No Damage Reports from Heavy Rains

Heavy rains throughout west and middle Tennessee created flooding and tornadoes. Decaturville was hit with a tornado and Bradford had widespread flooding.

A few roads were temporarily flooded in Carroll County. U.S. 79 in Trezevant, Holly Hills Road near McKenzie were temporarily flooded. Ping pong-size hail hit northeast of Paris. Water was over State Route 124 east of Stafford Store Road, and some rural roads throughout the region were temporarily flooded.

Carroll County Mayor Kenny McBride said the county reported no damage to roads. Walter Smothers, director of Public Safety in Huntingdon reported no damage. McKenzie Police Chief Craig Moates had no reports of flooding inside the city. Moates said the water was high in many of the ditches, however, officers had no reports of closed streets.

Meteorologist Eddie Holmes of Jackson, formerly of McKenzie, said the National Weather Service had no weather-related damage reports from Carroll County.

Nichole Lawrence, public information officer for the regional office of Tennessee Department of Transportation had no reports of damage in Carroll County. Much of the water receded quickly, said Lawrence.

Derek Carr Returns To UT-M Football

Named Pass Game Coordinator, Receivers Coach

Courtesy UT-Martin Sports Department

MARTIN (March 21) — The University of Tennessee at Martin football team announced the hiring of former McKenzie Rebel and Skyhawk standout quarterback Derek Carr as the program's new pass game coordinator and wide receivers coach.

Carr joins the staff after a brief stint as quarterbacks coach at Ohio Valley Conference rival Tennessee Tech during the 2016 campaign.

While assisting on the Golden Eagle staff, Carr oversaw Michael Birdsong who was named a recipient of the Robert Hill Johnson Award – Tech football's highest honor. Birdsong passed for 2,577 yards while tossing 17 touchdowns.

Prior to his stint at Tennessee Tech, Carr spent two seasons as a graduate assistant coach at Temple assisting with the team's offense.

Before joining Temple's staff, Carr spent a season as an offensive graduate assistant at UT Martin, working with the quarterbacks and wide receivers after graduation during the 2013 campaign.

A standout multi-sport athlete at McKenzie High School, Carr, the son of Kenny and Jackie Carr, posted prolific

UT-M Chancellor Carver Speaks to McKenzie Clubs

MCKENZIE (March 27) — University of Tennessee at Martin Chancellor Keith Carver was the featured speaker at a combined meeting of the McKenzie Rotary Club and McKenzie Lions Club on Monday, March 27. Carver was recently named chancellor of the local university.

The Crockett County native is the 20th chancellor of the university. He has worked in administrative functions in the U.T. system.

Lions Club President Will Rommel welcomed everyone and Lions Member Bob Rutledge introduced Carver.

Carver said he is continuing with visits into area communities to bring UT-Martin to a planned 10 cities, but now has plans to extend the visits to other communities. The community visits are a time to visit with alumni, school officials, and city and county leaders. UT-Martin has suffered seven straight years of declining enrollment, said Carver. That decline is concurrent with population declines in the geographic region.

Most bass anglers dream of one thing — winning the Bassmaster Classic. No other bass fishing tournament carries the prestige or the weight of winning that coveted Classic trophy. After all, there has only been forty-six Bassmaster Classics held (not counting this year's event).

Andy Holt's Bill to Close Public Records on Automated Cameras

NASHVILLE — State Representative Andy Holt (R-Dresden) has introduced House Bill 779 that would close public access to the names and information of those receiving traffic citations as a result of an automated traffic-control camera.

The legislation passed the Tennessee House of Representatives Transportation Subcommittee last week and is headed to the full committee on Tuesday, March 28.

Holt has at least 10 unpaid traffic citations in McKenzie issued as a result of speed-monitoring automated cameras. One ticket indicates a vehicle registered to Holt was traveling 54 miles per hour in a 40 mile per hour zone.

Holt believes the automated cameras are unconstitutional and violates a person's civil rights. In 2016, Holt posted a Facebook video of him burning citations as he sat in his office on Capitol Hill. Holt has repeatedly said the citations are unenforceable.

HB779 would prohibit city and county governments from blocking access to

Local Rotarians Converge On Chattanooga

Area Rotary leaders joined approximately 500 Rotarians from Tennessee, Kentucky and Alabama in Chattanooga for the 2017 Mid-South President-Elect Training Seminar (PETS). Each club's president-elect and area assistant district governors were afforded the opportunity to hear top Rotary leaders and motivational speakers.

Those in attendance worked in various discussion sessions on topics led by knowledgeable and experienced leaders. The time together allowed the soon-to-be presidents the chance to network and exchange ideas with other presidents-elect from six Rotary districts. Mid-South PETS was formed in 2005 to enhance training for presidents-elect in Rotary.

The two and a half day training was highlighted with the keynote address by Rotary International President-elect Ian Riseley. A Rotarian since 1978, Risieley resides in Victoria, Australia. He spoke passionately about the work of Rotary across the globe and explained how close Rotary has come to eradicating polio.

The theme for the Rotary 2017-2018 year is Rotary: Making a Difference. Riseley states that his theme means, "Whether we're building a new playground or a new school; improving medical care or sanitation; training conflict mediators or midwives; we know that the work we do will change people's lives in ways large and small for the better."

Rotarians contribute their time, energy and passion to sustainable, long-term projects in local communities across the globe. Projects focus on important issues like peace and conflict resolution; disease prevention and treatment; water and sanitation; maternal and child health; basic education and literacy; and economic and community development.

1.2 million individuals from over 200 countries are Rotarians. Their work impacts lives at both the local and international level, from helping families in need in their own communities to working toward a polio-free world.

Rotary, along with its partners, has reduced polio cases by 99.9 percent worldwide since the first project to vaccinate children in the Philippines in 1979. Rotarians helped immunize more than 2.5 billion children against polio in 122 countries. For as little as $0.60, a child can be protected against this crippling disease for life. Currently, only three countries have documented cases of the disease.

HUNTINGDON (March 23) — accompanied by family, teammates, coaches, HHS teachers and administrators and Bethel University Athletic Director Dale Kelley, Huntingdon High School senior Jesica Keith signed an athletic scholarship to play basketball for Bethel University.

The daughter of Mavis Curtis and Ivory Keith, Jesica will major in general studies.

During her senior season, Keith helped lead the Fillies to a district championship, a region runner-up finish, TSSAA sub-state victory, and first round appearance at the state Class A basketball tournament.

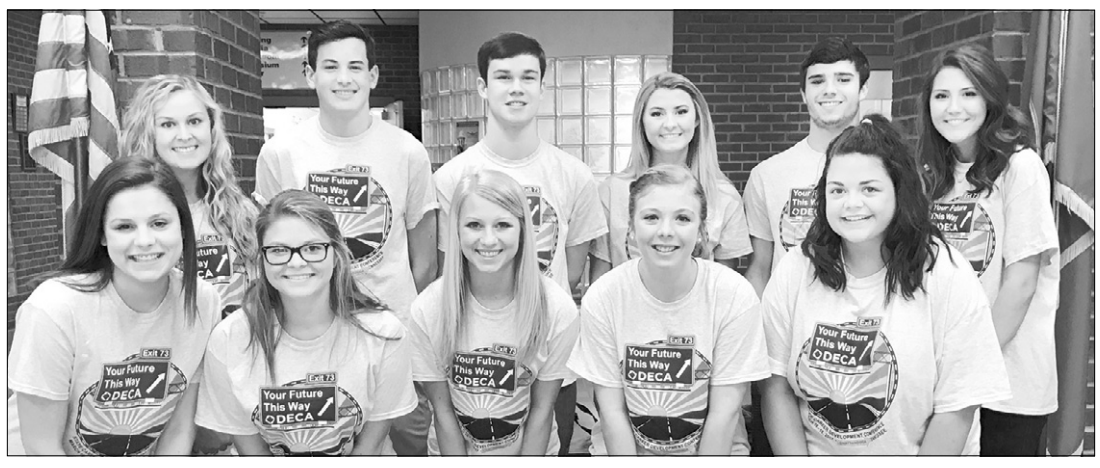

Over the span of her 33-game, four-year career with the Fillies, the all-district and all region performer scored 1,142 career points, converted 50-percent (147 of 294) of field goals, averaged 12.7 points and 8.8 rebounds while sustaining an imposing presence as a defensive shot-blocker.

Prior to the signing, Huntingdon High School Principal Jonathan Kee said, "I have watched Jesica play basketball for the Fillies the past four years, and am impressed by how much she has grown as a player through hard work and dedication. All of us are proud of her and proud that she is signing to play at the next level at Bethel University."

Bethel University women's head basketball coach Chris Nelson added, "Signing Jesica is very good for our program at Bethel. It is always great to get a post player from the high school level. Jesica is a strong competitor that plays hard and does not get down on herself. She always gives great effort and never doubts her abilities regardless of the situation. Those are highly sought-after attributes that I look for in a player."

Addressing attendees, Nelson said, "I have signed basketball players from Coach Lowery's teams in the past, and know like all of you that he coaches his players tough. He loves them, but he also expects them to play at a high level. Having said that, I am glad that I am going to be able to coach Jesica tough in order to help her reach her full potential and benefit our basketball program. I know she can take tough coaching, and I also know she will give her all. We are very proud to sign her."

An outstanding student, Jesica is a member of the Student Council, Science Club, Spanish Club, Future Business Leaders of America and the Teen Advisory Committee.

Carroll County Humane Society To Host 'Bow Wow at the Barn'

The Carroll County Humane Society will host the inaugural Bow Wow at the Barn on Saturday, April 8 from 6-9 p.m. at Dunagan Farms, 3500 Gate 3 Road, Paris.

There will be live music, Cash's Wood Fire Pizza and hand crafted brews from Perrylodgic Brewing, homemade desserts and non-brew beverages. There will also be both a live and silent auction.

The new event serves a critical purpose for CCHS fundraising efforts. The organization operates solely on donations and fundraisers. The two biggest fundraisers are the annual Tour de Paws in September and the banquet in November. The Bow Wow will hopefully be a much-needed spring event to help anchor efforts and provide enough money to carry operations through the summer.

CCHS has become the "go-to" organization for spay/neuter help in the area, but the publicity has also generated a huge surge in requests for intake. The shelter and foster homes took in over 1,100 strays, owner surrenders and cruelty case seizures in 2016, the most in the group's history. So far, fundraising efforts have not been able to keep up with the pace of intake.

Tickets for the Bow Wow are $25 and can be purchased at the shelter at 21822 Highway 22, McKenzie, at Huntingdon Animal Clinic or at Paris Veterinary Clinic.

Sponsorships are available for the event at several levels, each named for long-term resident of the shelter.

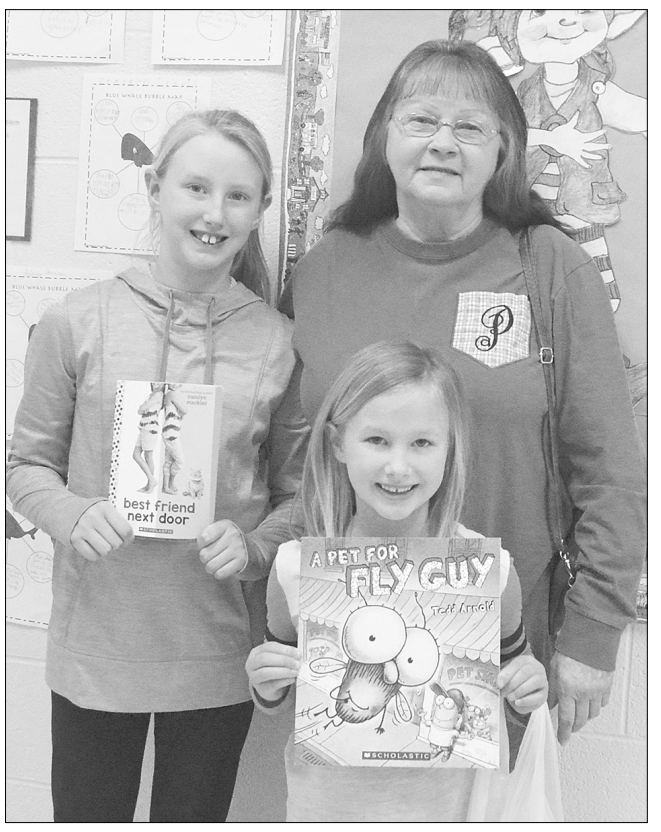

The O'Hail Sponsorship level is $1,000. O'Hail is a fat and sassy dog that has been at the shelter with for three years and runs the place.

The Tab & Gilmore Sponsorship level is $500. This duo of cats came to CCHS as an owner surrender almost two years ago. They are both wonderful cats.

The Libby Sonsorship level is $250. Libby is a wonderful long-time resident who is a chunk load of love. She is blind in one eye, but that doesn't stop her.

The Nellie sponsorship level is $100. Nellie came to CCHS from a hoarding case. Volunteers are thankful now that her big belly will never ever again contain kittens!

Bell Hall, an investigative reporter with WTVF NewsChannel 5 in Nashville, obtained copies of Holt's unpaid tickets in McKenzie and displayed those tickets on a televised news segment.

Hall interviewed McKenzie Police Chief Craig Moates, who said he wished Holt would just slow down. "Obey the speed limit and then a violation would not be an issue," Moates told Hall.

Holt's bill is part of an ongoing effort of some legislators as they attempt to deny access to public records throughout the state.

Dr. Keith Carver, chancellor of the University of Tennessee-Martin, was the featured speaker at a combined meeting of the McKenzie Lions Club and McKenzie Rotary Club.

emphasis on matching students with careers through its Career Development Center. The Center helps students to find internships with alumni or area companies. Students also learn skills in interviewing and resume writing.

Career Tracker software helps students determine career choices by providing some details of careers and the skills needed for those careers, and a personality profile of the student to better determine if the student's personality is well matched with the mandates of the career.

UT-Martin is a great value and provides classrooms with a small number of students. Eighty percent of the classrooms have fewer than 30 students, said the chancellor. There are approximately 7,000 students on campus.

Tennessee's Drive to 55 provides free tuition to community colleges and technology schools. Once those students complete their studies at a community college, UT-Martin works to provide courses of study for those students to attain a bachelor's degree. One way to assure success is through appropriate articulation agreements with the schools offering associate's degrees, said Carver.

The chancellor said he is looking forward to working the Bethel University and its president, Walter Butler.

Garrett

Bethel Bass' John Garrett

Only thirty-eight men have won the world's championship of professional angling, of which only four anglers have won the Classic more than once. Bobby Murray won the first Classic in 1971 then repeated in 1978. Hank Parker won in 1979 then won again in 1989. Rick Clunn and Kevin Van Dam have both won the Classic four times each.

Only fifty-two bass anglers get to fish the Bassmaster Classic each year after qualifying for the event by competing against anglers from all across America. Just to qualify for a berth into the Classic can launch an angling career for a bass fisherman that can last a lifetime and include sponsorships ranging from boats and motors to fishing tackle.

With those thoughts in mind, imagine a young college angler only 21 years old waking up one morning to find that his lifelong dream of fishing the Classic was coming true.

Enter Bethel University junior Bass Fishing team member John Garrett from Union City.

No one could have made John believe the adventure that he was about to take when he and his Bethel University teammate Brian Pahl won second place in the Bassmaster College National Championship, which qualified them both for a berth to the Bassmaster College Bracket Series Championship. That championship would see John Garrett victorious over seven other anglers and win him a trip to fish the 2017 Geico Bassmaster Championship.

Fast forward to March, 2017 in Houston, Texas on nearby Lake Conroe where John Garrett, along with fifty-one of the nation's top bass fishing anglers, were in attendance to fish for the grandest prize in the angling world: the Bassmaster Classic Trophy.

Several days of activities prior to the Classic would see John interviewing on television and magazines as well as visiting with fans and other anglers. You might wonder how a young college angler would react to such "red carpet" treatment; however, I can tell you that John would show the fishing world a strong amount of poise and a humble attitude that helped bring him to the Classic in the first place. The young Bethel Wildcat angler took it all in stride as if he had been on the national stage many times before.

Even though he finished in forty-second place in the Classic championship, he beat two former Classic champions, Takahiro Omori and Randy Howell as well as the 2017 Bassmasters "Angler of the Year", Gerald Swindle. To put John's placement into prospective would be like getting to play golf in the Masters Tournament in Augusta, Georgia and be good enough to beat some of the former Masters Champions.

Congratulations to John Garrett, the Bethel University Athletic Department and its Bass Fishing Program, the Garrett Family, and all of the wonderful folks who supported John and the Bethel Wildcat Bass Team and coaching staff. Dreams really do come true.

Leon wouldn't look straight at the TV. He'd hide in the dining room, under a table, and peer into the living room from an awful angle. Sometimes he'd crawl behind the couch and peep over the back or stand in the hall and hang one eye around the door molding. Leon believed with all his heart, "If we can see them, they can see us!"

"Notice how Garry Moore is pretending to talk to Betsy Palmer." Leon would whisper from the foyer as we watched "I've Got A Secret". "But he's looking right at me!"

Daddy would shake his head and mutter "preposterous". Thinking back on it now, Dad used "Leon" and "preposterous" a lot in the same sentence.

This was our first TV set back in 1958. Leon was a sophomore in high school. I was in the fifth grade. David, who was almost two years younger and believed everything Leon said, would wave goodbye as the Long Ranger and Tonto "hi-ho-Silvered" into the sunset. I wasn't sure if my older brother was right or not...but I did wonder if we looked as "grainy" to Jackie Gleason as he did to us.

Allen Funk hosted a show, "Candid Camera", that actually demonstrated how a well placed hidden camera could reveal more about an unsuspecting victim than most folks wanted to divulge. He kept us all peeping up in trees, behind garbage cans and into innocent looking vans parked over on Cedar Street.

And I remember clearly that Buffalo Bob would not only look right at us, he would SPEAK to us, "What time is it boys and girls?" We'd all yell back at the TV set, "It's Howdy Doody time!"

But I still wasn't convinced we could actually dance with the stars! I devised my own test. I'd watch until Black Bart was sneaking up on Roy Rogers... "He's behind you, Roy!" I'd yell out the warning. Nine times out of ten Roy would turn around, maybe not exactly when I hollered but pretty close afterwards, and grab the knife, gun, fence post or ax handle just as Black Bart was about to unload on him. It was enough to make you think.

Leon believed cameras were hidden in drink machines. He'd make me put the nickel in when he wanted a Dr. Pepper. He would never shake the drink box, kick it or beat it with a tire tool when it took his money and didn't drop his choice out the slot. He would sometimes tie a rope around it from behind and drag it with the tractor until it "let go" of his cola.

He was sure the government listened to every phone conversation. He believed cars had devices that kept track of where you'd been. He somehow knew that the school bathrooms had hidden microphones. He was equally convinced that jukeboxes kept a record (no pun intended) of who was playing Jerry Lee Lewis songs.

Silly you say. Even, uh, PREPOSTEROUS. Well, not so fast. The lady who apparently has some kind of high level government job said just last week, "There are many ways to surveil (is that a word?) each other now...you can surveil someone through their phones, certainly through their television sets, any number of different ways. And microwaves that turn into cameras, et cetera."

Who are these people and what are they looking for? I remember Daddy telling us back in '58, "Nobody is interested in three boys sitting around in their underwear."

Whatever "they" are trying to find today, we have gone all out to help them. We buy their GPS tracking systems, cell phones, iPads and Wifi. We make ourselves sitting targets by connecting to Facebook, Google and Twitter. We might as well just walk into their offices and confess.

Nothing in politics, congress or life could be so appealing or important that you'd snoop to spying to obtain it. Personally, I don't think us ordinary folks know enough to be worth their time. Plus, I don't see any reason for all the clandestine and illegal skullduggery; if they want to know what we're doing, all they've got to do is call the Russians.

It is a head scratcher. And let's not fall back on "sign of the times" verbiage. When we can't microwave a cup of water in private things have gone too far. It's crazy to smile at the surveillance camera as you enter the friendly hometown bank. When Siri becomes our "go to person" we've dropped over the edge. And I haven't even brought up cell towers, communication satellites and Distance Early Warning Systems.

Of course microwave cameras and Siri are not what's keeping me awake at night. I'm trying to recall exactly what they overheard me say to Mary Hadley Hayden on the phone back in 1963. Listen, I played Jerry Lee Lewis on every jukebox in town. And there is no telling what me, Buddy and Ricky talked about in the bathroom back in elementary school...

I may already be on their list.

Respectfully,
Kes

Jaden Hicks Named Mr. Beautillion 2017

After spending five months learning the finer points of becoming a gentleman, the Central Magnet student won the coveted title in a competition with 15 other young men in the event sponsored by the Murfreesboro Alumni Chapter of Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity, Inc.

The grandson of Deborah Hicks and the late Lester Hicks of Hollow Rock, Hicks, a junior at Central, holds a 4.0 GPA and serves as vice-president of the Class of 2018.

The Library Lines

BY NIKKI CUNNINGHAM

The Carroll County Library is having a Spring Break Book Sale! We have hundreds of popular titles and authors for only $2.00 including Stewart Woods, Tom Clancy, Debbie Macomber, Catherine Coulter, and James Patterson. These titles won't last long, so don't wait! The Library will also be offering thousands of digital comic books and graphic novels through Comics Plus to patrons for free starting May 1, 2017! Comic books and graphic novels are a great way to get reluctant readers to enjoy books. "Comics provide a wonderful bridge to develop reading skills," says Illya Kowalchuk, Director of Education for the nonprofit organization, Pop Culture Classroom. "Children and adults with reading disabilities, English Language deficiencies, and a lack of motivation are drawn to the multi-modal form of comics... Reading comics is a much less threatening exercise for someone with reading difficulties."

The Carroll County Library continues to offer early literacy programs such as the weekly Tot Time program designed to develop early literacy skills and school readiness skills in preschool-aged children. Tot Time is offered every Wednesday at 10:30 a.m. unless otherwise posted on the Library's website or Facebook page. This past Wednesday the library had a tractor-themed Tot Time at which Ms. Kelli read a children's nonfiction book about tractors. The 'tots' also got to tour a farming tractor provided by Timmy White, use toy tractors to create art, and play in a sensory sand pit. In addition to Tot Time the library will be offering an after-school reading program twice per week designed to teach and strengthen reading skills for children in grades pre-k through second. This program will be coming soon, but is currently still under development.

The Library appreciates Timmy White for providing the tractor that our Tot Time kids loved as well as Dora Alverez for her donation to the library and her support of the library's Summer Reading Program. Thanks in large part to donations made by local businesses and members of the community, the library has been able to quadruple the amount of programs offered during our Summer Reading Program!

McKenzie Middle School Hosts Daddy-Daughter Dance

McKenzie Middle School hosted its second annual Daddy-Daughter Dance Friday night, with the theme, "Boots and Bling," drawing dozens of elementary-age young ladies and their dads, stepdads and grandfathers.

Music and dancing filled the gymnasium throughout the evening, though the girls did most of the dancing amongst themselves.

The young ladies enjoyed carnival-style games in the cafeteria, with toys and candy as prizes. There was a snack and drink bar, and several photo stations were set up for sweet and silly pictures with dads and friends.

Helping with the event were middle school students and teachers, as well as members of the Bethel University Lady Wildcat basketball team.

Lady War Eagles Corral Fillies, 1-0

BY ERNIE SMOTHERS
smothers@mckenziebanner.com

ATWOOD (March 23) — In a much-anticipated showdown between District 13A softball powerhouses Huntingdon and West Carroll, the Lady War Eagles, fueled by the stellar pitching of Shelby Browning (7.0 innings, four strikeouts, two walks, three hits, no runs) and clutch hitting by Ashley Barlow (RBI double), defeated the Fillies in a nail-biter, 1-0.

Absorbing the loss, Fillies hurler Adyn Swenson successfully stalemated the normally hit-heavy Lady War Eagles by striking out five and walking one while allowing four hits and one earned run.

Kaitlin Pigue led the Lady War Eagles offensively, going 3 for 3 at the plate.

Huntingdon was led via the hitting of Alli Jones, Kaci Fuller, McKenna Moody and Leah Hayes.

Lady War Eagles 1, Fillies 0

In the top of the first, Huntingdon went three-up, three-down as Jones popped-out to short, Carson Ensley struck out swinging and Angelina Culley ground out to short.

In the bottom of the first, Lady War Eagle lead-off batter Katelyn Cherry set the tone for the contest by fouling-off eight pitches before grounding out to third. Mikayla Hart followed by popping-out to second and Pigue ground out to Browning to end the scoreless first inning.

In the top of the second, Fillies Fuller reached first after being hit by a pitch but was left stranded as McKenna Moody grounded out to second for the third out.

West Carroll went three-up, three-down in the bottom of the second as Swenson struck out Ashley Barlow, Sadie Martin flew out to center and Browning popped out to third as the game remained scoreless.

In the top of the third, Fillies Alli Jones reached first by ripping a two-out grounder that was mishandled at short. Ensley reached by way of infield error and Culley walked to load the bases. On the ensuing at-bat, Leah Hayes grounded out to third as Huntingdon stranded three and failed to score.

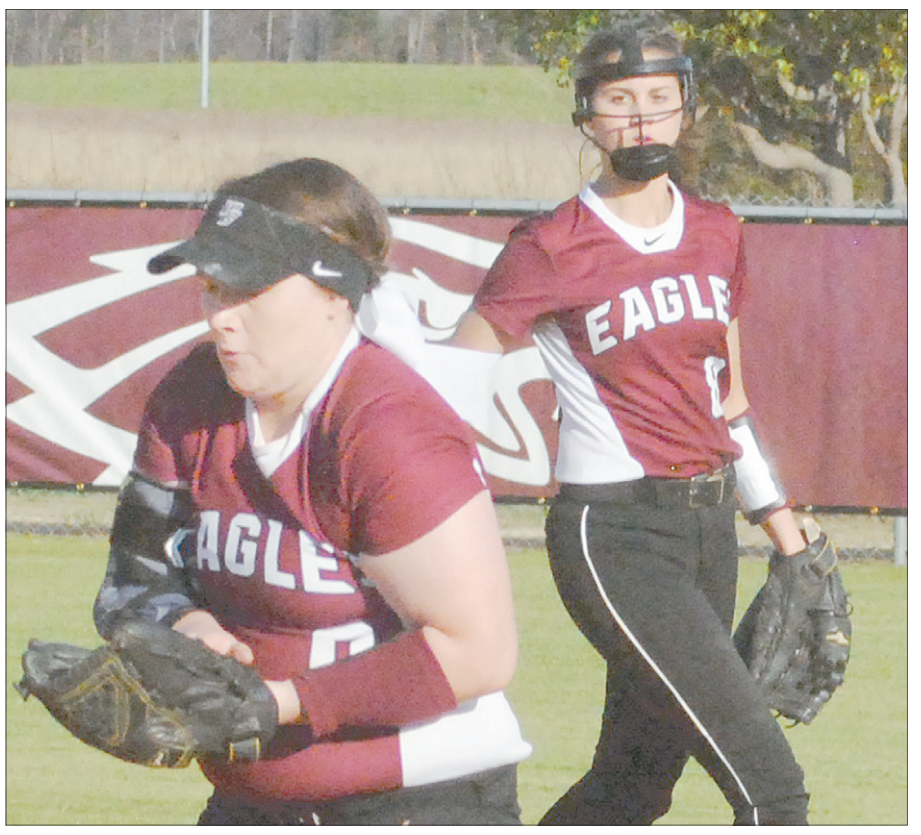

Following a scoreless bottom of the third by West Carroll, Fillies Cheyenne Childress popped-out to first before Fuller reached first by outrunning a slow-rolling grounder. On the ensuing at-bat, Moody grounded out to second and Fuller was thrown out attempting to steal third as the game remained scoreless.

West Carroll threatened in the bottom of the fourth as Hart and Pigue singled and advanced to second and third respectively via sacrifice fly by Barlow. On the ensuing at-bat, Hart was tagged out at the plate via single by Martin and Browning flew out to third as the game remained scoreless.

Both teams went three-up, three-down in the fifth as the pitching duel intensified between Lady War Eagle Browning and Fillies Swenson.

Huntingdon placed runners on second and third in the top of the sixth as L. Hayes singled with two outs and Childress reached via infield error. Fuller followed by striking out to end the Fillies threat.

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!
