Hometown Christmas

McKENZIE (December 3) — The McKenzie Lions Club, Beta Sigma Phi, Bethel University, and the City of McKenzie hosted a full slate of events in the thirteenth annual Hometown Christmas, culminating in a busy Saturday. Light rain that began in the early afternoon transitioned into a heavy drizzle by the end of the parade, spoiling festivities that normally carry on afterward.

Beta Sigma Phi hosted the Jingle Bell Luncheon on Tuesday, and Bethel University threw the fifth annual Twinkle Ball on Wednesday.

Friday featured a bake sale and auction downtown and music from Bethel's Renaissance and Division of Music. Christmas with Renaissance gave encore performances on Saturday and Sunday as well.

Saturday kicked off with Breakfast with Santa at First United Methodist Church and Opening Ceremonies at the square, featuring a performance by the Rebel Singers. Mayor Jill Holland presented the young singers with a Proclamation thanking them for their contribution. Lions Club President Will Rommell welcomed everyone and thanked many groups and individuals for making the week possible. Pastor Garrett Burns offered a blessing over the event, and Grand Marshal Jennifer Waldrup led the

Christmas with Renaissance

After more than a decade of Christmas products, Bethel University's Renaissance pulled out all stops for clearly one of the best Christmas shows yet.

Student talent from vocalists, actors, and instrumentalists performed to evening and matinee shows over the weekend and has now become part of the Bethel University tradition.

Matthew Holt, executive director of Renaissance was extremely pleased ever seat in the Bouldin Auditorium was sold for the Sunday matinee. Renaissance has built on the its legacy and moved to the 700-seat Bouldin Auditorim for this year's performances. In the early years of Renaissance, the events were held at the former Cumberland Presbyterian Church downtown. Overall, some 2,400 persons attended the weekend performances.

Holt said, "Christmas with Renaissance (2016) is officially in the books, and I couldn't be more proud of our program! It is always a joy to see our entire staff and student body working together to create this incredible production. We spend months preparing for it, and to say it is 'worth it' would be a tremendous understatement. Over 2,000 people walked in those doors, but I truly believe they walked out a little different... a little better! One of the lines in a song from the show so eloquently communicates the reason behind every minute we spend making sure Christmas with Renaissance is exactly what it needs to be: "It's the grace that we show to a world that needs hope... it's giving our lives knowing they're not our own." That's what it's all about! We are grateful for the opportunities

West Carroll Approves Baseball Upgrades, Releases Coach

By Brad Sam
brad@mckenziebanner.com

ATWOOD (December 1) — The West Carroll Board of Education met Thursday with a full agenda, including most notably a pair of improvement projects for the baseball facilities at the junior/senior high school. A new outfield fence and new dugout benches will be installed following unanimous approval by the board.

The upgrades come as the high school program will be seeking a new coach. First-year coach David Dillard, who had requested the fence and benches as part of an ambitious recipe to build the program, was released from his contract by the board following his termination. Further details about his dismissal were not made public.

West Tennessee Fence Company, who has done work for the district before, was the winning bidder for the new fence at $19,220. The only other bid

City of McKenzie To Establish Liquor By Drink Guidelines

McKENZIE — McKenzie Mayor and Council will establish the provisions necessary for local restaurants to begin serving liquor by the drink following the passage of a referendum on the matter in November. The Council convenes Thursday, December 8, 6:00 p.m. at City Hall.

A citizen-initiated referendum on the question of whether or not to allow liquor by the drink was approved by voters in the city. On the agenda is the provision to set the fees and application process to the McKenzie Alcoholic Beverage Control Board. Applicants must also be approved by the Tennessee Alcoholic Beverage Commission.

In three separate referendums, citizens approved package liquor in 2012, wine in grocery stores in 2014 and implemented in July 2016, and liquor by the drink in November 2016, the last was by a vote of 977 "for" to 729 "against."

was for $19,450 from Cardinal Fence Company. Quotes for the dugout benches were under $10,000, so no bids will be required for the project.

Softball coach Paul Acuff's request for an overnight trip was approved on the first of two readings. The team will travel to Clarksville from March 31 until April 1 (the last part of Spring Break) for a tournament. Acuff also requested that the board look into putting signage above the scoreboard, where poles extend upward for that purpose.

Also approved was the 2017-18 school calendar, which had already been approved by the county board and is supported by other directors in the county. The board was vocally concerned about the earlier start of August 1, but was cornered in by the need to keep the same calendar as the rest of the county for bus and vocational scheduling.

An overnight trip was approved for students to the National Beta Club Convention in Orlando next summer. At the recent state convention, Anna Woodall earned a third place finish in Agriculture and will compete at the national level.

Several board policy amendments were approved on first reading, most of which were minor language changes to align with state and federal law. An exception is a new policy under Building and Grounds Management which requires board approval for any major changes.

In her updates, WCPS Principal Jackie Wester announced that the holiday reception would take place on Friday, December 9. WCES Principal Molly Ashley said that her school's holiday reception would be on Tuesday, December 13, and that the holiday musical would be December 11 at 2 p.m. at the primary school. Junior/senior high Principal Dexter Williams announced that Breakfast with Santa would be Saturday, December 17 from 9-10 a.m. He also congratulated senior Chance Townes for being selected to participate in the West Tennessee All Star Football Game.

Director of Schools Betty Wallace made several announcements, beginning with the resignation of Keri Davis as cheerleading sponsor and the appointment of Christy Martin to the same position. She also noted the hiring of Roger Murley to replace the late Donna Lowe in technology support. Murley has previously done contract work for the school.

The director also reported that the system received $6,300 for Chromebooks and a cart from Utrust, who provides the district's unemployment insurance. She also thanked the board on behalf of the staff for Christmas bonuses, and distributed Christmas cards to board members.

The meeting adjourned in 35 minutes.

courthouse steps, and Christmas carolers around town. Street vendors will be set up on the sidewalks selling items or spreading Christmas cheer including Lula Roe clothing, Pampered Chef, Itza Snap jewelry, and Huntingdon First Pentecostal Church will be giving out hot chocolate.

The Dixie had approximately 1,200 individuals attend the events in the Hal Holbrook Theatre last year. With this amount of foot traffic around the court square, it is a great way for a local business, church, family or fundraising organization to come out and give back to your community by spreading some Christmas cheer to all those individuals. Anyone, who is interested in becoming a vendor, needs to register by contacting city hall at 986.2900. Once registered, you will be included in all future media promotions.

New time this year: At 5:15 p.m., the town Christmas tree will be lit and include a small ceremony with the community joining together to sing Christmas songs. This event happens rain or shine and will be located at City Hall on East Main Street.

New event this year: From 5:30 – 6:30 p.m. children's favorite characters will be on the court square for meet and greets.

This year the Huntingdon parade begins at 6:30 p.m. Traffic on the court square will be blocked beginning at 1:00 p.m. until the parade concludes. Parade entries will assemble behind Carroll Bank & Trust. The parade route begins on West Main St. and proceeds to the square and East Main St., and it ends right after City Hall on 5th Avenue. Parade entry forms may be picked up at the Huntingdon Police Station. Come enjoy an afternoon filled with Christmas charm and make Main Street Christmas and the Huntingdon Christmas Parade one of the best ever.

On Monday, December 12, the City of Trezevant hosts its annual Christmas parade at 7:00 p.m. Participants can line up starting at 6:00 p.m. on Church Street. The grand marshal is Betty Lou Newbill. The parade will travel down U.S. 79, turn onto Holmes Street, then Hurt Street, and end back at City Hall.

Smoke on the Water

By Clayburn Peeples

There'll be smoke on the water,
On the land and the sea,
When our Army and our Navy overtakes the enemy.
There'll be smoke on the mountains,
Where the Heathen Gods stay,
And the sun that is risin'
Will go down on that day.
"Smoke on the Water"
— World War II song by Red Foley

It commenced at 7:48 a.m., Hawaiian time, on a sunny Sunday morning in December, 75 years ago this week. Ninety minutes after it began, the attack was over. Two thousand eight American sailors were killed and 710 others wounded; 218 soldiers and airmen, who were part of the army until independent U.S. Air Force was formed in 1947, were killed and 364 wounded; 109 Marines were killed and 69 wounded; 68 civilians were killed and 35 wounded. In total, 2,403 Americans died, and 1,178 were wounded. Eighteen ships were sunk or run aground, including five battleships. Fortunately, our aircraft carriers were not anchored at Pearl Harbor at the time, and thus, were unharmed.

All of the Americans killed or wounded during the attack were noncombatants, given that there was no state of war when the unprovoked attack occurred, but because of American heroism on that day, 15 medals of honor, 51 Navy crosses, 53 silver stars, four Navy and Marine Corps medals, one Distinguished Flying Cross, four Distinguished Service Crosses, one Distinguished Service Medal and three Bronze Star Medals were awarded to American servicemen who distinguished themselves on that fatal day. Because it was without warning and without a declaration of war, the attack was judged to be a war crime at the post-war Tokyo Trials.

Nine hours later the Japanese attacked Thailand, the Philippines and bases in Malaya, Singapore and Hong Kong, all on the same day. In less than a week they invaded Borneo, and then, four days later, attacked the Netherlands East Indies.

Because of their misplaced reliance on what they believed to be a lack of American resolve, and because they thought they would achieve a short, victorious war over us, the Japanese on that day neglected other targets at Pearl Harbor, especially the Navy Yard, oil tank farms, submarine docks, repair shops and the headquarters building.

As the war wore on, these would prove far more decisive to the American war effort than all the ships the Japanese sank on that infamous day. The Japanese thought, wrongly, that the war would be over far before the influence of these facilities would be felt.

It wasn't. Their plan that morning was to destroy the American fleet to the point it could not interfere with a planned Japanese conquest of the Dutch East Indies and Malaya, thus allowing them to conquer Southeast Asia without interference.

Looking at Europe, they saw a non-interventionist America that had watched from the sidelines as Nazi Germany had crushed France, the Netherlands and Belgium, and England, the only anti-Axis ally, except for Russia, with whom Japan had a non-aggression pact, still standing, was under constant bombing attacks by the Luftwaffe. Surely the end was near.

The other American base in the Philippines and British bases in Singapore were isolated and poorly defended, and with Germany and Italy about to win the war in Europe, (the Japanese thought) all those European, resource rich colonies in the Pacific and Asia would be orphaned and ripe for Japanese takeovers. This would mean easy access to unlimited supplies of oil, rubber, rice and strategic metals for their planned postwar mercantile empire.

And this would all fall into place once the not so mighty (at the time) United States Seventh Fleet and its air arm were neutralized at Pearl Harbor.

But as we all know, it didn't work out that way. Even before the United States did, England declared war on Japan, partly due to Winston Churchill's promise to declare war within an hour of a Japanese attack on the United States, and the next day we too declared war on them, and three days later the Germans, due to their nonaggression pact with Japan, declared war on us, as did Fascist Italy, and the rest is history.

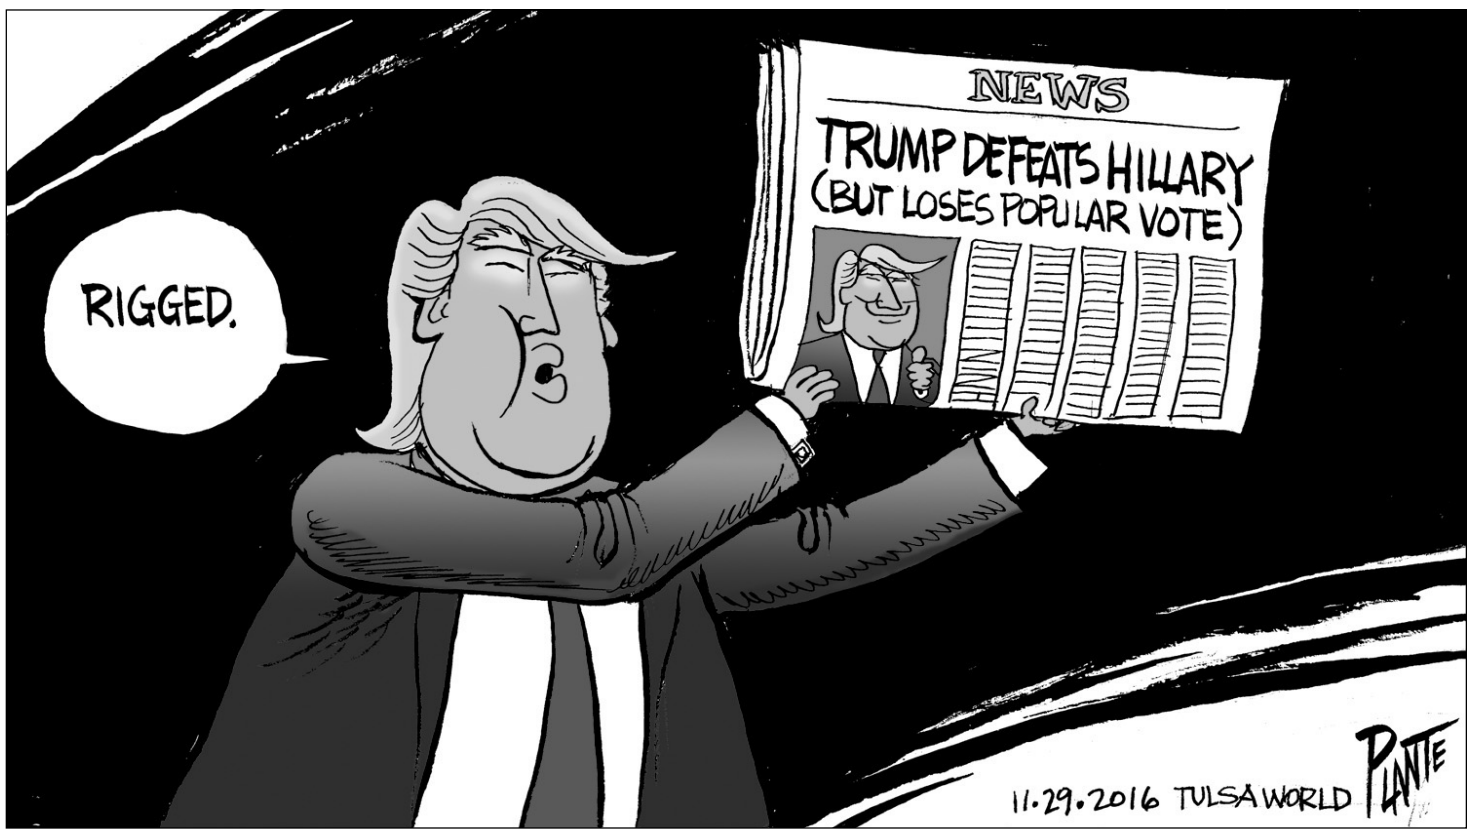
The United States immediately went into a rearmament frenzy unlike any seen in history, producing, in the next four years, more planes and ships than all the other World War II powers combined and raising a military force of more than 12,000,000 men, plus nearly 400,000 women.

And because American military leadership in the Pacific, as well as in Europe, proved far superior to that of Japan and the Axis powers, American fighting men, in spite of living through horrors that would have beggared the descriptive powers of Dante, won both of those wars four years later, and Japan? Japan paid the price of its naked aggression 75 years ago on a sunny Sunday morning by suffering an atomic Holocaust in two of its cities a mere 44 months later.

They made a fatal error on that long ago Sunday morning at Pearl Harbor. They bet against America.

Never bet against America.

And never forget.



Hunker Down with Kes

The Extra Large And Purple Club

There are two things I dread in this world. One of them is Dr. Tom Curry's prostate exam. The other is Christmas shopping. The good doctor's check up just started a few years ago. Apparently, there is some type of age requirement to be eligible for it. Sadly, the Christmas shopping has been with me forever.

The prostate attack is pretty straight forward. I wish I could say the same in the quest for a suitable Yuletide gift. Part of it is my own fault. I want to give the Taj Mahal...but I usually have in my pocket about enough money to purchase something in the neighborhood of a half a pack of kitchen matches.

I remember the Christmas I decided to buy my brother a Buck knife. That sucker cost almost three dollars! Prices were really inflated in December of 1957. We all thought it had something to do with that Soviet Sputnik thing. Listen, three dollars equaled sixty packs of baseball cards! I could have bought a round of hamburgers and cokes at the City Café... and had cash left over! I could have ridden the Greyhound Bus to Memphis!

By Christmas morning, I'd rationalized that if David Mark really wanted a knife, he would have already bought one himself. And he seemed to like the pack of baseball cards. I did apologize for them being open. I wasn't going to give away a Stan Musial card—even to my brother!

It wasn't just the money thing either. I sure wanted to get an intelligent gift, one that would please, be useful and add pleasure to the recipient. Of course, that ruled out a half a box of matches. And added greatly to my anxiety factor!

I hated drawing names in elementary school. It didn't matter who I got. If it was a boy, I'd give them a flashlight. If I drew Jane Hill or Anne Alexander, after a brief consultation with Mom or Aunt Jessie, I'd go with the Sears and Roebuck Hairbrush Kit.

Charlotte Melton brought a whole new challenge to this Christmas spirit thing. By the ninth grade we were "going steady", or so she said. I don't think matches, flashlights or hairbrush supplies were going to do the trick.

Leon just shook his head when I sought his advice. "You've got to break up with them during the Thanksgiving break, you dummy! You can work it all out in January. It's a built in reprieve from spending money and/or embarrassing yourself. Listen, a girlfriend is the hardest person on earth to buy for. Too much and she might want to keep you forever...too little and it's sayonara for sure!"

I gave Billie Jean the news on Pearl Harbor day the following year. I told her we both needed some space. I suggested we get back together after the first of the year and if we still felt the same, we could pick up right where we left off. I was patting myself on the back and silently thanking Leon—

Her eyes narrowed. "Not so fast you turkey. You're not dumping me until after Christmas! I'm expecting some Channel No. 5. A blue wool cardigan sweater would be nice; medium remember. Don't forget the matching Bass Weejuns. And a new Scarab bracelet would make the ensemble perfect!"

1963 is the year Christmas gift giving became mandatory.

The shopping crowds seemed to have picked up in the 1970's. They doubled in the '80's. It wasn't just browsing anymore. You had to use your elbows! And if you're were looking for one of those He-Men characters or a specific Transformer, you had to be at the front door before the store opened with your running shoes on! I've seen fights break out amongst avid shoppers in front of the Star Wars section.

It gave a whole new meaning to being in the Christmas Spirit!

And the crowds doubled again in the '90's. I don't know when the custom of putting out the Christmas stuff as soon after Halloween as practicable began. But I'm sure Macy or Mr. Dillard or Kay or one of the credit card companies were behind the expansion.

I solved most of my shopping woes in 1974. There were only two prenuptial stipulations. One, Cathy was to keep our check book. I was the worst money man of all time. And two, I would buy one Christmas gift, hers. She would take care of all the rest.

Cathy fulfilled her roll a little more eagerly than I thought necessary at times, especially when grandchildren were involved! As for me, I figured with only one thing to pick up, I could ease over on Christmas Eve and find something quick. The crowds are at an all time high but that's only half the problem...the only thing left is purple and extra large!

I've solved the dilemma the last few years by giving her a pack of baseball cards. Unopened, now that Stan has retired.

Respectfully,
Kes

Gasoline Prices Rise Over Week

(December 5) — Average retail gasoline prices in Tennessee have risen 5.4 cents per gallon in the past week, averaging $2.00/g yesterday, according to GasBuddy's daily survey of 3,821 gas outlets in Tennessee. This compares with the national average that has increased 4.4 cents per gallon in the last week to $2.18/g, according to gasoline price website GasBuddy.com.

Including the change in gas prices in Tennessee during the past week, prices yesterday were 15.5 cents per gallon higher than the same day one year ago and are 5.5 cents per gallon lower than a month ago. The national average has decreased 3.7 cents per gallon during the last month and stands 14.1 cents per gallon higher than this day one year ago.

According to GasBuddy historical data, gasoline prices on December 5 in Tennessee have ranged widely over the last five years:

$1.84/g in 2015, $2.51/g in 2014, $3.13/g in 2013, $3.15/g in 2012 and $3.08/g in 2011.

Areas nearby Tennessee and their current gas price climate:

Tennessee- $2.00/g, up 5.4 cents per gallon from last week's $1.94/g.

"If I had a nickle for every time OPEC said it was going to cut oil production, I could probably buy everyone free gas on Christmas," said Patrick DeHaan, senior petroleum analyst for GasBuddy. "While OPEC signaled at its meeting in Vienna that it would cut crude oil production, it also created a committee to monitor the reduced production quotas- addressing the issue of cheating- an issue that has been pervasive for the organization. For now, oil markets have bid up oil prices in a fury believing the agreement, which comes in to force in January, is exactly what's needed to balance supply and demand. I, however, believe this rally represents a balloon that's filled with too much air and risks a correction (popping the balloon) that may be seen in due time."

"But as I wait for the balloon to burst, the rally in oil prices will lead to higher gasoline prices in much of the country over the next couple of weeks as prices catch up to the feverish rise in oil prices. From the east to the west, average prices could rise 5-15 cents a gallon in the week ahead, so motorists should plan accordingly and expect in nearly all communities. OPEC seems to be taking the role of the Grinch this holiday season: the era of low oil prices may be over for now," DeHaan said.

McKenzie to Consider False Alarm Ordinance

The city of McKenzie is considering implementing a false alarm ordinance, which requires automated alarms to be registered with the city. The proposed ordinance also requires those who monitor fire, burglar, and intrusion alarms to establish a list of those persons to call in case of activation.

When the McKenzie Mayor and Council convene Thursday, 6:00 p.m., they will consider the ordinance to access fees for excessive false alarms and make it unlawful to install alarm systems that transmit a recorded message to the police and fire departments.

Excessive false alarms, established at three or more per year, will bear a fee of $150 for each false activation.

MCKENZIE — The Kiwanis Middle School Builders Club presented a check for $1,200 to the Carroll County Carl Perkins Center for the Prevention of Child Abuse.

The monetary gift will be used to give children and families necessary items for school and home in addition to providing services and support. The Builders Club held a dance as its fundraiser to support this project.

The Mission of the Center is to provide support to families in preventing and dealing with child abuse in West TN and to help both parents and children meet practical needs of preserving and improving the quality of family life.

Carroll County 4-H Recycling Project a Success

By Brad Sam
brad@mckenziebanner.com

This fall, Carroll County 4-H members, consisting of fourth through sixth graders from all five county school districts, participated in a multipurpose recycling project with great results.

Lucas Mercker, the county's 4-H Extension Agent, challenged the students to collect two types of items for recycling: plastic caps and lids and metal pull-tabs.

The plastic collection is part of an ABC Promise Partnership with the CC Extension. Through the program, the 25 pounds of lids and caps gathered will be recycled into a park bench that will be placed in front of the Carroll County Library in Huntingdon. Signage will recognize 4-H's contribution, and the bench will be the club's clover green.

"The kids were really excited about that," Mercker told The Banner. "They're really knowledgeable about recycling and excited to help the community." He added that the bench is expected to be installed during the spring semester.

The 55 pounds of metal pull-tabs collected will benefit Ronald McDonald House Charities.

Mercker called the project "a good opportunity to learn the value of recycling and of helping people."

"I was impressed with how well they did. I told them, 'If we all do a little, we can achieve a lot.'"

Mercker looks forward to continuing to build the 4-H program in Carroll County. He said that the club is still actively seeking adult volunteers that can help lead project teams.

To volunteer or for more information, call the Carroll County Extension at 731-986-1976 or visit carroll.tennessee.edu.

Patriots 39, Rebels 36

The late game was knotted at 8-8 after the first frame. Rebel Tyler King scored four points, while Brandon Baucum and Bryce Wiggins each had a pair. Cameron May hit a three for Henry County, Cole Culpepper and James King each had a pair, and Malik Russell hit a free throw.

The Rebels edged the second quarter, 10-9, led by Preston Henderson with five points, including a three-pointer. Baucum and Mason King each had two points, and T. King hit a freebie. Lukas Reynolds and Ty Cook each hit a three for the Patriots, J. King had a pair, and Chase Bell hit a freebie. At the half, McKenzie led, 18-17.

Henry County answered with an 8-5 advantage in the third. Patriot Lukas Wockon hit a three, Russell and Caleb McCutcheon each had a pair, and Reynolds hit a free throw. Baucum hit a three for McKenzie, and T. King added a pair. Entering the final frame, the Patriots led, 25-23.

A minute into the fourth quarter, Rebel Dajour Edmunson tied the game with a drive to the basket, and Baucum soon gave the Rebels the lead. After a Patriot miss, McKenzie had the ball stolen during transition, but Lucas King stole it right back and dished it inside to Baucum for a 29-25 lead. Edmunson hit a pair from the line to increase the lead with under four minutes to play, but J. King answered with an old-fashioned three-point play. Edmunson headed back to the line, hitting the second of two shots. Cook hit a pair on the other end, then game officials had a conference at the scoring table. They determined that McKenzie was not yet in the double-bonus, and Edmunson should not have been awarded the second free throw attempt. The score was reset to 31-30 with McKenzie leading. Wiggins hit a pair, then Bell did the same on the other end. With a minute and a half left in the contest, Cook drained a three to give Henry County the lead, 35-33. Edmunson tied it with two from the line, and T. King pulled off a steal. The Rebels passed the ball until ten seconds remained and called a timeout. Unfortunately, McKenzie had no timeouts left, resulting in a technical foul. May hit both free throws, and Henry County retained possession. Russell drew the quick foul and hit both freebies. McKenzie lost the ball out of bounds, but Baucum stole it back on the Patriot inbound. T. King drew a foul going to the basket and hit one of two with just over a second on the clock, and the game ended in a 39-36 Henry County victory.

Rebel Brandon Baucum led all scorers with eleven points in the loss, including a three-pointer. Tyler King scored eight, and Dajour Edmunson had six points.

Malik Russell led Henry County with eight points, including a three-pointer. James King scored seven points.

Sergeant Brad Allen charged Anthony Wayne Cole, 40, of 1114 Green Oaks Drive with aggravated sexual battery. According to Allen's report, he sat in on a forensic interview at the Carl Perkins Center with a child. The child stated that two years prior Cole had inappropriately touched her. After the interview the matter was brought to the district attorney for investigation. Cole agreed to a polygraph, but later canceled the test. The district attorney later determined there was enough evidence to charge him.

According to Cole's report, Butler and Andrew Buchanan were drinking on the lawn of a Hunter Ridge apartment and officers had received several complaints about the men throughout the evening. After giving the men two warnings to take their drinking inside, officers were called back a third time after receiving more complaints that the men were yelling and tossing beer bottles. Officers then took Butler and Buchanan into custody.

According to Kelley's report, officers saw Matthews driving down Main Street when he pulled off the road and turned on his flashers. When officers stopped to speak with him, he told them that his car was overheating. Officers then asked if he had gotten his license back, to which he said yes. He then told them he hadn't actually gotten it back. As officers went to cuff him, he fled on foot. Kelley and Officer Mike Sevarns pursued him on foot, sustaining minor injuries in the process. When Matthews was finally arrested, a K-9 unit alerted officers that drugs were in or had recently been in his vehicle. Lady Rebels, Rebels Fall to Humboldt HUMBOLDT (November 29) — In high school basketball action, the McKenzie Lady Rebels utilized Anna Comer's 16-point, two trey performance to push Humboldt to the edge before falling, 34-31.

In the boys contest, McKenzie, despite Brandon Baucum's game-high 25-point effort, fell to the Vikings, 70-50.

Humboldt jumped out to a 9-2 lead after the first period before McKenzie responded to post nine points in the second canto and trail at the half, 20-11.

Ramping up on offense, McKenzie combined the production of Comer with baskets by Jacey Davis to outscore Humboldt, 12-7, and trail at the start of the final frame, 27-24.

In the fourth period, McKenzie and Humboldt battled in a low-scoring, defensive-tinged effort before the Lady Vikings prevailed in the end, 34-31.

McKenzie was paced offensively by Comer (16), J. Davis (7), Shelby Davis (4), and Bailey Nelson (2).
