WHEN YOU'RE ON YOUR OWN, WE ARE THERE WITH YOU.

#THEREWITHYOU

As the United States faces the worst public health crisis in a generation, we want you to know we are here for you — and with you.

Whatever happens, whenever it happens, your newspaper will be there for you. We'll be there to let you know how our community is managing through this crisis — from business to government to the health care system and schools to the drastic impact on individuals and families.

And we'll be there to let you know about the good and extraordinary things happening in the midst of this crisis — the woman in McKenzie sewing masks for health workers, the city and non-profit workers attending to the needs of your community, the volunteers bringing food to elderly people who cannot leave their homes, the health workers putting themselves in harm's way to care for the sick.

Amidst the sadness and anxiety, there are uplifting moments that remind us of the resilience of the human spirit, and we'll be there to document those too.

Tennessee Gov. Bill Lee said the coronavirus has created an unprecedented health and economic crisis in our state.

"We need every Tennessean on board to beat this pandemic," the governor said. "Success starts with swift, accurate information and we support the efforts of the press to keep every Tennessean informed."

We are here to help you make sense of the situation and to help you navigate it.

Having fact-based, reliable reporting that provides public scrutiny and oversight is more important than ever. Together, across the decades, this newspaper and its readers have navigated horrific events — natural disasters, terrorism, financial downturns, periods of extreme political and societal division.

This challenge is greater than any of those, but, rest assured, we'll be here for you. Our area is resilient. People come together to build and rebuild. Let's stick together, and we will come through this, too.

"Success starts with swift, accurate information and we support the efforts of the press to keep every Tennessean informed."

Allen Family Relates Life with Covid-19

MCKENZIE (March 30) — The family of Jeremy, Megan, Fisher and Ruby Allen are quarantined in their McKenzie home after Jeremy tested positive for the Coronavirus (COVID-19) on Sunday, March 15. Sunday, March 30 marked 14 days since Jeremy, an associate of the McKenzie Parks Department and a family pastor (students) at Overflow Church, started exhibiting flu-like symptoms, which later led to Jeremy being the first in McKenzie to test positive for the virus.

When Jeremy went to urgent care on March 16, he had a 101.3 degree fever and was diagnosed with strep. He followed the medicine regiment, but his condition did not improve. Jeremy went to his primary care physician on Wednesday, March 18 and had the test for COVID-19. His symptoms up to that point did not match those of the Coronavirus, but Jeremy went ahead and took the test. More of the virus symptoms began to occur

The lake opens seven days a week from 30 minutes before sunrise until 30 minutes after sunset. The entire 100-acre lake is a no-wake zone; boats must only idle while on the water. Restrictions on fishing are posted on the bank.

The lake's bait shop was torn down due to asbestos. Daily fishing permits, which are $6, can be paid into a box located near the boat ramp. The TWRA also offers

Federal Relief for Tornadoes, Severe Weather Comes to Carroll, Benton Counties

NASHVILLE (March 25) — Tennessee Gov. Bill Lee announced Wednesday Benton, Carroll and Smith counties will receive federal assistance under Tennessee's current Major Disaster Declarations for the tornadoes and severe weather on March 3.

"These counties will now receive federal reimbursement assistance for their costs related to damaged infrastructure and recovery measures," Governor Lee said. "We continue to work closely with our federal partners to help our counties and communities receive rebuilding and recovery help."

The updated Major Disaster Declaration also makes Tennessee's declared counties—Benton, Carroll, Davidson, Putnam, Smith and Wilson—eligible for federal reimbursement in all available categories of the federal PA program.

This means costs associated with damage to county roads and bridges, water control facilities, buildings and equipment, utilities, and parks also are eligible for federal reimbursement under the Major Disaster Declaration.

Additional information on the federal Public Assistance program is available at tn.gov/tema/recover/public-assistance.html.

The six declared counties reported more than $68 million in estimated impacts to county infrastructure and for costs associated with counties' response and recovery measures.

This estimated total impact to local governments includes $32 million for Davidson County, $17 million for Wilson, $5 million for Putnam, $400,000 in Smith, and more than $200,000 each in Benton and Carroll. Agencies of the State of Tennessee estimated more than $11 million in estimated cost impact.

The tornadoes and severe storms on March 3 caused 25 weather-related fatalities, damaged or destroyed more than 4,000 structures, including five public schools, left 101,521 residents without power and closed State Government offices.

Tennessee remains in a State of Emergency and the State Emergency Operations Center in Nashville, Tenn. continues to operate in support of the ongoing disaster response.

Priestley Announces Candidacy for State Representative

MCKENZIE — Today, Keith Priestley announces his candidacy for state representative of the 76th District of Tennessee. The 76th House District encompasses all of Weakley County and parts of Carroll and Obion counties.

"I am excited about the prospect of serving as your state representative in the District I call home. My roots run deep in the 76th District. My family came to Weakley County in 1848 and seven generations of Priestleys have called Weakley County home. From starting three small businesses to serving our nation in the United States Navy and in the Tennessee Army National Guard, I've always stepped up to lead rather than be led."

Keith brings a wealth of church and community involvement to the race for the 76th

District. He has served as an elder at the McKenzie Church of Christ for 27 years. Keith is the former president of McKenzie Banking Company/Foundation Bank, former President of the Carroll County Chamber of Commerce and has served on many other community boards and organizations.

"This race is about giving the hard-working families of the 76th District a representative with common-sense conservative principles who is ready to listen to their needs, passionately advocate for them in Nashville, and put their communities first. I am willing and I am ready. I'm excited to begin this journey and earn every vote along the way."

Keith is married to Sherri [Richardson]. They have three adult children, Brents, Cara, and Brice.

UT Martin Community Aids in COVID-19 Relief Effort

MARTIN (March 25) — The University of Tennessee at Martin, along with multiple Tennessee higher education institutions, has partnered with THEC and TEMA to create personal protective equipment for Tennessee COVID-19 relief aid. UT Martin has centralized all of the 3D-capable printers on campus into the Rogers Media Center and is currently printing headbands for medical face shields.

"We are pleased to engage with the Tennessee Higher Education Commission and other educational partners across the state to provide safety materials to Tennessee's health-care workers. Our faculty and staff are working to create filament bands for safety masks on our campus 3D printers," said UT Martin Chancellor Keith Carver. "We want to be a resource for the region and state's efforts to respond to the COVID-19 pandemic situation."

The media center, located in the Paul Meek Library, continues to add more printers to the operation each day, increasing maximum production and support. Currently, the center is running eight printers around the clock to produce as many headbands as possible. THEC (Tennessee Higher Education Commission) has also purchased two additional 3D printers to aid UT Martin's capacity.

The printers are being operated by faculty, staff and students who all agree that, while the work is time-consuming, it is rewarding knowing that they are making a difference for Tennessee medical professionals fighting COVID-19.

"It's an eye-opening experience because we've been doing 3D printing, but not on this scale before. It's amazing what we are able to do, and it is a humbling experience that we are able to help as many people as we can in this situation that we are in," said student worker Jordan Bell, of Dresden.

The center is also responsible for cutting out sheets of acetate, as well as elastic, to complete the shields that will be assembled after being transported to TEMA

UT Martin is utilizing 3D printers on campus to create medical face shields to be donated to TEMA. Chancellor Keith Carver (right) inspects a 3D-printed component as Garrett Roberts looks on.

(Tennessee Emergency Management Agency).

"We are grateful that our staff and our students are really passionate about helping people. Without all of us, we couldn't get this done," Olivia Fernandez, UT Martin Information Technology Services manager, said.

UT Martin has a quota of 1,000 masks but will continue printing as many headbands as needed until the crisis has ended, according to Fernandez.

The relief project originally began at Austin Peay State University after Gov. Bill Lee called universities to action in the fight against the novel coronavirus. After creating the prototype for the medical mask, universities across Tennessee, including UT Martin and UT Knoxville, joined the effort and have produced hundreds of 3D-printed shields so far.

Scott Sloan, Chief of Staff and Emergency Services Coordinator for THEC, says the contributions from campuses like UT Martin are making a difference in the state.

"There is impact here. My interactions and communications with TEMA have reinforced that this effort is genuinely making a difference," said Sloan. "Every band that these schools can produce right now is furthering an assessment and virus testing for a Tennessean somewhere in the state."

Other members of the UT Martin community are also contributing to the cause. Dr. Renee LaFleur, associate professor of history, and her daughter, Eleanor, are creating medical face masks out of quilting material to donate to hospitals where supplies are needed the most. LaFleur, wanting to show her young daughter how important it is to help others, donated the first batch of face masks to Dr. Nikhil Patel's, of Gastroenterology Associates of Martin, supply drive that is sending medical equipment to New York.

"(Her father and I) consistently try to teach her that when you have, you need to share, and we have time and resources to make these masks, so it is our responsibility to share and help others," said LaFleur.

From the mass production of face shields for TEMA to a mother-daughter team sewing masks together for doctors across the country, the UT Martin community is working together during a time of crisis to ease the effects of COVID-19.

For the week ending March 21, 2020, Tennesseans filed 39,096 initial claims for unemployment insurance benefits. The week prior, the state received 2,702 new unemployment claims. The latest figure represents a nearly 20 fold increase in week-to-week claims. Unemployment rates are a lagging measure and for the month of February remained relatively unaffected by the COVID-19 public health emergency. Tennessee's statewide unemployment rate for February 2020 experienced a slight increase according to newly released data from the Tennessee Department of Labor and Workforce Development.

Unemployment rates in January in Carroll County increased from 4.7 percent in December 2019 with 567 unemployed of the 12,179 labor force to 5.8 percent in January, with 701 unemployed out of 12,069 laborers.

Henry County unemployment rates increased from 4.1 percent, 610 unemployed of a 14,775 labor force in December 2019 to 5.3 percent, 757 unemployed of the 14,282 labor force in January.

Weakley County's rate increased from 3.3 percent, 582 unemployed of the 16,762 labor force in December 2019 to 4.1 percent, 657 unemployed of 16,140 in the labor force in January.

throughout the week. He suffered from shortness of breath, weakness, dry cough and fever. He later received the news of the positive test on Sunday, March 22. The Tennessee Department of Health contacted Jeremy and helped the family understand quarantine policies. Jeremy was immediately quarantined and Megan began cleaning and disinfecting. They also notified employers, the babysitter, and others who had come in direct contact with Jeremy. Megan's brother is a medical student and had provided information on quarantine and virus protection even before Jeremy's diagnosis. Megan purchased gloves at local stores and placed an online order for masks. Those items became a necessity to prevent the spread of the virus throughout the household. "We were prepared," said Megan.

Jeremy was quarantined to a separate bedroom and restroom away from the remainder of the family. Plastic sheeting was placed over the bedroom door to prevent the spread of the virus throughout the house. Megan and the children stayed away from the area and from Jeremy. While Megan and the children have stayed away from Jeremy, they have also stayed away from others.

Jeremy's symptoms have continued to improve each day. His fever resolved Tuesday, March 17 and his cough became minimal throughout last week. Jeremy was retested Monday, March 30 and the family is hoping for a negative diagnosis. The Allens were blessed by members of the church, family and community.

Megan said God has had His hand on the family throughout this ordeal. The family received food, gifts, prayers, games for the kids and other blessings during the quarantine period. Most items were dropped at their front door.

The Allens want to help educate and inform the community of the symptoms, quarantine, and what it's like to go through it as a family unit. Their main goal is to offer hope for those who may contract the virus or for those who know someone who does.

Megan and kids are still in quarantine to be sure they did not contract the virus. Megan travels outside the home for necessities on an extremely limited basis. When she does leave, she wears protective items to prevent the spread of the virus. They have just a few more days left.

Megan's virus prevention recommendations are extensive. A list is available at www.mckenziebanner.com. She indicates to wash and disinfect every surface in the home to protect other family members.

The family moved to McKenzie from Tipton County when Megan accepted the position of Bethel University Renaissance Choir director. She also serves as the worship leader and youth director with Overflow Church.

annual permits.

Carroll Lake was closed for nearly six years after extreme heavy rains in June 2014 caused flooding at the lake which damaged the floodgates and caused them to fail. The lake had to be emptied and it remained that way for 32 months until the gates were repaired.

In August 2016, the process of defoliation and excavation of the dry lake bed began. Invasive vegetation was sprayed with herbicide, and areas of the bed were dug to achieve depths comparable to when the lake was created in 1947.

In the following months, Diversified Contractors of McKenzie completed the repairs to the floodgates. Before the end of the year, TWRA officials inspected the lake bed and gates and burned away dead vegetation on the bed of the empty lake. Finally, the small sluice gate which regulates the spillway was closed, but, unfortunately, it failed. Repairs were made quickly, and the gate was sealed in January 2017, allowing the lake to begin to refill.

The next month, on Valentine's Day, the first batch of fish, a combined 45,000 bluegill and redear sunfish, were released into the lake. The TWRA then incrementally stocked the water with Northern and Florida largemouth bass, catfish and walleye.

Once the gates were operational and fish had been introduced, local fishers began to once again take advantage of the fishing allowed below the spillway.

Laddie Hughes Lollar

The Freud of Bethel Academia

Thumbing through the archives this week, I came across a story about Dr. Laddie Lollar. The article focused on the celebration of his fortieth year at Bethel College. I didn't have the fortune of having Dr. Lollar as a professor, but we had met several times in passing while I was on campus.

He was probably one of the most fascinating members of the faculty I met. As I was preparing for graduation, I had business to attend to in the fine arts building. Rounding a corner, I heard my name and turned to find Dr. Lollar motioning me his direction. He asked the normal curious questions of my plans after graduation, but then he began to tell me about the first time we met.

The man had a mind like a steel trap, he remembered what we discussed during a dinner for new athletes on campus; he was even able to tell me the color of my tie and sports coat.

This week's article is in honor of Dr. Lollar and his sweet wife, Dee Dee.

The Lollars came to McKenzie in 1961 from Missouri. Dr. Lollar held the academic rank of professor, following his Ph.D. from the University of Missouri. During his tenure, he was named "Teacher of the Year" four times and held the title of faculty emeritus.

Laddie Lollar was raised in Greenfield, Missouri and graduated high school as valedictorian in 1947. He received a Bachelor of Science degree in accounting and mathematics in 1951 from Southwest Missouri State University, followed by a Masters of Education degree in guidance and counseling in 1956 and a Ph.D. in counseling psychology in 1968 from the University of Missouri in Columbia.

Dr. Lollar began his teaching career in 1951 at School of the Osage in Lake Ozark, Missouri as a business and mathematics teacher. It was at the School of Osage, a young Laddie met and married Dee Dee. He then worked as a counselor at the University of Missouri's Testing and Counseling Service for four years before moving to McKenzie in 1961 to teach education and psychology at Bethel College, where he stayed for the remainder of his teaching career.

He was the faculty athletics representative for the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA)

"Teaching is the noblest work anyone can ever do," said Dr. Lollar when asked the key to his lengthy career. He added that he works hard to keep up with his ever-changing field. This included conventions he often attended, most of which at his own expense.

His greatest love in teaching was simple, "reaching prodigal students and seeing them transform into productive people. In doing this is to get students to find passion."

The Lollars had three children; Jennifer (b. 1965), Jonathan (b. 1967) and Jason (b. 1971).

Laddie and Dee Dee were active in the First Cumberland Presbyterian Church. Dee Dee served many years as the church treasurer, starting in 1963 until her death in 2000. Laddie served as church school superintendent and served as moderator of both the Ozark Presbytery and Missouri Synod.

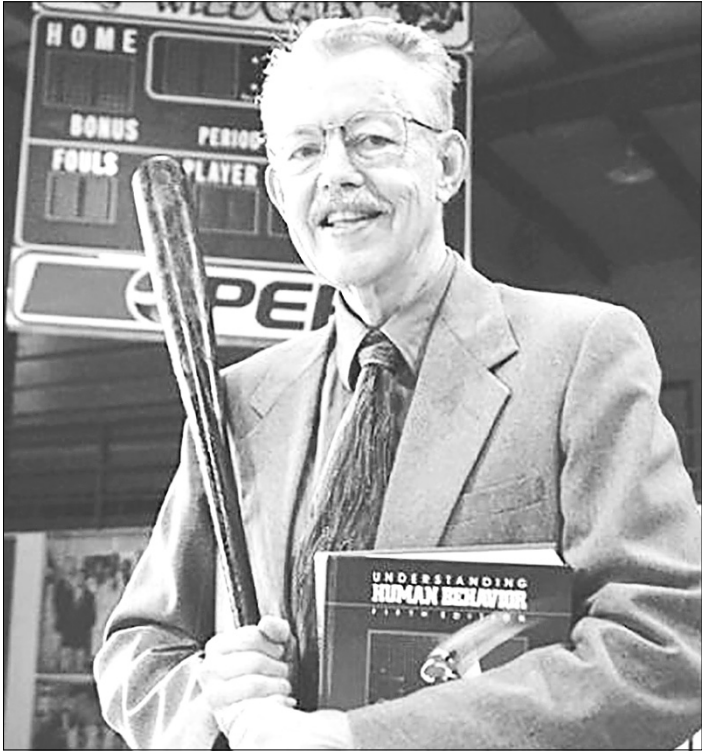

Dee Dee worked for Bethel College as the Burroughs Learning Center's Public Service Assistant. Upon her death in April of 2000, Dr. Lollar worked diligently to start the Adelia "Dee Dee" Moon Lollar English Scholarship. The scholarship was designed to honor her memory and to provide financial assistance for serving students who are either English majors or psychology majors with an English minor.

The fifty-year teaching career of Laddie Lollar allowed him and his wife many opportunities to travel throughout the United States and Europe. They traveled to Switzerland to take part in a study session sponsored by the Karl G. Jung Institute. While there they were able to visit Vienna, Munich and Zurich.

Dr. Lollar was a member of numerous academic and civic organizations throughout his life, including; Pi Omega Pi business education teacher honor society, Kappa Mu Epsilon mathematics honor society, Phi Delta Kappa association for professional educators, Psi Chi psychology honor society, American Psychological Association, Southeastern Psychological Association, Tennessee Psychological Association, Above, Laddie and Dee Dee Lollar were part of the McKenzie and Bethel College community for many years. Below, Dr. Laddie Lollar wore many hats at Bethel College; among those were professor, advisor, faculty athletics representative and mentor.

American Association of University Professors, Common Cause Tennessee, and Carroll County Developmental Center.

Laddie Lollar died Friday, May 12, 2006, at Summit Medical Center in Hermitage, Tennessee. He was laid to rest in Mount Olivet Cemetery next to Dee Dee.

After his death in 2007, the Phi Delta Sigma Fraternity put a plan in motion to purchase the late-professors home. Lollar House was established on July 28, 2008. Dr. Lollar advised Phi Delta Sigma Fraternity for over 40 years. At Homecoming 2008, the fraternity unveiled The Lollar Library, as the Lollar Family donated all of Dr. Lollar and Dee Dee's books. The Lollar House is a work in progress.

HUNKER DOWN WITH KES

Be Still, And Know...

I've never seen so much hand sanitizer in all my life!

Of course, the same can't be said for toilet paper. Talk about a sign of the times!

Americans can be the silliest people, even in the worst of situations. It seems to me there are way more important things to be hoarding right now, other than paper products; like maybe home cooked meals, penicillin, gas masks, Ivory Soap and hazmat suits.

My fourteen year old grandson summed up the entertainment menu. "KK, we can't go to the movies. There is no baseball, golf, basketball, hockey, spring football or Olympics on TV. If something doesn't change soon, we're going to be down to nothing but the Hallmark Channel."

Congress is "negotiating" some help. That would be comical in normal times! What is there to negotiate when lives are at stake?

Bless Congresses' collective hearts; it's how they have been trained. If the Republicans want a bridge over the Delaware River, they've got to pony up an increase in Medicare to secure the Democratic vote.

If the Democrats want a much needed prison reform bill passed, they've got to add an additional wing to the Pentagon in the legislation to pacify the Republicans.

They don't know any other way! You'd think in such a national crisis they'd all raise their hand immediately for the "best" plan and get to it!

Don't hold your breath for such a deal. They took the easy way out, again, by voting to throw tons and tons of money at the problem. It's a familiar refrain...

And if this plan fails, or doesn't turn things around immediately, we're going to see some epic political finger pointing...from sea to shinning sea!

But here is the good news. Life has been slowed for a moment. The hustle and bustle of living has hit the pause button. We can kick the dog, curse the moon and the stars, blame the Chinese... or we can avail ourselves in the quietness to do some deep, soul searching and heartfelt "reflecting".

On things past, present and future.

What an opportunity to tell my grandchildren about life before TV. They wouldn't have sat still for such mundane stuff a month ago. But hey, my stories about chasing rabbits through the snow and swimming naked in the big ditch might not have a chance against Southeastern Conference Football...but I CAN compete with the Hallmark Channel!

It has given me pause to remember my Grandfather. How quiet he was. And thoughtful. He never spoke without a fair amount of consideration as to how the words would land. He loved us unconditionally. And he'd lean down and listen—even when we were children! He'd take our side every time over any and all other grownups in the room.

Listen, if God spares me though this morass I'm going to be a different grandparent.

Maybe it's not more money that we need...

I have wondered in these latter days if this whole plague is not my fault! Maybe I have not humbled myself. I thought of those prideful and disdainful Israelites in the days of Isaiah, Jeremiah, Ezekiel and Daniel. I remembered that Egyptian Pharaoh who hardened his heart against God...and paid an awful price for it!

I have worried about Pam Collins this week. And Betsy Dinwiddie. John Ingram. Ricky Hale. Ruth Ann Wiley. Jackie Burns. James Hastings. And countless other "boyhood" friends that meant so much to me in another lifetime. I realize this morning—they are just as important to me in this lifetime! And they are worth more than silver or gold.

Cathy and I are calling our older friends, especially those that live alone, just to see if they need anything. We should have been doing it long before now...

I hold my wife's hand a little more these days. We talk about the swimming pool where we met in 1966. We laugh (now) about Josh and Jess tearing up the backyard on that old four wheeler. She will cry again just remembering the day each went off to college.

We thank God a little more ardently than we did a few weeks ago.

You can not believe how often those two boys call these days, "Y'all OK, Dad? Don't go out for anything! Wash your hands. If you feel sick, get some help immediately. Do you need anything?"

I reassure them with each call, "Son, I am doing my part down here. I am not going to kiss any strangers in the foreseeable future..."

Respectfully,
Kes

Fun By The Numbers
Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:
Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

charged with aggravated assault following a March 25 incident at a Cedar Grove residence.

According to the report by Deputy Michael Krause, he responded to a call on Patsy Lane and found Meade standing in the road. When ordered by Krause to take his hands out of his pockets, Mead told the deputy that he had already put the knife in the house. Krause detained Mead and then spoke with one of Mead's neighbors, who told the deputy that Meade had been on his porch and he told Meade to get off his property. The neighbor said Meade then grabbed a butcher knife and a jug of gasoline and approached him, stating that he was going to assault him while brandishing the weapons.

Theft — Deputies are investigating the recent theft of several items from a residence near Hollow Rock.

According to the report by Deputy Michael J. Krause, he responded on March 21 to a call about a theft at 23010 Highway 114. Reported as stolen from the property were a 2002 four-wheeler valued at $2,500, a five-gallon gas can valued at $20, an antique surveyor valued at $100, and an air compressor valued at $100.

DUI — Redonna Paige Campbell, 51, of 10920 Lexington Street, Huntingdon, was charged with DUI (second offense) and driving on a revoked license during a March 24 traffic stop on Highway 77.

According to the report by Deputy Scotty Davis, he pulled over a vehicle driven by Campbell after observing the vehicle cross the center line and run off the side of the road multiple times. While speaking with Campbell, Davis detected a strong odor of alcohol and noted that Campbell's speech was slurred. Davis also reported that Campbell was unsteady on her feet and fell several times during field sobriety tests. A computer check showed that Campbell's driver's license was revoked for a prior DUI conviction.

Stolen Vehicle — The Sheriff's Department is looking into the recent theft of a vehicle in Cedar Grove.

According to the report by Deputy Steven Scott, Shannon Hardwick of McKenzie reported his vehicle as being stolen on March 24. Hardwick told deputies that he left his place of employment in McKenzie because he was feeling ill and was on his way to Baptist Memorial Hospital in Huntingdon, but he could not remember where the hospital was and ended up on Highway 70 in Cedar Grove. Hardwick said he pulled into a driveway at a residence at 12315 Highway 70 because he was in too much pain to continue driving. Hardwick was transported from that address by ambulance, and his vehicle was left in the driveway with permission from the residents. One of those residents told deputies that she woke up at about 3 p.m. that next morning, found that the vehicle was gone, and assumed that Hardwick had come and gotten it. Hardwick came to the residence later in the day, found the vehicle gone, and reported it as missing. Hardwick described the vehicle as a silver Ford F150 with a Steelers plate on the front and a dent/crease in the tailgate.

Burglary — Virgil Clayton Waddle, 52, of 740 Green Allen Spring Road, Huntingdon, was charged with aggravated burglary, burglary, and theft of property under $1,000 on March 24.

According to the report by Deputy Michael Sevarns, he responded to a call about a break-in at 1980 Futrell Road near Huntingdon and spoke with property owner Amy Grimes. She showed Sevarns an unknown pickup truck parked behind her house filled with items that had been taken from inside the house and a storage shed on the property. Grimes said that she came to the house to move items to another location, found that the house and shed had been burglarized, and found the pickup truck. While investigating the scene, Sevarns found Waddle hiding underneath the storage shed. Waddle told Sevarns that he had taken the items because he was worried about the coronavirus and was trying to stock up on things he needed for survival.

Drug Possession — Roger Lynn Prater, 40, of 310 Enoch Cemetery Road, Huntingdon, was cited for possession of methamphetamine on March 24.

According to the report by Deputy Steven Scott, he responded to a call about someone sleeping in a vehicle in the driveway of an Atwood residence. Scott found Prater asleep in a vehicle with the engine running. After Scott woke him up, Prater said that he did not know where he was, but denied using any alcohol or drugs. Prater gave Scott consent to search the vehicle, and during that search, Scott found approximately .1 grams of a substance believed to be methamphetamine.

Tips for Healthy Eating

COURTESY LACY YELEY
UT Extension Agent

Choosing nutritious foods and getting enough physical activity can make a significant difference in your health. For National Nutrition Month 2020, in March, we want to encourage people to make informed food choices and develop sound eating and physical activity habits.

Food is more than a source of calories for energy. It is also a source of essential nutrients that cannot be made by the human body. The foods we choose to eat profoundly affect our health, even though it may take weeks, months, or even years, to become apparent.

How do we know what to eat? Every five years, the US Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) and the US Department of Agriculture (USDA) are required by law to jointly publish the Dietary Guidelines for Americans. These guidelines reflect the current body of nutrition science and help health professionals and policymakers guide Americans to make healthy food and beverage choices. These recommendations are designed to promote health, prevent chronic disease and help people reach and maintain a healthy weight.

The 2015 Dietary Guidelines for Americans include five key recommendations for healthy eating patterns:

1. Follow a healthy eating pat-

- tern across the lifespan.
2. Focus on variety, nutrient density and amount.
3. Limit calories from added sugars and saturated fats and reduce sodium intake.
4. Shift to healthier food and beverage choices.
5. Support healthy eating patterns for all.

The USDA's MyPlate icon can help consumers make better food choices by acting as a reminder of what their plate should look like—including foods from all the food groups over the course of a day.

How to Build a Healthy Plate:
-Make half your plate fruits and vegetables. Fresh, frozen, canned, and dried fruits and vegetables all count.

-Make at least half your grains whole grains. Choose products that name a whole grain first on the ingredients list.

-Switch to skim or 1% milk. Fat-free and low-fat milk have the same essential nutrients as whole milk, but less fat and calories. Choose milk, cheese, yogurt or fortified soy milk for dairy foods.

-Vary your protein food choices. Choose seafood twice a week as the protein on your plate. Choose lean meats and ground beef that are at least 90% lean.

How do casseroles and mixed foods fit on MyPlate?

Some foods such as casseroles, pizza, burritos and sandwiches do not fit neatly into one food group. These mixed dishes are made of foods from various food groups. An example would be the different parts of a burrito—tortilla (grains group), beans (protein foods group), cheese (dairy group), onions and salsa (vegetable group).

A plate can hold a lot of food. The portion sizes, or amounts, of different foods you put on your plate make a big difference. The way the food was prepared can also make a difference when making a healthy plate, especially if there were extra fats or sugars added during cooking. These additions add extra calories.

Tips for Building a Healthy Plate:

-Think about what you are putting on your plate—think before you eat.

-Avoid oversize portions by using a smaller plate or bowl.

-Say yes to salads and other vegetables. Make sure to get plenty of red, orange, and dark-green vegetables on your plate throughout the week.

-Select fruit for dessert to control your urge to grab a cookie or other high-calorie sweets.

-Use a measuring cup to measure your amounts when serving so that you become skilled at estimating portion sizes.

-Eat your calories rather than drink your calories. Have water, low-fat milk, or other lower-calorie beverages instead of regular soft drinks and sweet tea.

Every healthy nutritional choice is a choice in the right direction!

MCKENZIE — McKenzie High School basketball standout Lazarick Hill will continue his playing career with the Bethel University Wildcats.

During his senior season with the Rebels, Hill scored 14.6 points per game with a 56.2 field goal percentage.

McKenzie Head Coach John Wilkins told The Banner, "Laz is a high character kid who has really worked himself into being one of the better players in our area. I'm very proud of who Laz is on and off the court. He has really put in the time to develop these past four years and is going to be a tremendous player at the next level. He's is a competitor and has a high motor. He loves defense and will do whatever he can to help his team win."

In a remote interview with The Banner, Hill explained his choice: "I think Bethel is a good program for me. It'll be a nice fit for me and I wanted to be closer to my family."

He will major in Education with the goal of teaching and coaching at a school for the deaf. His father, Bernard Scott, is deaf and attended such a school. Hill visited the school and was impressed with the basketball team and the school overall.

Hill described his time with his high school team as "great," adding, "I will always be a Rebel."

He hopes that he will get the opportunity to return to his alma mater and have the traditional signing ceremony with his family, coaches, teammates and friends.

Bethel's Nelson Named NAIA Division I Women's Basketball Coach of the Year

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Coach Chris Nelson, in his 14th season, was named the NAIA Division I Women's Basketball Coach of the Year after finishing the season at 29-4 (.879). The Wildcats finished the season qualifying for the 2020 championship for the 11th time and were ranked at No. 6 in the final Coaches' Top 25. Coach Nelson led his team to the Southern States Athletic Conference (SSAC) tournament championship with a 65-59 win over Martin Methodist. Bethel also won the SSAC regular season title with a 15-1 mark. Bethel finished the season with a 21 game winning streak which is the second longest in program history. The Lady Cats would have been making their eighth straight appearance in the national tournament.

Bethel was 15-0 at home on the year. Under Nelson's guidance the Lady Cats are 122-15 all-time in Crisp Arena and 60-4 versus league opponents in the building. Bethel completed play in the SSAC at 112-18.

Nelson captured his 300th career win on January 2 when the Lady Wildcats beat Stillman College 76-38. He finished the season with a 317-142 career mark.

Bethel finished third in the nation in field goal defense at 33 percent. Bethel was third in the nation in scoring defense at 53.9. The Cats were 19-1 when holding opponents to 54 points or less.

Nelson had three players named to the NAIA All-American teams this season. Tyasia Willis was named to the 2nd team while Morgan Martin and Tasia Jones were named to the honorable mention squad.

Coach Nelson commented, "I am very thankful, humbled and blessed. This year we were very fortunate to not only be surrounded with great players but also great people. Our coaching staff is fully committed every day and does a wonderful job of not only X's and O's of the game but building and having great relationships with our players and that in itself is what helps make up

NEW YORK — He has been one of the more popular Bethel University Wildcats in recent years. Foday Sankaray, the 6'4 senior from the Bronx, New York is back home after he and thousands of other student-athletes around the country saw their campus experiences cut short due to COVID-19. He and others are forced to continue their studies on-line.

The basketball standout averaged seven points and three rebounds this past season. He appeared in 26 games for the Wildcats and shot 42 percent from the field. He shot 72 percent from the foul line and hit 24 three-pointers on the year. He averaged over eight points and four rebounds in his Wildcat career.

Foday's story is much more, however, than just numbers. After two seasons at Sullivan County Community College, he found his way to McKenzie through connections with the Bethel staff and his mentor Coach Jackie Knowles.

Sankaray brought instant energy to the Bethel program.

Along with his athleticism and energy, Foday came off the bench to spark Bethel at both ends of the court. Bethel color commentator Zach O'Kelley deemed him "The Human Microwave."

Much of his popularity was a result of that energy, but also because of his demeanor on and off the court. Coach Jeff Britt said, "Foday has been such as joy to coach and be around the last couple of seasons, he always has a big smile on his face and possesses a great personality."

He remains that same person today despite tragedy hitting the Sankaray family recently. His father, Musa Sankaray passed away on January 2. After missing five games, he returned and finished the season with the Wildcats, who finished the year at 19-12. The Cats were 10-8 in the SSAC.

Sankaray faces another challenge these days as he, his mother Fatima and his three younger siblings find themselves in the epicenter of the virus, which is affecting the entire nation and world.

Foday told the Bethel SID department, "It has been tough losing my father and now batting the current crisis. We are a strong family of faith led by my mother and the legacy left by my father. Even simple things like visiting the supermarket is challenging. We have to walk several minutes and then the long lines are everywhere and you have to be conscious of those around you. I am trying my best to be strong for my family. My experiences at Bethel have helped me and I lean on those memories quite often. I am thankful for the respect and love I received from my teammates, Coach Britt, Coach Johnson, Coach Stanley, the school staff and the fans at Bethel. This has helped me get through these trying times."

Coach Britt added, "It has been a tough time for Foday, but he is a person of strength and determination. I am so proud of him and how he has and is currently enduring these tough times. He made our program better by being with us these past two seasons. God Bless him and his family."

Sankaray hopes to graduate this summer and looks forward to a career in business or playing professionally in Europe.
