

I could think of only two logical explanations: It was put there by aliens to spy on the driving habits of earth people OR I had unknowingly entered The Twilight Zone.

Either rationalization was fraught with possibilities. We all know aliens exist in some form or fashion. I remember the Halloween Leon got "taken" up into the flying saucer. He escaped and staggered home convinced their technology was far advanced over ours. Maybe they metamorphose into garden hoses to study our migration patterns.

I don't know a thing about space, time and dimensions. But I remember as a kid Rod Serling coming on TV each week and taking us someplace where the paranormal was routine. If this Twilight Zone could have vacant cities where cigars were found still smoking or apelike men walked on airplane wings at 20,000 feet or coffee pots boiled in empty cafes...a garden hose laying in a highway for reasons known only to Rod would be a snap.

It does make life more fun!

I'm always amazed to see the lone shoe abandoned on the side of the road. And I say single shoe because you never see the mate. My mind goes into overdrive. There can't be that many one legged men in America! What could cause a guy to kick off one shoe and not the other? What could be chasing him? Is there some sinister tale that begins "It was a dark and stormy night..." that accompanies every solitary shoe on the side of a road.

All this footwear could not have dropped off garbage trucks! Maybe a child in the back seat wanted to see if a flip flop would fly. Perhaps an angry motorist threw an Ecco at the guy who was following too close. It could be an old hound dog drug one of Bubba's steel toed Husky boots off the front porch.

I've seen a Nike Air Max in cattle country. And an eighteen inch Justin cowboy boot resting comfortably in downtown Indianapolis. I try to guess the size every time. And of course, my mind goes to conjuring up a story of how one shoe makes it to this particular spot on this particular day at this particular road. I wonder if "left" or "right" is the more dominate one dropped, lost, forsaken, thrown away...

Do you reckon anyone ever stops and tries a shoe on? Who eventually picks these things up? Is there a national one shoe lost and found?

You know, it could be that aliens only have one foot.

I saw a pillow less than a mile from the house just this week lying in the middle of Knowles Road. I thought it a strange place to take a nap. Even if you were from another planet! It was the ever plentiful gray pillow with the white and blue stripes.

Again, you can believe the garbage theory if you want to. But I prefer to think of some lost soul pilgriming across America, down to his last nickel. A big Cadillac pulls up beside him and offers a ride. It's his girlfriend who had been searching for him since 2011. Her daddy struck oil outside of Lawton, Oklahoma. They, and he, were millionaires! Shoot, the last thing he needed now was an old pillow.

If it had been full of feathers I would have picked it up.

I don't remember shoes, pillows or old hoses being cast out by the highway when I was learning to drive. Those were way too valuable to discard, or lose. Mostly things left in the road back then were dead raccoons or a scraggly opossum scattered here and there. No imagination needed with these road kills; and certainly not worthy of a clandestine story or Twilight Zone material for sure.

We did stop and see if the body was still warm.

Respectfully,
Kes

AT&T Expands High Speed Internet in Benton, Henry

Paris, Tn., July 19, 2018 – AT&T* Fixed Wireless Internet for rural and underserved locations is now available to residents and small businesses in parts of Benton and Henry counties, including Big Sandy, Camden, Holladay and Paris.

This rollout, now in 18 states, began in 2017. The company now offers Fixed Wireless Internet to over 440,000 locations across 18 states with plans to provide access to over 1.1 million locations by the end of 2020.

"This is a good day for residents in Benton and Henry counties as this innovative new service brings high-speed connectivity to more rural families and small businesses," said State Senator John Stevens. "We have work that remains to be done, and I will continue to work with my colleagues and private industry to continue bringing access to high-speed Internet to rural Tennessee."

"Our residents and business-owners have made their voices heard, and my colleagues and I are working hard to create an environment where we will see more announcements like this – more announcements that infrastructure is being deployed to extend access to high-speed Internet to families across our community," said State Representative Tim Wirgau.

Fixed Wireless Internet service delivers an internet connection with download speeds of at least 10Mbps and upload speeds of at least 1Mbps. The connection comes from a wireless tower to a fixed antenna on a customer's home or business. This is an efficient way to deliver high-quality, high-speed internet to customers living in underserved rural areas.

The towers used to provide this service are connected to AT&T's network using AT&T fiber optics. AT&T has more than 2.3 million strand miles of AT&T fiber optics covering Tennessee, which enables the company to offer a wide variety of products and services delivering the high-speed connectivity Tennessee businesses and residents need.

McKenzie Police Reports

Aggravated Assault/Violation of Probation — Officer Trey Boucher arrested and charged Bruce Allen Heater, of McKenzie, with two counts of aggravated assault on Tuesday, July 10, after he reportedly pulled a gun on two individuals with minor children in the vehicle.

According to the report filed, Mr. James Fail, also of McKenzie contacted the police department and stated that around 9:09 p.m., he saw Heater parked in his truck at the parking lot of E.W. James and pulled up beside Mr. Heater and asked him when he would have the money he owed him. Fail stated that Heater indicated he wasn't planning to pay him and the next thing he saw was the end of a black gun being pointed at him. Fail stated that he drove off at that point and Heater followed him.

Tandy Conway stated that when her boyfriend, Mr. Fail, asked Heater about the money owed him, Heater pointed a handgun at them, and threatened to blow Mr. Fail' head off and told them he didn't care if the kids were in the car or not. Ms. Conway stated that her two sons, ages three and one, were in the jeep with them when the incident occurred.

Officer Boucher located Heater driving on Cedar Avenue just after the dispatch went out about the incident and initiated a stop. Heater was asked about the gun and he replied he did not have a gun but a pellet gun on the floor board. Heater was asked what happened at E.W. James. He replied that Fail pulled up and asked him for money and told him he didn't have any money just this holding up the pellet pistol. Heater was detained for investigation and advised of his rights. The pellet pistol was recovered and described as being a large black revolver style pistol with SNL.357 on the barrel. Mr. Fail and Ms. Conway stated that they believed the gun was real at the time they were threatened.

Heater was charged with two counts of aggravated assault with a total bond of $10,000. Ms. Joyce Biggs was in the truck with Heater at the time of the stop and was found to have a violation of probation out of Henry County and was arrested and held for the Henry County Sheriff's Department.

Domestic Assault — Officer Steven Scott reported that early Thursday morning, July 12, he met with Billy Borum in the lobby of the McKenzie Police Department. Mr. Borum appeared upset and stated that he and his girlfriend, Tracy Allen, had been fighting. Mr. Borum had visible injuries to his forehead and stated it was from him and Ms. Allen fighting. Ms. Allen had a scrape on her elbow and stated it was from Mr. Borum pushing her down. Both were arrested and charged with domestic assault.

Notice of Public Meeting — TVA

Public Scoping for TVA's Natural Resource Plan Update

TVA is updating the 2011 Natural Resource Plan (NRP) which guides the work conducted on the public lands and waters entrusted to TVA's management, as well as within TVA's power service area. The 2011 NRP organized TVA's work into six resource areas, but was not inclusive of all of TVA's Natural Resource (NR) efforts. In the 2020 NRP, TVA proposes 10 focus areas that provide a direct line of sight to all NR functions. These focus areas include:

Reservoir Lands Planning – Section 26a & Land Use Agreements – Recreation
Public Land Protection – Land & Habitat Stewardship – Ecotourism
Nuisance & Invasive Species Management – Cultural Resource Management
Water Resource Stewardship – Public Outreach & Information

The proposed NRP update includes more clearly defined strategies, including objectives and programs for each focus area and a flexible approach for long-term planning, which will help TVA be better equipped to prioritize funding and support TVA's mission.

To guide the development of the 2020 NRP, TVA will host an open house public scoping meeting to obtain public input, answer questions and receive comments on August 2, 2018, from 5:00 to 7:30 p.m. at Paris Landing State Park in Conference Room A at 400 Lodge Rd., Buchanan, TN 38222.

TVA is seeking public input to identify issues and concerns that should be analyzed during the environmental review. TVA invites the public to visit www.tva.com/nrp for more information about the proposed NRP update. Comments may be made at the public meetings or by mail or email to the addresses below. Any comments received, including names and addresses, will become part of the administrative record, and will be available for public inspection. Please submit comments by August 20, 2018.

Habitat or Humanity Dedication Held In Huntingdon

BY JIM POTTS

Carroll County's Habitat For Humanity dedicated its 21st house in the county on Sunday afternoon, July 15, in Huntingdon.

43 McKendree Lane is the latest Habitat Home to be completed and dedicated. The home was built for Cynthia Ann Park and her daughter Lynn.

A number of people were in attendance for the home dedication which began with a welcome and prayer by Andrew Stokes.

Becky Burkhalter introduced the Park family and made the traditional bible presentation to the family.

Burkhalter noted that this house would not have been possible without the help of a number of people.

The property for the home became available when Huntingdon Mayor Dale Kelly sold one piece of property and donated another piece of property to the Carroll County Habitat for Humanity organization.

Leo Leathers supervised the entire construction project while Billy Smith and Obra Gurley were involved with nearly all phases of the construction project.

Thomas Rowland from the Carroll County Vocational Center along with a crew of students were responsible for installing the electric wiring in the home.

Burkhalter also had a big thank you for the Carroll County Jail trusties who came and did roofing and siding work on the home.

Each potential Habitat family goes through a process starting with an application to the Habitat board.

They have classes to attend to understand what is involved with home ownership and also have to put 500 hours of 'sweat equity' into their home.

According to Burkhalter, this is the sixth Habitat home in this area of Huntingdon, four alone on McKendree Lane and two on Cotham Drive adjacent to McKendree Lane.

There are Habitat homes in nearly every town in the county including, Huntingdon, McKenzie, Hollow Rock, Trezevant, Clarksburg, and one near Atwood.

A new Habitat home is set to begin construction in McKenzie in the fall.

Kids Get Creative at the Annual Carroll Arts Camp

McKENZIE (July 9-13) — A total of 25 kids in four age groups participated in the annual Creativity Camp, sponsored and hosted by Carroll Arts last week at First Cumberland Presbyterian Church.

The four groups, Red, Green, Yellow and Pink, rotated between four classes, Art, Music, Drama and Creative Writing, each day.

In Art, instructor Glynda Rich taught the campers about the parts of design: line, shape, texture, color and value, and the kids created several pieces of art.

Music instructor Joanna Turner taught the basics of rhythm and had the kids learn songs on various instruments (provided courtesy McKenzie Elementary School).

In Drama, Denise Sam instructed the kids on the basics of theatre, including stage directions, voice, body language and props. The older groups developed skits.

Creative Writing instructor Liz Gonzalez had the campers write journal entries, poetry and short stories. The oldest group, Pink, collaborated to create a comic strip to accompany a short story.

McKenzie High School student Lydia Warren served as teacher's aid during the camp.

The event culminated with a celebration of the arts on Friday. Family and friends were invited to the church to see what the campers learned and accomplished during the week.

Each kid received a Creativity Diploma to wrap up the camp.

Rich told the parents that their children were "cooperative and eager to learn."

She also noted that the free event was funded by Carroll Arts, and that this year's camp received a "significant donation" that was much appreciated by Carroll Arts.

HUNTINGDON (July 12) — Baptist Huntingdon held a meet-and-greet reception Thursday with Dr. Louis Caruso and Stern Cardiovascular in the R. B. Wilson Medical Center lobby.

Medical Center administrators and staff, along with members of the public, were introduced to Dr. Caruso and the staff of Stern Cardiovascular Foundation, which adds a Huntingdon location to its existing Union City practice.

Dr. Caruso, MD, FACC, was born and raised in Brooklyn, New York. After receiving his BA from Fordham University, he achieved his medical degree from Albany Medical College. He is board certified in Internal Medicine, Cardiology and Nuclear Cardiology and a Fellow of the American College of Cardiology. He has been in practice since 1996.

Dr. Caruso practices consultative cardiology, performing cardiac catheterizations and interpretation of cardiac diagnostic imaging. He has interests in venous disease and endovenous radiofrequency ablation of venous reflux disease.

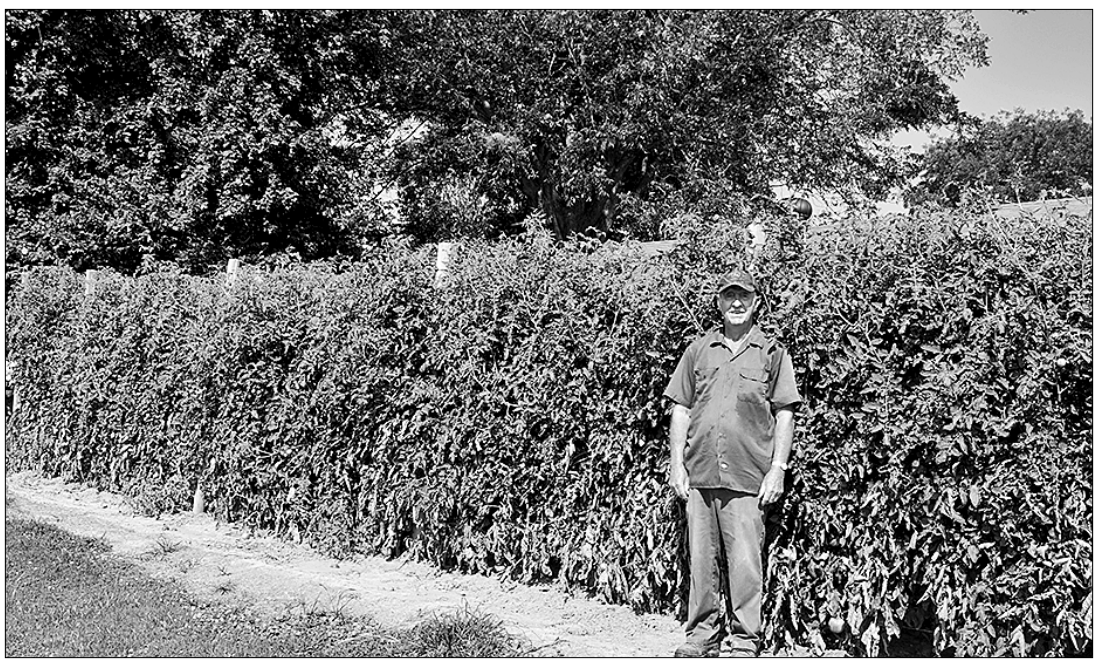
The doctor resides in Union City with his wife, Dixie. The couple have four daughters.

Baptist Huntingdon CEO Susan Breeden said at the gathering, "We're excited to have Stern Cardiovascular join the Medical Center. We think it will be a wonderful addition."

Dr. Caruso said, "We're happy to be here, and we hope to do good for the community."

Stern Cardiovascular is located in the Physician Office Building at the R. B. Wilson Medical Center and can be reached at 901-271-1000 or 800-523-8226.

Trezevant Man Grows Towering Tomatoes



Sherrill Smith of Main Street in Trezevant has produced an impressive plot of tomato plants. The tallest of his 120 tomato plants stretch at least nine feet high. The garden sits where, decades ago, Jim Bryant's blacksmith shop sat. Smith says the lot has good, black soil that was unused for years until he began cultivating it ten years ago. He expects the tomato plants to produce 25-30 bushels on the season. Smith and his wife, Wanda, can most of the tomatoes for family, friends and themselves. Their garden also includes cantaloupes, cucumbers, okra, potatoes, sweet potatoes, green beans, "shelly" beans, peppers and muscadines, though deer have done a number on the okra and some of the beans. Photo by Brad Sam/The Banner

Refinery Issues Push Gas Prices Higher

TAMPA, Fla. (July 16, 2018) — Gas prices are trending lower after an small jump at the pump last week. Gas prices in Tennessee are two cents higher than a week ago. The state average of $2.63 is 10 cents less than this year's high, yet remains 61 cents more than this time last year.

The most expensive gas price averages in Tennessee are in Jackson ($2.67), Memphis ($2.66), and Nashville ($2.65)

The least expensive gas price averages in Tennessee are in Cleveland ($2.56), Chattanooga ($2.56), and Clarksville-Hopkinsville ($2.57)

The average price of gasoline in Tennessee has risen over the past two years, from $2.03 in 2016 to $2.63.

Pump prices rose last week after reports surfaced of seven gulf coast refineries dealing with various operational issues. Some of the issues have already been resolved, while others could take weeks. For instance, the Motiva refinery - the largest in the country - suffered a mechanical outage to one of their catalytic crackers. This is the most important component for converting oil to other fuels. The outage will likely cause reduced output from the plant, and may not be resolved until August.

"Fortunately, fuel prices plunged on the stock market last week, which created adverse pressure to the rising prices caused by refinery issues," said Mark Jenkins, spokesman, AAA - The Auto Club Group. "This sort of volatility at the pump is common during the summer driving season. The three most common reasons for increases during the summer are refinery outages, geopolitical tension, and hurricanes."

On Wednesday, oil prices plummeted nearly $4 and gasoline futures fell 10 cents. Some of those losses were recovered by Friday with gasoline finishing even with the week before, yet oil remains $2.79 lower. The price for a barrel of WTI settled at $71.01 on the NYMEX; $3.14 less than this year's high, set two weeks before. The slump in futures prices were the result of growing concerns of an international trade war, added strength in the U.S. dollar, lower gasoline demand numbers, and news that Libya would resume oil exports.

Paris-Henry County Chamber Hosts University Administrators

The Paris-Henry County Chamber of Commerce welcomed administrators from surrounding educational institutions Saturday to Kentucky Lake. Invitations were sent to the presidents of Austin Peay State University, Bethel University, Union University, Tennessee State University, Jackson State Community College, Lane University, The University of Tennessee at Martin, and the Tennessee College of Applied Technology.

Both Dr. Brian Norton of the Henry County School System and Dr. Norma Gerrell of the Paris Special School District were present.

"This was an incredible opportunity for our community to network with these institutions," commented Travis McLeese, executive director of the Paris-Henry County Chamber of Commerce. "Not only were we able to build relationships, we had in-depth conversations regarding Workforce Development, preparing our students for their schools, and of course, bringing their marching bands to the World's Biggest Fish Fry!"

McLeese added, "This was not the first time an event like this has happened. The goal was to create a casual setting where these leaders could come to the lake and enjoy our hospitality. Our geographical location for education opportunities is major asset to our community. I look forward to following up on these conversations."

The event was hosted by City Commissioner Sam Tharpe, and his wife Gail.

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!
