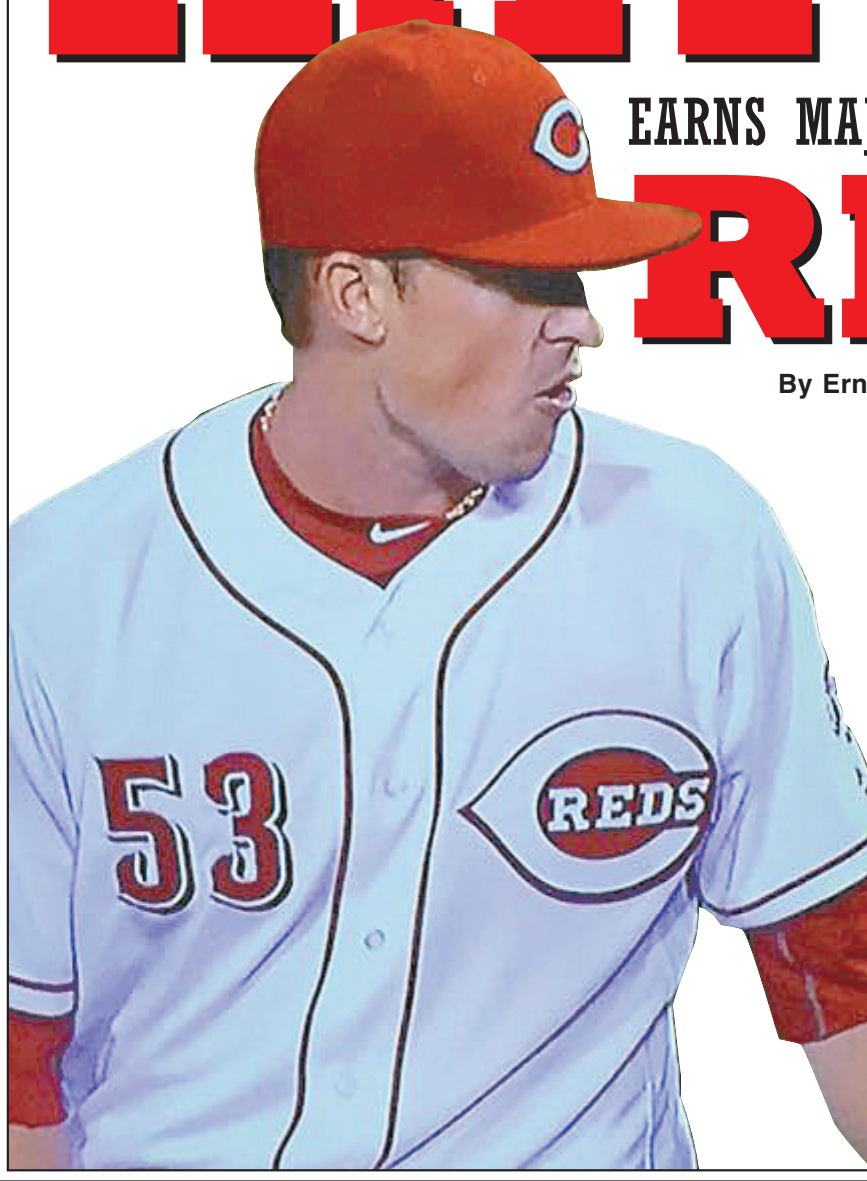
HAYES EARNS MAJOR LEAGUE NOD WITH REDS



By Ernie Smothers and Brad Sam

After six years of relentless striving in the Cincinnati Reds minor league baseball system, McKenzie native Drew Hayes received the long-awaited telephone call from Cincinnati Reds management informing him of his promotion to their major league roster on Tuesday.

Blessed with 92-95 mph fastball and moving slider, Hayes has the speed and versatility to significantly impact Reds' win opportunities in mid- to late-inning appearances. His excellent outings at the Reds' big league camp did not go unnoticed by Cincinnati skipper Bryan Price.

Regarding Drew's determined efforts, Price said, "If spring training was simply a blank canvas, he would have painted his way onto the ball club. But, Spring Training this year wasn't totally open tryouts. There are certain guys who are on the roster who are going to get first crack."

Guns On Campus Bill Headed to Governor

NASHVILLE — Legislation allowing employees of public higher education institutions to carry handguns has passed by the state House and Senate and headed to Governor Haslam.

Senate Bill 2376, sponsored by state Senator Mike Bell (R-9), and House Bill 1736, sponsored by state Representative Andy Holt (R-76) passed both chambers.

The bill allows employees of public higher education institutions who have a handgun permit will be authorized to carry a handgun on property owned, operated, or controlled by the institution that employs the employee. Any employee of a public higher education institution who elects to carry a handgun pursuant to this bill must provide written notification to the law enforcement agency with jurisdiction over the property owned, operated, or controlled by the employing institution. The employee's name and any other information that might identify the employee as a person who has elected to carry a handgun on institution grounds will be confidential. This amendment authorizes law enforcement agencies to develop and implement policies and procedures designed to implement the notification and confidentiality requirements of this amendment and a voluntary course or courses of special or supplemental firearm training to be offered to the employees electing to carry a handgun on the institution's grounds. Unless carrying a handgun is a requirement of the employee's job description, the carrying of a handgun pursuant to this bill is a personal choice of the employee and not a requirement of the employer. Consequently, an employee who carries a handgun on property owned, operated, or controlled by the public institution of higher education at which the employee is employed will be responsible for their own conduct and any damage that the employee causes. This amendment specifies certain locations and situations where an employee will not be permitted to carry a handgun.

The legislation does not affect private institutions such as Bethel University, Union University, Freed-Hardeman University, or Lane.

Town of Hollow Rock

Travel Trailer Issue Causes Problem at Meeting

By Shirley Nanney

HOLLOW ROCK (April 19) — What started out as a calm Hollow Rock Mayor and Board of Aldermen meeting turned into pandemonium when a citizen protested about having her photo taken by the media.

According to the night's agenda, Vickie Boyd and Roland Haaten, who reside at 95 Main Street, were there to ask about residing in a travel trailer on their property while their house is being remodeled.

Just as the two approached the conference table where the mayor and three aldermen were sitting, Carroll County News Leader editor Shirley Nanney made her way to the table and began making photos of Boyd and Haaten. However, Boyd suddenly yelled at Nanney to stop making her photo.

Neither Mayor Tim Runions nor town attorney Butch Maddox made an attempt to stop Nanney.

"It's a public meeting," said Nanney to Boyd who continued toward her and raised her hand in front of the camera, attempting to stop any more photos from being made.

At that time, Hollow Rock police officer Barry Larkins, who was in the room, made his way to the front and began escorting the still-protesting Boyd to the door.

Once outside, Boyd and Haaten drove away without further incident.

The town has an ordinance which says no house trailer, mobile home, or temporary structure of any type or character shall be parked or placed on land within the corporate limits unless it meets certain specifications and is approved by the aldermen. One citation had already been issued to the couple for this violation.

The attorney said later that Boyd could have been charged with disorderly conduct for her actions.

Another citizen, Kelly Hodge, who resides at 45 Kee St., attended the meeting seeking speed bumps for that street.

"I'm afraid that someone will pull out from the store to Kee St. and wind up in my living room. They come through there doing 60 miles an hour," he said. "The cops patrol it, but they can't be there all the time."

However, Maddox said there had been a lot of discussion about that issue lately due to the liability and the fact that speed bumps are not to be placed on public streets.

Alderman Bobby Brotherton, who is also the fire chief, was asked by the mayor about the recent accident at the fire station. A door on the fire station will have to be repaired after a fireman accidentally backed the truck into the door. The fire truck had returned to the fire station after assisting at a structure fire in Atwood on April 16 when the accident happened.

After discussion was held concerning the purchase of a dump truck for the town, the matter was tabled. Town employee Kenny Chandler is in need of one to haul brush.

Ashley Cook has one that he has offered to sell the town. Hodge also said he had connections and could possibly assist with getting one.

The Aldermen passed the second and final reading on Ordinance 2016-01 concerning the adoption of Title VI Compliance Manual to the town's codebook relative to the Civil Rights Act in order for the town to receive federal monies that are directed through the state.

Upon final approval the Title VI policy statement will say: "It is the policy of the Town of Hollow Rock to be an equal opportunity provider and to ensure that no citizen shall, on the grounds of race, color, or national origin, be excluded from participation in, be denied benefits of, or be subjected to discrimination under any programs or activity receiving federal financial assistance."

Town Recorder Pam Gallimore read a proclamation that declared May 1 – 7 as Hollow Rock's National Children's Mental Health Awareness Week. She said it was requested by Carey Counseling Center.

Aldermen Maria Crocker and Rob Woods were absent.

Hayes

He continued, "Drew was disappointed when he didn't make the club, but consider where he was a year ago. Here's a guy who was challenged to make a team out of spring training in 2015, and he's now in the big leagues in 2016 after a great spring training camp. I'm really excited for him. He's a good kid. He came up through the organization and has earned his right to be here."

A 2006 graduate of McKenzie High School, Hayes, the son of Glenn and Joyce Hayes of McKenzie, guided the Rebels to the TSSAA state baseball championship his senior year. After pitching one year at Bethel University, he captured the attention of major league scouts via his prolific, three-year pitching career at Southeastern Conference baseball powerhouse Vanderbilt University.

Drafted by the Reds in the 11th round of the MLB draft in June 2010, Hayes has spent all of his playing time progressively ascending through the Reds farm system via stints with numerous A and AA minor league ball teams.

In early 2015, the 6'1, 205-pound right-handed relief pitcher was called up from Double-A Pensacola to Triple-A Louisville. In 43 appearances with the Bats, he made the most of his promotion by posting an impressive 2.95 ERA.

Hayes appeared in three games for Louisville early in the 2016 season, going 1-0 with a 6.23 ERA and allowing three runs on one hit and five walks in 4 1/3 innings.

On Tuesday, struggling Reds pitcher Robert Stephenson was demoted to Louisville to make way for Hayes.

Wasting no time, the Reds called on Hayes to warm up in the ninth inning of the Reds' game against the Colorado Rockies Wednesday night before Cincinnati scored the winning run.

Hayes made his first Major League debut the following day as the Reds hosted the Chicago Cubs for a four-game set. Many in McKenzie watched the regionally-televised broadcast, and anticipation mounted on social media. The red-hot Cubs jumped on Cincinnati starter Brandon Finnegan early, and the hometown faithful watched from the edge of their seats for a call to the bullpen. When it finally came in the fifth inning, the call went to fellow rookie Tim Melville. Melville started out pitching well, but in his second inning of work was rocked for four runs on a pair of dingers.

Hayes got his turn to start the seventh, and retired David Ross on a groundout for the first out as the Reds announcers listed Drew's impressive resume of sports accomplishments. Then he made a mistake that no pitcher wants to commit, especially in your Major League debut, by walking pitcher Jake Arietta to bring up the top of the lineup. Dexter Fowler singled sharply to right on the first pitch, and Hayes walked Jason Heyward to load the bases.

The next batter was the reigning National League Rookie of the Year Kris Bryant, who already had two grand slams in his young career. Hayes started him with a good cutter, which Bryant fouled off. Next, another cutter and a curveball missed for a 2-1 count. The next cutter had a little bit off of it and Bryant smashed it over the centerfield wall.

Hayes showed composure, though, retiring the next two batters and earning a return in the eighth. He retired the side to complete his night with a line score of four earned runs on two hits and two walks in two innings with three strikeouts.

He would have to wait two days for another shot, but this one would come much earlier in the game. The Cubs were once again lighting up the Reds' starter, building an 8-0 lead in the third. Hayes entered with two on and two out, forcing a groundout to end the inning.

He would give up back-to-back singles to start the fourth, but after a quick pop fly out, Hayes induced an inning-ending double play. In the fifth, his first two pitches were popped up in the infield for easy outs. After a walk, he struck out pitcher Jason Hammel to end the inning.

In the sixth, Tommy La Stella led off with a home run, but Hayes allowed just one more hit (a double to Bryant) and escaped the inning having thrown just 13 pitches.

When he was replaced to start the seventh, the box score for his second appearance was one earned run on four hits with a walk and a strikeout.

The long appearance meant Drew also got to show off his skills with the bat. His first of two plate appearances resulted in a sacrifice bunt to move a runner into scoring position.

Hayes is likely to see innings in the Reds' series with the Mets in New York.

In a telephone interview with The Banner, the big leaguer reflected on the biggest week of his life as he took a Monday morning stroll through Central Park in his first-ever visit to the Big Apple.

"A Whirlwind. It's all gone by so fast," Hayes said, summing up his experience. On starting the year at Louisville, he said, "I was just thankful for the many opportunities the Reds provided me this spring training." He explained that because of that, he was encouraged that he would get his shot in the majors this season.

Tuesday night, at the stadium in Louisville, Hayes was called into the clubhouse and given the news. Bats manager Delino DeShields shook his hand and congratulated him. "It meant so much coming from him, because we've been together for a long time." DeShields has managed Hayes off and on from his first professional stint in Billings, Montana, as the two moved up the minor league ranks almost parallel. "He's been supportive of me 100 percent from the beginning."

It looked like Drew was going to get in the game in the tenth inning on Wednesday, but the Reds got the win on a hit by rookie Tucker Barnhart. Drew couldn't have been happier at his delayed debut, not just because his team got the win, but because his good friend and spring training roommate got the winning hit.

On the lead-up to his Thursday debut, Drew said he just stuck with his routine. "After a two or three innings, I got up and moved around, threw, stretched, really got locked in. It felt the same, not a lot of butterflies. I tried to make it not too exciting."

On his two big mistakes, he said, "Walking the pitcher is unacceptable... And then I was in a jam with Bryant, and he's gonna take advantage."

At that point, it looked like Hayes could be facing the kind of launch that has extinguished so many careers so quickly in Major League Baseball, but in his mind, "I had nowhere to go but up. I knew that what got me here is attacking the strike zone, so that's what I did. I never felt like it was unraveling. That's not how we do things in McKenzie."

As he continued, it was clear that his hometown pride is a well he can draw from no matter where he happens to be. "Mental toughness is something that I learned from my dad, from Coach [Wade] Comer, and from all of the other coaches I've had."

When his night on the mound was over, he asked, "How can I be better tomorrow?" He said he knew he would build on the confidence of bouncing back to retire five batters in a row after the grand slam. In that situation, trailing by a wide margin, Drew knew his role. "Eating innings is my job, and I showed I could do that."

And that's exactly what he did with his next opportunity.

He got to enjoy the experience much more on Sunday. "I really started to grasp what has happened over the weekend, between my appearances. I finally realized that it's not a dream that I'm going to wake up from."

The timing of his promotion was also hard to believe, as he was able to play host to numerous personal supporters at Cincinnati's Great American Ballpark. His mother and girlfriend were in attendance for the entire series, and his father was able to attend Thursday and Sunday to see both of his son's appearances. Drew also said that many friends and former teammates attended during the series.

"It was amazing to see how many people came up. Words can't describe how much it means to me. The only time I've gotten chills is from seeing the outpouring of support from the community. That's what makes it special to be from McKenzie, and I'm really thankful for that."

When asked what things he's looking forward to early in his big league tenure, his answer was notably grounded. "I'm looking forward to going to St. Louis. I've been there so much as a kid, I want to walk out onto the field as a player and look up to where my Dad and I were sitting when the Cardinals won it all in 2006."

On his role as a reliever and a possible move into a starting or closing position, he says he's "good either way."

"I've done multiple roles in the minors. I'm just excited to be here. I enjoy the competition."

Since his professional career started in 2010 in Billings, Drew says he's learned to throw the ball over the plate and have confidence. He had some doubts and some negativity over the years, but he says, "I know I've shown a lot in the past year. I'm gonna keep throwing strikes and see what happens."

said Barksdale, who noted he will miss the people.

The economic landscape is very competitive, said Barksdale. Almost monthly, the Industrial Board prepares packets of information for industrial prospects. Those prospects come from the state or other agencies and are presented as code names without knowing the real company or product. It is hard to attract industry to an area where there is no growth in the workforce. There has been no growth in the county for several years, said Barksdale.

Barksdale is a native of McKenzie and worked in various industries throughout his career. He worked as an executive in the cable industry prior to accepting the position with McKenzie Industrial Board.

He served on the Carroll County Commission and McKenzie City Council. He currently serves on the Carroll County Lake Regional Planning Commission and on various economic development boards.

The Readers Speak ...

I would never vote for a political party that agrees with the following...

I am imperfect! (In fact the chief of sinners) You are imperfect! Any political party, we could ever vote for would be imperfect.

However this being true, I would never vote for a political party...

Who ever voted that they did not want "any mention of God" whatsoever in their national convention platform.

Who supports the freedom of choice for a woman to have an abortion, the killing of millions of innocent unborn, and the murder of new born babies, plus the selling of baby parts.

Who totally disagrees with the Biblical view of marriage as being between one man and one woman.

Who accepts homosexuality as a normal lifestyle.

Who can never spend enough money, and seldom, if ever, monitors the results of the money spent.

Who believes to pull the "lower" financial class up, you must pull the "upper " financial class down.

Remember, it will soon be time to vote!

Sincerely yours,
Virgil Presley

State's Hall Income Tax To be Eliminated by 2021

In the waning minutes of the General Assembly, a bill was passed to reduce the Tennessee Hall Income Tax from the current rate of six percent to five percent, and eventually eliminate the entire tax by 2021.

The Hall tax applies to interest and dividend income received by people who maintain their legal residence in Tennessee, including part-year residents who live in the state at least six months of the year.

Dividends subject to the tax are dividends and capital gains distributions. Taxable forms of interest include interest on bonds issued by persons, corporations, churches, joint stock companies, business trusts.

The legislation reduces the Hall Tax rate from 6 percent to 5 percent in 2016 and declares the General Assembly's intent to continue reducing the tax by 1 percentage point per year until it is extinct in 2021. This would reduce state and local revenues by about $57 million in the first year and $341 million per year if full repeal happens.

Revenue from the Hall Tax funds many vital state services and are also shared with Tennessee counties and municipalities. Local governments, especially in areas of greater wealth and retirees, could lose all of their Hall Tax revenue, which is currently about $119 million annually and used to pay for city streets, local police officers, county roads, etc. Once that revenue disappears, lawmakers must decide how to fund those services.

The bill is headed to Governor Haslam's desk.

Hunker Down with Kes
You Can Take The Boy Out Of The Country

I leaned over a guardrail on the North Shore of Oahu, one of the major islands in the Hawaiian chain. This place was famous for the surfers roaring ashore on the booming waves. The sky was tall, blue and endless. The weather was perfect. The tropical setting was right out of a Hollywood movie script. It was truly the paradise I'd read about all my—

An unmistakable odor drifted up from the freshly mowed grass lining the highway. It smelled just like any one of a hundred hay fields back home! I reached over and pulled up a straggling stalk that somehow escaped the mower's blade. I was transported immediately five thousand miles...and fifty years away from this garden spot.

Sweat ran across my forehead and cascaded down my cheeks. Both arms started to itch. My eyes narrowed to ward off a relentless sun. An ache came alive in the lower part of my back. My fingers instinctively curled up. You wouldn't understand the drawn up hands unless you'd hoisted a few hundred "ninety pound bales" up on your knee and then "kicked" the load six rows up on a flatbedded wagon.

Archie Moore paid us a penny a bale for each one we collected in the outer fields and safely tucked into his ancient barn. He drove the wagon and counted each bale judiciously. He didn't seem to notice the sun, the scratchy hay, the dusty rows or the heat shimmering across the vast expanse of the "bottom forty".

Cathy pointed out a suntanned surfer riding the very crest of an endless wave. I didn't see him. I was knee deep in another type of wave—one that was also endless but with an amber glow. I'm telling you, Roy Manley had a hay field that stretched from the Como Road all the way to Tipperary! Getting those heavy bales off the ground and into the barn might not have been the hardest work I've ever done, but it definitely made the top three list!

"Why do we have to do this in August?" Ricky's face would turn beet red before we got to the end of the first line of bales.

"I reckon because the hay is ready."

"Naw, it's just God's way of punishing us for being poor."

"I've never heard Bro. Hatcher preach that sermon."

"Kesley," the grin was covering Yogi's face before he could get the rest out, "you've never heard Bro. Hatcher preach any sermon. You're too busy trying to get Ruth Ann to notice you!"

The talk was as endless as the fields. The banter came free and easy with one liners worthy of Henny Youngman or Jack Benny. You'd think the whole group of us about half crazy how we laughed our way through bale after bale after bale...

Cathy started back to the rented car, "Honey, let's ride down to the beach and get a closer look."

I couldn't move.

One summer Dwayne Melton came up with this conveyer belt to transport his bales from the wagon up to the hay loft. We'd never seen anything like it! Of course, as soon as Mr. Melton turned his back, we jumped on that thing and rode to the top. Then we'd swing back down and ride it back up! We'd throw the light guys on it. And fight to see who got to "unload at the top".

Chick King's hay field was on the side of a hill. We experimented with flipping the bales down to the wagon. Once, when a wheel bearing overheated and operations ceased while Mr. King went for the grease we talked about distant places we hoped to visit some day. Mostly we figured we might could get all the way to Memphis. Larry talked a lot about Florida. Yogi was big on California... but we all knew that was out of the question.

They wouldn't believe where I was now even if they were standing right beside me!

In the early days we'd take the money we'd earned and go to the Park Theatre. That silver screen took us down to Mexico with Yul Brynner, Steve McQueen and Charles Bronson. We all became gladiators in ancient Rome and fought beside Kirk Douglas. And I won't take a shower in a motel today for fear that "Psycho" guy might own the place.

Later, as we moved into high school, I used my hay money to buy Levi jeans and treat Ruth Ann to a chocolate shake out at Frank's Dairy Bar. Terry Brown bought his first car with a down payment he'd earned mostly in the hay fields.

"Kesley, are you going to stand on this hillside all day or are we going to see a little of Hawaii!"

"What was the name of that movie from the early sixties where Paul Newman played the pool shark? It had Jackie Gleason in it..."

Respectfully,
Kes

Symbology By Clayburn Peeples

What with all the controversy and news coverage over our state legislature's unsuccessful attempt to name the Bible as Tennessee's official state book, you may have missed the news about the new state symbol they did manage to designate, our brand-new official state rifle, the Barrett model M 82/M107.

Never heard of it? It's a recoil operated, 50 caliber, semi-automatic rifle developed by a Tennessean and made right here in the state. Adopted by our armed forces, it is used by military snipers, and it is said to be one of the most powerful rifles in America.

Still, naming a "state rifle" raised some eyebrows, even though six other states have also named official state firearms of one sort or another. And undoubtedly, more will follow.

Because every state has an ever growing assortment of official state symbols, mottos and slogans. Nevertheless, you'd be extremely hard pressed to find a state with more, or more unusual, symbols then our own Tennessee. We even have an official state symbol. Wrap your mind around that.

This state symbol stuff started in 1801. That's when our official state seal, our oldest symbol, was designed and adopted.

During the rest of the 19th century that was the only state symbol we needed, but as we entered the 20th century, our legislature, like those in other states, began to designate various state flags, birds, trees and songs and such as official state symbols.

We started out slowly here in Tennessee. In 1905 we got our official state flag, although it was years and years before anyone paid any attention to it.

Then came the state flower, in 1919, the passion flower, or maypop. (In 1973 its designation was changed to "official state wildflower.) Six years later, in 1925, came the first of our dozen or so official state songs.

Then, in 1933, the iris was also named an official state flower, and the mockingbird was named our official state bird. Twelve years later, the legislature gave us an official state tree, the tulip poplar.

And that's pretty much all we had until the early 1970s. That's when the sluicegates of silliness were thrown open, and we saw the beginning of an endless progression of state symbols, the proliferation of which hasn't let up yet.

We now have four different official insects. (the firefly, the seven-spotted ladybug, the European honey bee and the zebra swallowtail, our official state butterfly) In addition to the tulip poplar, we also have another state tree, our official evergreen tree, the eastern red cedar.

Not surprisingly, our official state horse is the Tennessee walking horse, and our official state dance is the square dance.

We've recently added another official state wild flower, the Tennessee Echinacea, and a state wild animal, the raccoon. Our state reptile is the Eastern box turtle, and our amphibian is the Tennessee cave salamander.

We have a state rock, a state mineral and a state gem. (limestone, agate and the Tennessee pearl) We also have a state game bird, the bobwhite. To go along with the state game bird, of course, we have a state sport fish, the largemouth bass, and a state commercial fish, the channel catfish, as well. Shucks, we even have an official state fossil.

But before we criticize our legislature's profligate proliferation of state symbols, we should also acknowledge that just about every other state legislature is doing the same thing; a sort of chain reaction seems to set in. One state names an official muffin, for example, and the next year five other states follow suit, followed within a decade by just about every other state in the union.

And there are plenty of categories ripe for symbolism that our legislature hasn't addressed yet.

We don't have, for example, a state dessert. Several of our neighboring states do. Missouri, for example, has the ice cream cone as its official state dessert.

How about an official state snack? Utah's is Jell-O. Nebraska named Kool-Aid its official soft drink.

Vermont has an official state flavor – maple. Maryland has an official state exercise – walking, and Mississippi has an official state toy – the teddy bear.

Food figures in some of the more bizarre state symbols. Louisiana, for example, has an official state doughnut, the beignet, of course. Oklahoma has an entire official state meal. Get this; it's fried okra, squash, cornbread, barbecued pork, biscuits, sausage and gravy, grits, corn, chicken-fried steak, black-eyed peas, strawberries and pecan pie. What's for dinner grandpa? Sounds like they were trying to appease every food producer in the state with that one.

Some states even have official state sports, everything from jousting to dog mushing to pack burro racing. Tennessee, surprisingly, has not named an official state sport yet, and perhaps even more surprisingly, as someone reminded me yesterday, no one has yet proposed that Peyton Manning be named Tennessee's official state football player.

But there's always next year, and if they do, just remember; you read it here first.

Carroll County Receives Rebuild Tennessee Award

MURFREESBORO (April 8, 2016) — Carroll County has received the "John S. Wilder Rebuild Tennessee" Award from the Tennessee Development District Association (TDDA). Carroll County was recognized for the Carl Perkins Center for the Prevention of Child Abuse Carroll County Child Advocacy Center/ The Kenny McBride Building. The award was made during the TDDA Annual Conference held on March 29, 2016, at the Embassy Suites in Murfreesboro.

The government of Carroll County and the Wright Foundation provided funding to assist in the purchase a new, larger, and modern facility to house the Carl Perkins Center for the Prevention of Child Abuse. With the purchase of the $330,000 building, located at 50 Stonebridge Cove, Huntingdon, the center was able to expand and offer additional services for children and their families. It is now an advocacy center, and serves Carroll, Henry and Benton counties in that capacity.

Carroll County Mayor Kenny McBride and Tee-Jay Gildwell, both from the county, traveled to Murfreesboro to receive the award.

The TDDA is an association of Tennessee's nine development districts, which are regional planning and economic development organizations. These policy boards within each District are made up of the state's 95 counties and 340 municipalities. Development districts assist with regional issues including planning and economic development coordination, transportation, solid waste, loans and grants for critical infrastructure such as water and sewer systems, housing, tourism, economic development loans, environmental quality and natural resources planning and services to the elderly.

"These awards are given on the basis of nominations from each of the nine development districts and are presented to those local governments and other agencies for special contributions to the improvement of infrastructure and /or the quality of life for their citizens. Carroll County was able to acquire, renovate, and put into use a first class center offering various services for a three county area that includes Henry and Benton as well as Carroll. The county has demonstrated leadership and vision meeting the future needs of these vital services," said John Bucy, Executive Director of the Northwest Tennessee Development District.

"The Rebuild Tennessee Awards highlight and recognize projects from across the State of Tennessee that has had a significant impact on the jurisdictions in which they are located. We appreciate the effort that the county has made to upgrade the local ability to provide needed services and it is only fitting that they be recognized for their leadership and vision, said Richard Driver, TDDA president and Lafayette City mayor."

Morning Glory Garden Club Spring Luncheon

The Morning Glory Garden Club held its annual Spring Luncheon at the beautifully decorated home of Mrs. Joan Gibson with seventeen members present. Additional hostesses were Robbie Barker, Lucille Russell, Lois Brazie, Donna Pruneau, Debbie Riley and Julia Winters. The theme for the luncheon was Japanese and was enhanced by the décor of the home which is also Japanese. The tables were beautifully decorated with flowers, Japanese vases, and small gazebos. Inside each pagoda was a black place card containing each member's name written in gold ink. A delicious lunch of tossed salad, French cut green beans, and chicken casserole with chocolate pecan pie for dessert (catered by Pat Wright of Huntingdon) was served to each member by the hostesses. Everyone enjoyed the luncheon and a good time was had by all. Member who couldn't attend were Olive Austin, Donna Pruneau (who was having eye surgery), and Debbie Riley (whose husband is in the Jackson Madison County Hospital) and Angela Hugueley (whose mother is ill).

After the luncheon, President Gena Manner called the meeting to order and thanked the hostesses for the wonderful job of preparing for the luncheon. Members then stood and recited the club's Collect and said the "Pledge of Allegiance. Following roll call and a reading of the March minutes (which were approved as read), Treasurer Betty Brown reported the club's balance. Corresponding Secretary Lucille Russell stated that she had written a note to Mayor Jill Holland thanking her for her efforts involving the theater. Gena reported that Jill had called her and expressed her thanks for the note and the club's support. Members then sang Happy Birthday to Diane Harvey whose birthday is April 7.

The meeting continued with a report from each of the committees beginning with the Civic and Conservation Committee. Items discussed included planting geraniums in Veterans Park in May, the butterfly garden at the elementary school, and a side trip to Oak Manor after the meeting to determine what types of plants would be needed around the little pond this year. A Flame Maple from Wafford's Nursery was planted on Arbor Day and Gena will be in charge of obtaining the geraniums for Veterans Park.

Sunshine chair Robbie Barker will be sending cards to Donna Pruneau and Debbie Riley. None were sent last month. Gena then thanked Lois Brazie for telephoning members as needed and Zia Locke for the publicity. Historian Diane Stafford is compiling items for the club's scrapbook and photographer Julia Winters is providing pictures of club events for the scrapbook.

Diane Stafford reported that Group II chose the Mt. Olivet Cemetery to be the recipient of the club's April Yard of the Month award. Group III is responsible for choosing the May Yard of the Month award.

There was no old business to be considered and under new business, the Tennessee Federation of Garden Clubs have endorsed the "Keep Tennessee Beautiful" project and has asked all clubs to plant trees to keep Tennessee green. Gena has represented Carroll Country in the "Keep Tennessee Beautiful" program for several years. She will turn in a report on our Arbor Day planting at the TFGC convention next week. She also reminded all members that when we are doing anything as a group, we should always wear our shirts, and she gave shirts to new members Judy Davis, Donna Hodge and Julia Winters.

Gena and Betty then presented the club's 2016-2017 budget to members for their approval. A motion was made by Lois Brazie that the budget be accepted, seconded by Sara Fitzgerald and the motion carried.

Several members brought horticulture to the luncheon. Among those were Gena Manner, Sara Fitzgerald, Sandi McMahen, Donna Hodge, and Julia Winters.

Before adjourning, Gena handed out the new yearbooks, asked everyone to check their names, addresses and phone numbers for accuracy. The May meeting will be held at the home of Sally Sutton with Judy Davis serving as co-hostess. Anne Dinkins will present a program on Pollinators and has asked a local beekeeper to be the guest speaker. The meeting then adjourned with members reciting the club benediction.

Bethel University Commencement is Saturday, May 7

McKENZIE — Bethel University's Spring 2016 Commencement is Saturday, May 7. Those receiving undergraduate degrees will take part in a 10 a.m., ceremony, and those receiving graduate degrees will take part in a 1 p.m. ceremony. Both events will take place in the Rosemary and Harry Crisp II Arena at 101 Wildcat Lane on the school's McKenzie campus.

Dr. Maribeth S. McGuire is the commencement speaker. McGuire retired as Bethel College academic dean in 2005, bringing to a close almost 40 years as a teacher and administrator. McGuire came to Bethel in 1985 as a teacher in the English department, where she remained for 13 years. During that time she served as faculty moderator and as head of her academic division. Huntingdon Schools to Implement New Technology

Courtesy of the Carroll County News-Leader

Huntingdon Special School District is moving forward with the goal of obtaining one to one computer devices for students in third through twelfth grades.

Director of Schools Pat Dillahunty told board members at the Thursday night meeting that she and the principals from the primary, middle and high schools have been getting together and planning the implementation of this type of technology. Currently a vendor is being sought to provide the devices.

Dillahunty said by June or July the plan should be worked out and ready for a vote by the board.

In July, technology training will be the focus of staff development.

"That's going to be our focus this summer for grades 3 – 12," said Dillahunty. "We've been looking at it and have decided that it's time to go with it."

Board chairman Lee Carter said he specifically appreciated the work of state Sen. John Stevens and state Rep. Curtis Halford for their assistance in resolving a tax issue that will allow this purchase to take place.

"Because of their efforts we were able to move forward with this," said Carter.

Several technology policies will have to be worked out such as whether or not the students will be allowed to take the devices home, etc.

School board members felt that probably a person that had expertise in technology would be a benefit to the school system when the devices were ready for use.

"Every teacher can have this technology person when they're not sure how to download a lesson plan or transfer information," said board member Tim Tucker.

"It's too important not to have such a person," said Dillahunty. "A lot of schools have a technology supervisors."

In other business:

The board acknowledged the resignation of Jill Bonds, High School Band Director and the employment of Lucas Dill, Special Education Teacher at the Middle School.

Summer Tippitt and Jeaneen Blakeman were approved to use the Primary School during the month of June for Super Summer Science.

The board voted to continue the school's open enrollment policy and to continue its membership in the Tennessee School Boards Association.

The board approved offering Math and English Language Arts RTI classes at the high school.

The board also authorized the establishment of a system administration position pending need and funding.

Graduation is Sunday, May 15, 2:00 p.m. at Huntingdon High School.

'Smitty' Carter Remembered by Lions

The McKenzie Lions Club recently honored the memory and longtime service of former secretary Herman "Smitty" Carter with a $500 contribution to the Lions Mobile Sight Service Van and through the presentation of a memorial Proclamation by State Representative Andy Holt.

Due to prior attendance requirements in Nashville, Rep. Holt brought the Carter Proclamation early on the morning of the Lions regular Monday noon meeting. He presented the Proclamation to Will Rommell, Lions President, and Bob Rutledge, Secretary. At the noon meeting, Smitty Carter's family, including wife Shirley and daughter Angie Bruce, attended and were presented with the original Proclamation. A copy of the Proclamation was kept by the club and will be framed and hung in the Lions meeting room at the Lakeside Retirement Center. Vice-District Govenor Lisa Vinson, of the Bradford Lions Club, and a close friend of Smitty Carter, attended the day's presentation on behalf of other area clubs.

Other individuals in the local Lions Club have and will make additional memorial contributions to the Mobile Sight Service Van, as it was a favorite one of Mr. Carter. As Lions president Will Rommell commented, "We are honored to recognize the dedication and hard work of Smitty Carter with these monetary gifts and we thank Rep. Andy Holt for his help with this thoughtful Proclamation in Smitty Carter's memory and honor."

Carroll County Library Lines

By Nikki Cunningham

The Carroll County Library had a dino-mite week starting with our dinosaur-themed Tot Time. Twenty children, ages 5 months to 4 years, came out and enjoyed singing, reading, and digging for dinos in our sand sensory bins. The Library offers Tot Time every Wednesday at 10:30 a.m. During this week's Tot Time, our little ones will be exploring space! We also had our monthly Family Movie Night on Friday featuring The Good Dinosaur; close to 40 members of the community came out to enjoy popcorn, refreshments, and this heart wrenching movie. Typically the Library offers Family Movie Night monthly; however starting on May 26th the Library will be showing movies every Thursday at 6:00 p.m. as part of our Summer Reading Program. The Library kept with the dinosaur theme this past Saturday during our monthly Saturday Story Hour as we read The Good Dinosaur's A Friend in the Wild and practiced drawing our own dinosaurs.

The Carroll County Library is getting ready to reveal a new Teen Center. We will be having a ribbon-cutting ceremony on May 9th at 6:00 p.m. Join us at the library to show your support for our local teens and enjoy refreshments. The Library appreciates The Modern Woodmen of America and Natalie Jordan for their support of our new Teen Center. The Teen Center will allow teens in the community to have their own space to relax, read, and socialize. Our Teen Advisory Board members have worked hard developing ideas for the Teen Center and recommending Young Adult materials for the Library. If your teen would like to earn volunteer hours while making a difference in the community, our Teen Advisory Board is open for new members. The TAB meetings are the first Monday of the month at 5 p.m.

Our teen book club, The Raucous Readers, meets Thursday, May 26th at 6:00 p.m. and will be discussing Pride and Prejudice and Zombies. Copies of this title are available for pickup at the front desk.

The Library appreciates Katie Dicus for donations made.

McKenzie Police Department Reports

Driving on suspended / revoked license / habitual motor vehicle offender / drug paraphernalia-According to a report filed by MPD patrolman Mark Boaz, on April 24 at approximately 4:10 a.m., the officer was sitting in his patrol car on Highway 79 south of the overpass bridge running radar when he observed a 2017 Chrysler 200 approaching with only one headlight. Stopping the vehicle on Eastwood Drive, the officer asked the driver, identified as Ricky D. Marby, 34, East End Drive, Brownsville, for his driver license. At that time, the driver informed the officer that he did not have his license because they were suspended. Calling for backup, the officer received verification of Marby's license being suspended for revoked #4 and habitual motor vehicle offender violations. After placing the suspect under arrest, the officer explained to Mabry that his vehicle would be impounded and contents inside the vehicle would have to be inventoried. During the search, a small vinyl zip case with a disassembled ball point pen was discovered with white residue on the end. Mabry then told the officer that the object was used for meth consumption. Another red box was found containing glass and metal pipes, and a small glass bowl. At that time, the officer took Mabry to Carroll County Jail while the vehicle was towed from the scene by D&D Wrecker Service of McKenzie.

Criminal trespass / disorderly conduct-According to a report filed by MPD Sergeant Trey Boucher, Eddie T. Givens, Florida Court, McKenzie, stated that on April 23 at around 8:41 p.m., Jonathan S. Norden, 38, Florida Court, McKenzie, entered his yard and began yelling and cursing at him and followed him to the back steps of his residence. Givens said he then asked Norden to leave his property several times, at which time Norden refused to comply. The report noted that Givens stated that Norden had been asked not to enter the yards several times in the past. Norden admitted to the officer that he did enter Givens' yard but only to ask him to turn the noise emanating from Given's property. Norden was then cited into Carroll County General Sessions Court for the listed offenses.

Theft-According to a report filed by MPD patrolman Billy King, on April 22, the officer responded to a theft call at the Shell Fuel Station. Upon arrival, Shell Store manager Thomas Keenan said that someone had pumped $28 in gas into a vehicle before driving away towards Highway 22 without paying. Keenan stated that he believed the same person had stolen $25.32 in gas from the store on April 18, 2016, and $35.77 on April 1. The report noted that review of store video did not supply sufficient view of the suspect for identification. The report further noted that the thefts on April 1 and 18 had not been reported prior by the store.

Domestic assault-According to a report filed by MPD patrolman Kyle Beauchamp, on April 22 Joe Parenti, Clark Street, McKenzie came to MPD to report that his girlfriend, identified as Wanda C. Rainey, 47, North Stonewall Street, McKenzie, had assaulted him around 5:30 p.m. Parenti informed the officer that he had purchased a computer for Rainey's upcoming birthday but decided that he wanted the computer back after arguing with Rainey about her life choices. After retrieving the computer, Parenti said Rainey allegedly became angry and struck him with her open hand twice on the left side of her face. The officer observed red marks from Parenti's upper jaw beneath his eye to his lower jaw near his lip. The case remains open.

Gasoline Prices Rise

Average retail gasoline prices in Tennessee have risen 2.6 cents per gallon in the past week, averaging $1.95/g yesterday, according to GasBuddy's daily survey of 3,821 gas outlets in Tennessee. This compares with the national average that has increased 2.4 cents per gallon in the last week to $2.14/g, according to gasoline price website GasBuddy.com.

Including the change in gas prices in Tennessee during the past week, prices yesterday were 36.8 cents per gallon lower than the same day one year ago and are 5.6 cents per gallon higher than a month ago. The national average has increased 10.7 cents per gallon during the last month and stands 38.8 cents per gallon lower than this day one year ago.

According to GasBuddy historical data, gasoline prices on April 25 in Tennessee have ranged widely over the last five years: $2.31/g in 2015, $3.52/g in 2014, $3.26/g in 2013, $3.69/g in 2012 and $3.66/g in 2011.

Areas nearby Tennessee and their current gas price climate:

Chattanooga- $1.92/g, up 2.2 cents per gallon from last week's $1.90/g.

Nashville- $1.96/g, up 1.6 cents per gallon from last week's $1.94/g.

Huntsville- $1.92/g, up 1.4 cents per gallon from last week's $1.90/g.

"The oil markets this past week shrugged off OPEC's inability to reach an agreement for production freezes at the highly-touted meeting in Doha, Qatar. West Texas Intermediate crude futures responded to a brighter demand picture that perked prices up to $43.73 per barrel for Friday's close. Leading the demand surge has been gasoline, where the Energy Information Administration (EIA) shows year-to-date demand to be up 3.4% from last year and up 7.4% from 2014 according to their 'product supplied' demand indicator," said Will Speer, a Houston-based senior petroleum analyst for GasBuddy.

"Unsurprisingly, this has impacted retail gasoline prices, causing 43 of the 50 states to raise prices from a week ago. Low prices have ignited the early demand surge this year, and the surge is expected to continue into the summer, where demand hits its peak for the year," Speer added.

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!
