County’s Fifth Graders Learn About Farming

BY JOEL WASHBURN

HUNTINGDON (March 6) — Fifth graders throughout Carroll County were treated to a day of education on agriculture, thanks to the Carroll County Farm Bureau, area businesses, and area farmers, who donated their time and displayed their planting and harvesting equipment.

The event was held at the Carroll County Civic Center and the Tennessee National Guard at Huntingdon. Fifth graders learned about farm safety, soybeans, corn and wheat, cotton, land conservation, pollination by bees, forestry, crop care, and how the big equipment looks and works.

Carroll County is a major producer in cotton, wheat, corn, soybeans, and livestock. Educational stations were set up in the National Guard with students changing to the next every 15 minutes.

Robert Chandler of R&R Farms said many of today’s children are far removed from the farm.

Every day, farmers are producing the food and fiber necessary to feed and cloth American and people around the world.

The event was the seventh annual event.

Curt McDaniel was the featured speaker during a breakfast to thank the donors and recognize the leadership of the state Farm Bureau and the Conservation Service.

McDaniel said, as area conservationist, his and other conservationist’s jobs are to “protect, enhance, and restore” the land and to leave it in better condition than before.

The USDA committed $148 million to Carroll County farmers and landowners.

Carroll County Soil Conservation District, along with local farmer Kim Renfroe Johnson, made a video to showcase the SCD’s work locally. It can be found on the CCSCD’s Facebook page.

Chairman Curtis Halford To Carry Legislation On Behalf Of House Leadership, Governor Lee

NASHVILLE — House Majority Leader William Lamberth (R-Portland) and Assistant Majority Leader Ron Gant (R-Rossville) today announced they have selected House Agriculture & Natural Resources Committee Chairman Curtis Halford (R-Dyer) to serve as co-prime sponsor of House Bill 2223.

The measure is part of Governor Lee’s legislative package for the year, which is traditionally sponsored by the House Majority Leader and the Assistant Majority Leader. Because of Chairman Halford’s leadership abilities and his strong institutional knowledge, he is the ideal person to handle all details related to this initiative.

“As Chairman of the House Agriculture & Natural Resources

Committee, Curtis Halford has extensive experience dealing with food production in Tennessee and addressing environmental issues,” said Leader Lamberth. “I appreciate his willingness to carry this legislation on behalf of House leadership and Governor Lee, and I look forward to working with him to see this bill passed.”

“I appreciate Chairman Halford for partnering with us in efforts to provide high-quality food to the citizens of Tennessee while lowering environmental risks at area landfills,” said Assistant Leader Gant. “I know Curtis Halford will do a great job helping us get this legislation to the Governor’s desk, and I appreciate his willingness to serve in our General Assembly.”

House Bill 2223 clarifies the Department of Agriculture is responsible for establishing the standards applicable for certain donations of food. The legislation also strengthens a food donor’s immunity against liability for damage resulting from distribution of apparently wholesome food.

“I am grateful to Governor Lee and our House leadership team for asking me to serve as co-prime sponsor of this legislation,” said Chairman Halford. “I believe this bill will help increase food donations in Tennessee while lowering environmental impacts caused by the disposal of food waste at our area landfills, and I look forward to the work ahead to get this measure passed.”

Shiloh National Military Park to Commemorate 158th Anniversary

SHILOH, Tenn. — Shiloh National Military Park will commemorate the 158th anniversary of the battle by offering a variety of real-time hikes, interpretive programs, artillery demonstrations, a naval exhibit, a book signing and vintage baseball on the battlefield.

“The Shiloh battle anniversary activities from April 4 through April 8 will be our first signature event for 2020, and we invite everyone to come out to the park and remember the epic battle and the Americans who fought here in 1862,” said Park Interim Superintendent Randy Martin.

Rangers will lead hikes and all access car caravan tours from April 6 through April 8, on a variety of subjects, from general battle overviews to actions at specific locations. Some of the tours have limited space, so the park asks that interested individuals pre-register for hikes and tours by calling the Shiloh visitor center. A complete schedule of tours is attached to this release, and posted on the park website.

Registered participants should meet the guides at the appointed sites and times, and are encouraged to wear appropriate clothing and footwear for the weather and terrain. Visitors attending more than one hike are encouraged to have food and water available. Insect repellent and sunscreen is recommended.

On Saturday, April 4, the park will once again host vintage baseball on the battlefield. The Tennessee Association of Vintage Base Ball returns for a second year to play a double-header and open their season. The first game will begin at 11 a.m. and feature the 2019 Sulphur Dell Tournament Champions, Nashville Maroons versus the Highland Rim Distillers. The second game will commence around 1:30 p.m. and feature the Stones River Scouts taking on the Quicksteps of Spring Hill. The games will take place at Duncan Field, Tour Stop #4, and will be played according to the 1864 rule book. Everyone is invited to bring lawn chairs, blankets, and picnic baskets to see “America’s Pastime” played as the soldiers played it in the 1860s.

On Saturday, April 4, and Sunday, April 5, the park will present artillery firing demonstrations for the public. The Shiloh Cannon Crew in period uniforms, will demonstrate the duties of Civil War cannoners. Visitors will learn about the implements and projectiles they used, and the proper loading and firing procedures of the field artillery in the Civil War. Cannon firing demonstrations will take place on Saturday at 10 a.m., 11:30 a.m., 1 p.m., and 3 p.m., and Sunday, at 11 a.m., 1 p.m., and 2:30 p.m. The demonstrations will take place across the street from the park’s visitor center.

On Saturday and Sunday, the U.S. Naval Landing Party living historians will present an exhibit on the Navy during the Civil War. Naval reenactors in period uniforms will display and demonstrate the equipment of the navy in the mid-19th century. The exhibit will be set up on the front lawn of the Visitor Center and be open from 9:00 a.m. – 4 p.m. on Saturday, and 9 a.m. – 3 p.m. on Sunday.

Also, at noon on Saturday, author and Bicentennial Capital Mall Park Manager Jerry Wooten, Ph.D., will speak about his new book Johnsonville: Union Supply Operations on the Tennessee River and the Battle of Johnsonville, November 4-5, 1864. Wooten will discuss the mostly untold story of the Johnsonville depot operations and logistics, and the 1864 Battle of Johnsonville. The presentation will start at 12:00 p.m. in the visitor center auditorium. Ranger Wooten then will be signing copies of his new book in the Shiloh battlefield bookstore at 12:45 p.m. on Saturday only. For more information call the bookstore at 731-689-3475.

All programs and demonstrations are free and open to the public. For more information on the events taking place at Shiloh in 2020, call the park’s Visitor Center at 731-689- 5696, go to our website at www.nps.gov/shil, Steve Jackson’s home on Newton Road was totally destroyed by the high wind, which ripped the roof away and toppled brick and scattered debris for hundreds of feet. Jackson was asleep in the home when the tornado struck.

Carroll County Electric suffered significant damage to one major high-tension utility route during the Monday storms that damaged power lines, flooded roads, and damaged houses. Danny Brawner, manager of Carroll County Electric, said the utility sustained downed power lines that fed the substation at the Carroll County Airport and served the city of McKenzie. Linemen worked from about 11 p.m. Monday throughout the remainder of the night to isolate the downed line next to State Route 22 near Carroll County Airport. Six 75-foot tall metal poles with 69,000-volt lines with an underbuild of 13,000-volt lines were damaged, some laying on the ground. The downed lines closed one of two south-bound lanes of State Route 22. Traffic was still flowing. Brawner said about 5,000 customers throughout the county were without power at the peak of the storm. Most were in the McKenzie area. Carroll County Electric connected with Weakley County Municipal Electric to feed the McKenzie area. Other areas affected were north of Huntingdon on Browning Highway and State Route 114. Some eight to 10 additional wooden utility poles were severed, said Brawner. Contractors installed new metal poles along State Route 22 because of the excessive height of the poles.

Disaster relief might be available to area residents affected by the storm. After registering for disaster assistance, FEMA may refer applicants to U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA). In times of disasters, the SBA offers low-interest loans for businesses, homeowners and renters. The SBA will contact businesses, homeowners and renters by telephone in follow up with information about its disaster loan program. There’s no obligation to accept an SBA loan, but the SBA has

In Tennessee, the storm devastated areas of Nashville and Putnam County. There were 18 fatalities in Putnam, three in Wilson, two in Davidson and one in Benton.

Emergency officials conducted preliminary damage assessments in nearby Benton, Carroll, and Gibson counties in order to secure possible federal reimbursement assistance to these county governments for debris removal and emergency measures during the severe weather event.

Three McKenzie Teachers to Retire

BY JOEL WASHBURN
washburn@mckenziebanner.com

MCKENZIE (March 3) — Three McKenzie teachers indicate they are retiring at the end of the 2019-2020 school year. During the 7 a.m. meeting of the McKenzie School Board, Lynn Watkins, director of schools, announced Marcia Webb, Leigh Ann Coleman and Anna Holland submitted documents to retire. Webb is a teacher of intervention and Coleman is a teacher of second grade at McKenzie Elementary School. Holland teaches math classes at McKenzie High School.

Enrollment at McKenzie Special School District stands at 1,194, down 37 from the state funding level established at the beginning of the school year.

Competitive bids were sent to four companies to provide housekeeping services at the three school sites. Watkins said sealed bids are to be opened April 23 for review. He said he is happy with the current contractor and its staff. Watkins said he advised contractors their pricing must be lower -more than just a few dollars and hire the current staff with equal or better pay to earn the contract.

Watkins also noted three seats on the school board are up for election in August. Office holders whose terms are expiring are Jan Latimer, John Austin and Lance Rider, the latter announced he is not seeking re-election.

In other business, the board approved seven board policies as mandated by the state or suggested by the Tennessee School Boards Association.

right to keep and bear arms. It does not grant persons to carry handguns without a permit. State law supersedes any local resolution.

Gun-rights advocates throughout Tennessee are encouraging county and municipal governments to pass such legislation.

Commissioners accepted the resignation of Commissioner Jeff Carter, District 5, Huntingdon who submitted his resignation. The commission declared the open seat and eligible persons from that district can seek to fill the unexpired term until the August election. Carter moved from the county. Interested persons can seek the unexpired term in the August election by qualifying by April 2 at the Carroll County Election Commission.

Canine officer Allie is retiring after service to the Carroll County Sheriff’s Department. The commission approved a resolution to honor Allie and to gift her to Deputy Jason Walker as his personal pet.

Two resolutions approved rezoning in the Planning Region around the 1000-Acre Recreation Lake. It allows limited assembly of items in L-2 zone on appeal request. The other resolution is to rezone the property of Marty Ensley on Leach Road to L2 from L1.

A budget amendment was approved for the General Purpose School Fund. It authorized the acceptance of a grant of $168,695 in vocational equipment.

A resolution approve the reappointment of Eli Ford, Don Reed, Casey Drewry, Carl Nolen and Bradley C. Smith to the Carroll County Board of Equalization for a term ending March 2022.

Jan Ostiguy was authorized to speak to the commission.

“I expressed my personal concerns about the sustainability of the Watershed budget and since that evening I have heard many expressions of gratitude for our bringing these concerns before this commission. I also have heard concerns about the lake itself: about safety issues on the lake, about the sludge building up in the lake making some of the personal docks unstable and causing difficult to navigate boats...

“I have been to meeting of both this commission and the Watershed Authority and have not heard one word discussed about any of the issues...

“It was my understanding that a meeting was to take place between the budget committee of this commission and the Watershed Authority but that has not happened to my knowledge...

“I have spoken with our State Representative and he consulted other authorities at the state level, none of whom understand why it is not being discussed at the local level...

“I share with you in October the bill passed in 1983 concerning the wheel tax issue and also the State Attorney General Hebert H. Slatery III issued by his opinion on April 1, 2015 – stating county commissions have the authority to increase, decrease or repeal the wheel tax...

“So here I am again standing before you asking what have you done about the lake wheel tax issue? Probably more importantly what are you going to do in answer to the concerns of the citizens of Carroll County?”

Welcome to Wrinkle Hardware Store

Moving to McKenzie in 1984, some of my earliest childhood memories revive images of Wrinkle Hardware. There was a gentlemen's agreement between my dad and me if I could behave i.e., keep my mouth shut then we would take a few minutes to go downstairs to the toy section. To be honest, I can't remember exactly what was down there, but I can remember the excitement of the reward.

This past Christmas, I decided my son needed a rocking horse but not any old rocking horse.

He needed a large realistic horse with red springs and rails, just like the one I had as a little boy. After Google led me to the normal on-line retailers, I asked my parents where they found mine; much to my surprise, it came from Wrinkle Hardware.

This week's article focuses on the Wrinkle family and the illustrious hardware store. Recapping from two articles back; the Wrinkles and Moores unified with the marriage of Callie Lou Moore to Cyrus Mitchel Moore. Cyrus was a partner with John Bailey Moore's son, Neumie Moore, in McKenzie's largest hardware store.

The Wrinkle family migrated to West Tennessee under the stewardship of Morgan Wrinkle (November 11, 1812—March 21, 1890). He came to the McNairy/Hardin County area from Bradley County around 1830. In 1836, Morgan married Cloan Smith; she died in a fire in 1858. Morgan married in 1860 to Genesy McGarety until her death in 1881.

In 1882, Morgan was married a third and final time to Elizabeth Finely. They moved to Chester County and both are buried near Henderson, Tennessee.

Morgan's marriage to Cloan produced the following children: Martha Ann (August 29, 1842); Rufus Sylvester (August 29, 1844); Amos Lafayette (August 6, 1846); Nancy Hane (October 1848); Wiley Logan (January 19, 1851); Tolith Cummins (July 24, 1853); Julie Angeline (August 1855); Frances (October 8, 1857).

Amos Lafayette (1846—1923) married Mary Frances McCee (1847—1880) in Henry County, Tennessee on June 2, 1867. They had the following children: Cyrus Mitchel (March 31, 1868); Willie Wiley (June 12, 1869); Josie (March 16, 1871); Tommie (January 9, 1876); Bell (March 31, 1880).

After Mary's death, Amos married Paralee Bell. This marriage produced three children: Van Conrad (April 24, 1882); Annie Gertrude (November 9, 1888); Charles Graves (May 23, 1898).

Cryus (1868—1951) was married twice; first in 1893 to Callie Lou Moore (1872—1913) and the second in 1915 to Minnie Rebecca Newsom (1869—1961). Callie was the only spouse who bore children: Amos Bailey (1902—1995); Mary Frances (1910—1936); Infant (1913).

In 1886, O.C. Barton, Zachary Taylor Collier and Iverson Mitchell established a hardware store on Waldran Street. Within four years, John Bailey Moore bought the interest of Barton and Collier. Shortly afterward, Cyrus bought his uncle's (Iverson) shares of the company. This began Wrinkle, Moore and Company. Cyrus and Neumie established the Citizens Commercial Bank, of which Neumie was president and Cyrus was the cashier.

In 1910, Cyrus and Neumie built a new store on Lee Street which included the bank. In 1928, Clifford Leach sold his interest in the hardware store to Cyrus's son, Amos Bailey. Six years later, Amos sold his shares to Bob McClure who had worked as a store clerk. In the following years, Amos opened and operated the Tri-County Electric Company, only to return to the hardware firm following the death of Neumie Moore in 1946.

For ten years the business was known as Wrinkle-McClure Company. Then in 1956, Amos bought McClure's interest to become sole owner.

In 1923, Amos Bailey married Elsy Louise Keiper (1903—1990). The union brought two children Carolyn (1924—2007) and Bailey Moore (1929—2015).

Amos Bailey Wrinkle was involved in many civic duties. He was a member of the First United Methodist Church where he had served as an official board member, he was past vice-president of the McKenzie Banking Company, past-president of the McKenzie Rotary Club, of which he was honored as a Paul Harris Fellow; former trustee of Bethel College, charter member of the McKenzie Memorial Library, past chairman of the Carroll County School Board and past chairman of the Mount Olivet Cemetery Association.

In 1961, Amos sold the store to his son, Bailey Moore. Next week, this story will come to a close with Bailey Moore Wrinkle.

HUNKER DOWN WITH KES
All that Glitters is Not Gold

It's hard to ignore the folks clamoring to be the next President of the United States. Believe me, I have tried. It's not that I don't care. It's more like we're being overwhelmed!

When I ran for office on the Democratic ticket in another lifetime, I didn't get invited on Face the Nation, nobody in the press seemed to know I was in the election and I don't remember ever debating anyone. And if I'd a'had just a smidgen of the money the candidates are throwing around today...I wouldn't have been in the mess in the first place. I'd been on some fancy golf course in Montana hitting 250 yard drives right down the middle and making 40 foot putts.

Now that is what I would call a Super Tuesday!

Of course, March is historically the month where the contenders separate themselves from the pretenders. This year's election process has been no exception.

One of the remaining players in this on-going saga has campaigned to a great extent on "Medicare for all". What was it Will Rogers said about Prohibition back when folks were drawing up the Eighteenth Amendment—"It's a good idea but it won't work."

Listen, I'm not for or against any candidate in this fray no matter his or her political persuasion. Nor am I subliminally suggesting you vote a certain way. You think for yourself on those matters.

I'm just against bad ideas no matter whom or what or how they get proposed! Leon thought it would be cool to tie a rope across the two highest buildings in our little town and "hand walk" from one to the other. And he didn't hesitate. Well, I sure did!

He once tied a box kite to each arm and leaped off that high cliff out at the clay pits. I took one look at the wreckage below and determined in my heart to keep my feet on solid ground...

Sometimes common sense trumps exotic ideas, wayward thinking and political election gimmicks.

I am absolutely and most definitely for a fair and just system. AND read my lips here, understand just a tidbit of elementary logic on "Medicare for all"...you can't—or shouldn't—get something out of any system...if you haven't put something in!

That is found in the ancient Egyptian Hieroglyphics, Hammurabi's Code, Aesop's Fables and the Gettysburg Address.

Shucks, if they pass this law I'm racing down to the nearest Ford dealership and telling them I want the brand spanking new $77,000, F-150 Limited Special pickup truck with all the bells and whistles...and, oh, I didn't bring any money. Just charge an extra $3,080 to the next twenty-five customers that come in.

Somebody has been reading Karl Marx's Communist Manifesto. We don't need a history lesson on how that has worked over the last hundred years or so.

The concept I believe behind

"Medicare for all" is that our friendly government is going to take care of everybody when they reach a certain age. Is that written into the Preamble of the Constitution? Is it engraved in stone on Mount Rushmore?

Of course, the joke here is the money for such a project doesn't come from the government. They don't have any money! They take it from the folks who have acquired it and pass it on to whomever they like. I believe it is spoken of in some circles as, "redistributing the wealth". Boy howdy, does that have a good Communist ring to it!

It seems to me that the "ones who have acquired it" ought to have some rights too.

And don't be silly here about genuine concern for the elderly. Nobody cares more than me and you and half a billion other good Americans about anyone that is a mite down on their luck...at any age.

But I don't think this is a government problem. It's bigger than that! And it is not always about dollars and cents. It's more about good "sense". And self worth plays a major role here. Everyone should age with dignity. Perhaps younger family members could get a little more involved. Like we did it in this country for most of our existence...

I don't want the government meddling into my affairs when I get old. I want to sit on the front porch, with a Diet Coke in my hand, and tell my great grandchildren about the time Leon rode that big horse into the lobby up at the Park Theatre...

Respectfully,
Kes

COURTESY SARAH BROWN

The Macedonia Family Community Education Club met Wednesday, March 4 at the Macedonia Community Center. The meeting was called to order by President Ruth McElroy and the devotional given by Sarah Brown. Her topic was Powerful Words, encouraging us to concentrate on using more positive words as we speak to others. Careless talk and mindless thinking can only cause problems. Guarded minds and prayerful remarks will be a blessing to others.

Roll call was answered by telling one thing you do now that is like your mom or dad. Minutes and treasurers report were given and approved.

We were delighted to have two visitors, Gaye Lynn Coleman and Janet Matheny. Gaye's mother Joan Hickman, former member of the club, sent us all dish cloths that she had made.

New projects for the year were discussed. One of our current projects is collecting and donating items to United Neighbors.

Martha Peters then presented a short program entitled "Choose Your Plate." Start small and change your eating habits to a healthier lifestyle. She discussed the amounts and importance of eating more whole fruits and vegetables, fresh or frozen. Make your plates colorful.

Our newest member, Gaye Lynn, will present the program for April. Our business meeting was adjourned to enjoy our delicious refreshments before we started work on our project, "Making a Blanket."

We made a beautiful, red and black soft blanket that will be donated to someone in need.

We welcome new members. If interested, contact Ruth McElroy or any member of the club. Our next meeting will be April 1 at 11 a.m. at the Community Center.

Fun By The Numbers
Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:
Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

See solution in next week's edition.

Huntingdon Police Reports

License Violation — Donald Vereen Wright, 45, of Jackson was charged with driving on a suspended/revoked license and speeding during a March 1 traffic stop in Huntingdon.

Officer Carlton Cupples reported that he pulled over a vehicle driven by Wright on West Main Street after clocking the vehicle at 45 mph in a 30 mph zone. A computer check showed that Wright's license was suspended/revoked.

Public Intoxication — Jacob Steven Cronkhite-Snyder, 31, of Huntingdon was charged with disorderly conduct and public intoxication during a March 1 incident at Baptist Memorial Hospital.

According to the report by Officer Brad Allen, he responded to the hospital after receiving a call about a white male looking into cars in the parking lot. Upon arrival, Allen found Cronkhite-Snyder lying in the grass near the hospital in an unconscious state. When Allen finally got the man to wake up, he told the officer that he was not sure where he was, how he had gotten there or what was going on. Cronkhite-Snyder then became very loud and aggressive with Allen and other officers, and he was taken into custody and transported to the jail.

Theft, Resisting Arrest — Jesse Young, 27, of Buena Vista was arrested on charges of theft under $1,000, felony evading, and resisting arrest during a March 1 incident near Walmart in Huntingdon.

According to the report by Officer Richard Crossno, he responded to a call about a shoplifter leaving the Walmart parking lot. Crossno and Officer Zach Barker observed the vehicle leaving the parking lot and attempted to conduct a traffic stop, but the vehicle sped away and turned into the driveway behind the Huntingdon Animal Clinic. The two officers blocked off the vehicle with their patrol cars, and Young, the driver, was physically removed from the vehicle after refusing to cooperate with officers. Young continued to be combative with officers after being taken into custody. Video surveillance at Walmart showed Young taking several items from Walmart and acting belligerently toward security personnel when they tried to prevent him from leaving the store. The stolen items were found both inside Young's vehicle and near the vehicle on the ground near the scene of the arrest.

Multiple Charges — Chadwick N. Ward, 41, of Yuma was charged with unlawful possession of a firearm, simple possession of methamphetamine, simple possession of a schedule VI drug, drug paraphernalia, driving on a suspended license, violation of light law, and violation of financial responsibility during a March 2 traffic stop on West Main Street in Huntingdon.

According to the report by Officer Christopher Cole, he pulled over a gray 1999 Chevrolet S-10 driven by Ward due to a light law violation. Ward was unable to show proof of insurance, and a computer check showed that his license was suspended. After getting Ward's permission to search the vehicle, Cole found a substance that tested positive for meth, a clear bag containing a small amount of marijuana, a loaded 12-gauge shotgun, and various items of drug paraphernalia. Cole noted that Ward was prohibited from possessing a firearm due to a prior domestic assault conviction.

West Carroll Falls to Loretto, 62-47

WAYNESBORO (March 5) — After eliminating district foe McKenzie Rebels two nights earlier in the first night of men's Region 6A action in Waynesboro, West Carroll War Eagles failed to overcome the hard-charging Loretto Mustangs in Thursday night action. West Carroll earned the runner-up position while Loretto earned the championship. The final was 62-47. Both advanced to Sectionals on Monday, March 9.

The War Eagles jumped to an early lead, however, the Loretto Mustangs soon found their footing and cut the deficit to one point at the end of one quarter. The second and third quarter scoring by Loretto was the undoing for West Carroll. The Mustangs doubled both the second and third quarters of the War Eagles.

West Carroll scored 18, 5, 6, and 18 in the respective four quarters. Loretto scored 19, 10, 12, and 21. Jeremiah Bryant was the leading scoring for West Carroll with 13 points, including three threes. He scored six in the first, and seven in the fourth quarter. Luke Moore had eleven, including one three-pointer and six free throws. Jalen Anglin had ten points, Josh Clark had seven, including a three-pointer, and Tyler Johnson and Jed Robinson each had three, each on a three-pointer.

Loretto was led by Blade Tidwell and Amauri Young, both with 21 points. Young had three threes and six free throws. Tidwell had one three-pointer. Tabias Sirmones had nine points, Xavier Young had six, and Shaler Hankins had five.

SSAC Champion Bethel University Lady Wildcats

Bethel Wins 2020 SSAC Women's Basketball Championship

COURESTY BETHEL SID

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — Top-seeded Bethel (Tenn.) defeated third-seeded Martin Methodist (Tenn.) 65-59 to win the 2020 SSAC Women's Basketball Championship, presented by Newk's Eatery.

This is the first SSAC Women's Basketball Tournament title for the Wildcats, who also won the regular season title.

Both teams receive automatic bids to the 2020 NAIA Women's Basketball National Championship.

The game featured five lead changes, with all of those coming in the first quarter.

Bethel ended the first quarter on a 6-0 run and never trailed, despite the RedHawks pulling within 61-59 with 23 seconds to go as Mickey Head went 4-for-4 from the FT line the rest of the way.

The teams combined for only 17 turnovers, while Bethel shot 70% from the FT line, compared to 57% for MMC.

Head led Bethel with 18 points and seven boards, while Tasia Jones added 17 points and five rebounds.

Morgan Martin finished in double digits with 13 points; she grabbed six rebounds while Taysia Willis grabbed a game-high nine rebounds.

MMC got 20 points and five assists from Taylor McNairy and nine points and six rebounds from Faith Sherrow.

The No. 6 nationally-ranked Lady Wildcats moved to 29-4. The Cats have won 21 straight and will make their eighth-straight national tournament appearance after capturing the regular season crown for the fifth time in the last seven years. It will be Bethel's eighth straight appearance in the national tournament and mark the 11th time in the last 12 seasons to accomplish that feat.

That winning streak is the second best ever in program history. Bethel won 24 in a row in the 2014-15 season when they finished 32-4 and reached the Elite Eight of the national tournament.

name. The Lady Cats are 112-18 all-time against SSAC opponents.

Coach Chris Nelson spoke about the week, the title and his team. "It was a magical week in Montgomery and it ended on a perfect note. Our staff did a wonderful job having us prepared all week and we wanted this championship for our players. They have put in a tremendous amount of work this year and today it paid dividends. This group of ladies are so loving of each other and are the most unselfish group of people I have ever been around. The following of fans that came to the game or the ones back home following every game and every second is a testament to our girls. I tell them all the time that you win with people and that stayed true today. Big thank you to the band and our SID staff for making this one to remember. We will give them a few days off to recharge and enjoy this one and then will get back to work as we prepare for the big picture out in Billings, Montana."

Carroll County Technical Center: Providing Vital Skills for Tomorrow's Professionals

BY BRAD SAM
brad@mckenziebanner.com
© 2020 Tri-County Pub., Inc.

HUNTINGDON — The last decade saw a national surge in interest and emphasis on Career and Technical Education (CTE), but Carroll County has been ahead of the trend by nearly half a century thanks to a hidden educational gem.

Since 1976, high school students in the county have been incorporated into their curriculum courses at the Carroll County Technical Center, where, presently, Principal Dennis Stokes leads an ambitious staff of educators in instilling a wide variety of in-depth, career-focused knowledge as well as hands-on, real-life skills.

Principal Stokes recently gave The Banner a tour of the campus and a chance to see first-hand the impact of CCTC's programs on students from all of the county's high schools. He said, "There's a lot going on here that people should know about."

Average enrollment in recent years is approximately 250, mostly consisting of juniors and seniors but including some underclassmen.

Stokes says that in the last couple of years alone, CCTC has acquired around $275,000 in grants from community, government and industry sources.

Besides the incorporation of skills training, another educational trend being embraced at the school is early college credit and workforce-ready certifications.

Students at CCTC have the opportunity to earn a variety of industry certifications, including OSHA-10, ServeSafe, CPT and more, and have access to a growing number of dual-enrollment courses.

In the Criminal Justice program, Dr. Lisa Norris prepares students to pursue a variety of related careers. In the introductory course, they'll learn the basics of the three components of criminal justice: courts, policing and corrections. Criminal Justice II goes into further detail about policing, and Criminal Justice III covers forensics. The fourth course is a dual-enrollment class with Bethel University, equivalent to a sophomore-level college Introduction to Criminal Justice class. Dr. Norris occasionally offers Pre-Law I, which covers the Constitution and the legal code.

Students in the Criminal Justice program acquire real skills to go along with knowledge. They visit the firing range each semester, hosted by the Carroll County Sheriff's Department, and gain experience with AR-15s, 9mm handguns and shotguns. They visit the county jail and emergency operations center. At the Bethel University forensics lab, they learn about analyzing fingerprints, footprints, hair and more. They, along with Health Sciences students, observe a real autopsy via satellite from Washington University. They attend Prevention Day on the Hill in Nashville. Judge John Everett Williams and his staff assist the students in preparing for mock trial competitions. Students compete as a Crime Scene Investigation team at SkillsUSA competitions.

Health Sciences instructor Amanda Derryberry, RN, says the program covers "everything healthcare." Students learn the basic functions of the whole system, then move on to diagnostics. Medical therapeutics puts it all together as a complete assessment. Eventually, the pupils earn an OSHA-10 certification and enter clinical internships to job shadow with the school's Partners in Education for nine weeks.

The school is in talks with the University of Tennessee at Martin for dual enrollment and a Certified Medical Assistant course. The program has recently added three new Z Space Virtual Reality modules thanks to a grant.

Marketing is another CCTC program with a wide community footprint. Instructor Cara Chadwick teaches marketing and business concepts in the classroom, but much of the learning is through events and activities outside the walls of the school. Students organize toy drives and canned food drives. The Chamber of Commerce provides experience with business plans. Students help with the annual Carroll County Habitat for Humanity Gala. They travel to Nissan Stadium in Nashville to participate in the Tennessee Titans Learning Lab. The teens learn life skills, resume-building and job searching and conduct mock interviews to prep for the real thing. Chadwick and her students manage the CCTC Facebook page. The students recently developed a promotional video for the school and are planning to compete at SkillsUSA competitions with the video and t-shirt and pin designs.

Instructor Michelle Crowell's Culinary Arts program teaches culinary standards on paper, then students apply them in the hands-on kitchen lab. They learn about fine dining and etiquette and develop unique skills such as knife cuts and napkin folds. Classes learn to make cheese, which they then use to make pizzas from scratch. The students learn to bake, butcher and even to fillet fish. They learn to innovate with basic ingredients.

The programs offers catering services to the community to give the students extra opportunities to get into the kitchen. They'll sometimes serve their patrons, giving them chances for interaction with adults, networking and confidence-building. The teens also learn food safety and sanitation practices and can earn ServeSafe or Food Serve Manager certifications from the National Restaurant Association. Crowell notes that culinary ties into many other fields.

The program will soon offer dual enrollment with the University of Memphis and the University of Tennessee. Culinary Arts students participate in SkillsUSA competitions as well.

Manufacturing program students learn to operate various fabrication machines as well as welding. Instructor Mitchell Whitworth leads students in all manner of metal repairs, and they build custom barbecue grills and smokers. The Manufacturing shop boasts new computerized, programmable equipment, including a Haas lade and a milling machine. The program partners with Bodine of Jackson for programming and training on the machines.

In the Construction program, led by instructor Josh Yundt, students have built a small model home inside the shop, which they use to learn wiring, plumbing and other skills related to building construction. The classes also build custom storage buildings for the public.

The Auto Body program features a fully-equipped body shop where instructor Michael Walker trains students in welding, rust repairs, painting and body work. The shop is installing a new 10,000-pound lift, which will prove useful to students currently performing a full-body restoration on a 1957 Chevrolet. Another new addition is a virtual reality paint booth where students can train.

Light Maintenance Repair instructor Kenneth New teaches and supervises students in performing oil changes and full inspections. The coursework gets more in-depth as students learn and practice engine replacements and restorations. A new Hunter four-wheel alignment machine and a computer diagnostic machine further helps students train for the workforce.

Yet another recent addition to the campus ties together many of the school's programs and provides unique educational opportunities. Last year, Construction students helped build a greenhouse with a hydroponic system.

Hydroponic systems grow plants without soil, instead using circulating, fertilized water. Principal Stokes said that the system was inexpensive to construct (around $200), consisting mainly of PVC pipe and an aquarium pump.

Once the greenhouse and system were completed, Stokes transplanted some plants from his own garden at home to get it started. The house now produces several varieties each of tomatoes, lettuce, micro-greens, herbs and peppers and may add other plants to the mix for a spring plant sale.

Culinary Arts students identify herbs grown and their uses and use the herbs for their catering and luncheons. The organic products grown in the greenhouse have earned many compliments for freshness and flavor. Crowell said, "It's awesome to start with a seed and see growth within two weeks. Students get to see that and get a sense of ownership."

Health Sciences students learn about complementary and alternative medicine as well as nutrition and dietary science.

Marketing students wrote a catchy rap about the greenhouse and used it to help secure a grant by earning likes and shares on Facebook. They also learn to determine profit margins from the potential sale of products grown in the greenhouse.

Criminal Justice students use the greenhouse to study decomposition and evidentiary botany with pigs donated by Tosh Farms.

Several Carroll County high school principals expressed to The Banner their appreciation for CCTC's contributions.

McKenzie Principal Kelly Spivey said, "It's a fantastic resource for our students to continue the educational process. The number of jobs available after our students finish at CCTC is enormous."

Huntingdon Principal Dr. Jonathan Kee said, "Our local vocational school is a tremendous asset to our students. Our workforce is in need of responsible and capable workers who can perform various skill trades. I see first-hand how the programs offered at the vocational school give many of our students a great opportunity to be successful beyond high school graduation."

West Carroll Principal Kelly Todd said, "The Carroll County Technical Center allows our students to gain a variety of skills while they are still in a high-school setting. These skills are valuable in jumpstarting their future careers or educational paths."

STATE BOUND!

Fillies Advance to State with Come-From-Behind Win Over Richland

LYNNVILLE (March 7) — For the second time in a week, the Huntingdon Fillies faced at least an eight-point deficit and elimination, and for the second time, the Fillies rallied in the second half for the win. Saturday night, the Fillies defeated Richland 66-59 to advance to the state tournament for the third time in the last four seasons. On Monday night at Wayne County in the semifinals of the region tournament the Fillies faced a nine-point deficit with Summertown in the third quarter, but rallied to win 50-48 to advance to the region championship game.

Saturday night the Fillies trailed Richland in the Sectionals by eight in the first half and trailed 29-23 at the half. The Fillies, who struggled offensively in the first half, got the offense going in the second half with their defense, and the catalyst for the surge was junior Brooklyn Williams, who pestered the Lady Raiders and came up with several steals and helped take Richland out of the offensive success they had in the first half. Williams, along with senior Adyn Swenson, who was held to five in the first half, spurred a Fillies offense that scored 26 points in the third quarter, which was three points more than the Fillies scored in the first half alone. Swenson had ten points in the third and finished with 23 for the game. Williams scored six in the third quarter and finished with 16 points for the game.

The Fillies went into the fourth quarter leading 49-45 and built the lead to six with seven minutes left in the game when Coach David Wilkins decided to shorten the game with a four corners-type offense. The Fillies, who only shot five foul shots in the first three quarters of the game, ended shooting 24 for the game after Wilkins decided to play keep away from the Richland defense. The Fillies scored 15 of their 17 fourth quarter points from the foul line and made 15 of 19 for the quarter and 19 of 24 for the game. The Fillies built their lead to ten in the final quarter until a desperate Lady Raider team finally narrowed the final margin to seven.

Swenson led the way with 23, Williams 16 and Kaci Fuller joined them in double figures with 14. Addison Postlethwait added 7, Tyasia Reed 4, and Brooke Butler 2. Jesse Jennings led Richland with 29 points to lead all scorers, Kristen Garner and Maggie Perry were in double figures with 11.

The Fillies will face Clarkrange 31-4 at 2:45 on Thursday at the Murphy Center in Murfreesboro in the quarterfinals of the state tournament. The Fillies with the win over Richland will enter the state tournament with a record of 28-5.

The Fillies started their week with a 50-48 semi-final win over Summertown as Swenson led the way with 15, Butler 14, Reed 13, Fuller and Williams chipped in four apiece.

The Fillies were forced to play on the road at Richland after losing to Loretto 60-44 in the region championship game. Butler led the way for the Fillies with 18 points for the night, Reed 9, Swenson 7, Kaci Fuller 3, Postlethwait 3, Williams and Lia Fuller 2. Karly Weathers led Loretto with 18.
