Fire at Noranda Quickly Extinguished

A fire at Noranda on Saturday night was quickly extinguished by the Huntingdon Fire and Rescue.

According to a press release by Walter Smothers, director of Public Safety, fire crews were called to the 400 Bill Brooks Drive location in Huntingdon at approximately 10:30 p.m. on Saturday, April 30. The company is an aluminum rolling company that operates around the clock.

Upon arrival they found the roof of the north east house to be on fire. The Huntingdon Ladder 1 truck was used to quickly extinguish the fire. Without the ladder truck it would have taken much longer to extinguish the fire which would have increased the potential risk of losing the building. Also responding to the fire was Engine 1, Engine 4, Engine 5 and 25 members of the Huntingdon Fire and Rescue. The cost of the damage is unknown at this time.

Putman Celebrates Fifty Years in the Postal Service

MCKENZIE (April 29) — As the early morning sun gleamed through the trees onto the parking lot of the McKenzie Postal Facility, Jimmy Putnam was inside the post office busy doing what he's done for the last fifty years-sorting the mail for his daily route through town.

Smiling as he tended to his job, Putman commented on his fifty-year milestone of service with the postal system.

He said, "First and foremost, I want to give all glory and credit for all things to my Lord and savior, Jesus Christ. God has provided me with the wisdom and desire to keep healthy so that I can continue to do the things that I enjoy. The key to good health is to maintain a proper diet and utilize the natural benefits found in apple cider vinegar and baking soda. They may not taste so great, but they do wonders for the body and mind and reduce blood pressure and blood sugar. I also attest my health to never drinking alcohol or smoking cigarettes. Faith in God, common sense, and staying active-those are my secrets to good health."

Born and raised in McKenzie, Putman said that he began his postal career in Memphis in 1966.

He said, "I moved to Memphis and worked for the postal service there through 1968 before transferring to McKenzie in 1969. You see, I grew up in McKenzie. I played football here and graduated high school here. I just wanted to come home so that I could be with my family and friends. I'm glad I moved back."

Rezoning Request Delayed

McKenzie Municipal-Regional Planning Commission met Wednesday, April 27 to hear a rezoning request for the former Southern Biological building on Euclid Avenue. It is now owned by D&M Enterprises.

The owner wants to convert the two-story building to residential units. However, no representative attended the meeting and the request was placed on hold to a later meeting.

Mayor: Jill Holland gave the following updates:

After numerous attempts to get action out of Family Dollar, including a promise to be ready in twenty days about a month ago, the city will send a letter with photos to the CEO of Family Dollar. The unfinished new building is located at the intersection of Oak Street and U.S. 79.

Jose Becerra has accrued from $21,000 to $64,000 in unpaid penalties for not meeting several deadlines regarding the Impressions building at 23 Broadway Street. The City of McKenzie will submit his case to Chancery Court with a recommendation to attach his wages.

We will send another note to the owner(s) who have not yet cleared the trailers from a defunct trailer court on West Magnolia Avenue.

A letter to be sent to Linda Lewis, owner of the Forrest Street property. This property has been noncompliant for many years.

Carroll County Electric Board

GPS Service Mapping Underway

By Ernie Smothers
smothers@mckenziebanner.com

HUNTINGDON (April 28) — During the regular monthly meeting of the Carroll County Electrical Board, Utility General Manager Danny Brawner informed board members that the new UtiliTrak GPS mapping system purchased by the board was being utilized.

He said, "One of our employees from the McKenzie crew, Mike Conley, is working with Sam Owen to map the system. They started working from the South Substation and are now on Connie Allen Road in McKenzie. Mike is 60 now, and once he completes the mapping process, he will be close to retiring. He is doing an excellent job, and will be doing the mapping process pretty soon all by himself."

Brawner said that the two Ford F-150 service pickup trucks the utility ordered last year arrived this week.

He said, "It has been a very long process, but the trucks are finally in and being prepped for service."

Brawner informed board members that Noranda had paid the utility in full.

He said, "Things seem to be rolling smoothly for Noranda, but we are not sure how things are going relative to the sale of the business."

At the request of the Carroll County Chamber of Commerce and recommendation of Brawner, board members approved a $100 hole sponsorship for the upcoming Chamber Golf Tournament.

Brawner informed the board that all preparations were in place for the annual West Tennessee Public Utility-Carroll County Electrical Department joint picnic on Saturday, April 30.

In final business, the board approved vouchers for March, 2016, and set the next board meeting date for Thursday, May 26 at 2:30 p.m.

TNReady Canceled in Grades 3-8

By Brad Sam
brad@mckenziebanner.com

Tennessee students in grades 3-8 will not be taking the TN-Ready assessment tests originally planned for this spring.

In February, it was announced that, due to the failure of the online testing platform, the tests would be administered with pencil and paper for the remainder of the year.

After more delays with the delivery of materials by Measurement Incorporated, the company contracted by the state to produce the test, on Friday, April 22, the Tennessee Department of Education announced that it would not delay testing any further if the company did not meet its next deadline.

Then, last week, the McKenzie Special School District and other districts throughout the state released statements informing the public that the TDOE had terminated its contract with Measurement Incorporated.

McKenzie's statement went on to explain, "The termination of this contract means that our system will not receive the materials necessary to administer our mandated TNReady assessment. It also means that there is no contract in place to score already received materials. Commissioner McQueen informed directors that administering already received portions of the test is now optional. McKenzie Special School District will not administer the TNReady assessment in grades 3-8. The TDOE has committed to a procurement process that would contract with a company to grade TNReady at the high school level. All high school assessments will continue as scheduled."

High school assessments will be scored and returned by the fall.

Testing in grades K-2 has gone according to plan, with paper tests, and continue into this week.

In an interview with The Banner, MSSD Director of Schools Lynn Watkins spoke about how these developments have affected the schools. "Obviously, for those of us who like student data, [testing] is an unbiased way that we can know how our kids are learning, and how it compares to other systems. Our teachers like to see how we did, especially with the new teacher assessments. But really, it won't change what we do. We're still teaching and they're still learning."

He noted that the sudden change in schedule has given teachers and students an opportunity to do some interesting things.

He added that it's "frustrating that with the millions of dollars invested, we won't have the assessment. We're not afraid of testing around here."

But ultimately, he concluded, "It's out of our control."

Left, Huntingdon police officer Randy Kelley, who donated the K-9 drug dog, to Huntingdon, poses with Missy. Huntingdon Budget Revenue Shortfall Issue Resolved

Mayor Dale Kelley told council members at the April 26 meeting that a budget revenue shortfall issue last year in calculating the certified property tax rates for the county of Carroll, the Town of Huntingdon and Huntingdon Special School District has been resolved.

The money won't be received until the 2016-2017 budget.

The matter arose when properties of a local manufacturer was incorrectly reappraised, resulting in the state Comptroller's Office issuing new certified tax rates that did not accurately reflect what local governmental entities should receive in tax revenue for the 2015-2016 budget year. This caused shortfalls in the three budgets after the state Division of Property Assessment did not catch the errors.

The county's revenue shortfall was $355,912.97 while the school district's was $257,074.87 and Huntingdon's amount was $237,311.

Kelley, County Mayor Kenny McBride and Huntingdon Special School District director of schools Pat Dillahunt met with state officials and local legislators, House member Curtis Halford and state Sen. John Stevens about the situation.

The mayor also presented an update on the audit for the 2014-15.

He said currently the General Fund has an increase in the fund balance, which stands at $390,764 for the 2014-2015 budget year.

"The increase is due to a $200,000 note at year-end construction of the new City Hall where most of that balance was not expensed at year-end," said Kelley. "The year-end budget also reflected an increase of sales tax revenues for 2015."

Other items that increased the fund balance included a police vehicle and leaf machine that were ordered prior to the year-end, but were received after the allowable 60-day period after the close of the 2015 fiscal year, and was not allowed as a 2015 expenditure.

The 2016 budget will be amended to reflect the expense for the purchase of the vehicle and leaf machine. These items will be paid from the reserves that were increased in the 2015 year end.

Council members accepted the 2015 audit report that had no adverse findings.

The mayor noted that the state comptroller's office had notified the town of the good news. He said there have been no findings in several years, which is a reflection of the excellent job that town recorder Martha Taylor and staff do in complying with state regulations.

Council member Nina Smothers, who is the director of pharmacy at Baptist Memorial Hospital, questioned Public Safety Director Walter Smothers if there were hospital signs at each entrance of the town. Smothers said there should be but that he would make sure.

Nina Smothers said it would be good to mark the route to the hospital.

She also thanked the mayor and town staff for filing for and receiving a $30,000 grant for a walking trail around the hospital property.

"The town will supply the labor and work will begin in the spring of 2017," she said. "It will be one-half mile long and six-foot wide and built of asphalt."

The rules were suspended in order to add a newly acquired drug dog to the town's insurance.

Walter Smothers told the council that the town has expanded its K-9 program recently. Police officer Randy Kelley offered the seven-year-old dog, named Missy to the Police Department. Kelley had served as a K-9 officer with the town of Bruceton and had been given the dog, a Belgium Malinois, after the town decided to discontinue with the drug dog. Kelley will continue as the dog's handler.

"It's a big gift," said Smothers. "We won't have to buy one."

The town already has one K-9, Titus that is handled by officer Preston Riley.

At the close of the meeting, the mayor presented Carroll County News-Leader editor Shirley Nanney a plaque in conjunction with her recent honor of being named as one of Jackson Business and Professional Women's Club's Sterling Award winners.

Nanney said she appreciated being recognized by the mayor and council, and their giving her so many positive and progressive projects to write about.

"The citizens of Huntingdon should be proud of your efforts to always move the town forward," she said.

She added that she felt it was a thoughtful gesture on the part of the mayor and council to recognize people who have made a difference and achieve career goals in life.

County to Make Appointments

Carroll County commissioners have one resolution to address in the May 9 meeting. The resolution calls for the appointment of John Mann, Ronnie Murphy, and John Wright-CPA to the Carroll County Audit Committee with a term ending March 31, 2016. The committee meets once annually to review the state audit. The commission will also elect notaries public and consider approval of the Carroll County Indigent Care Fund quarterly report. That report indicates a balance of $3,191,223.40, which is established to pay a portion of the indigent residents' medical bills. During the Resolutions Committee on Monday, May 2, Carroll County Mayor Kenny McBride said the county will receive tax revenues that were incorrectly identified by the state during last year's reappraisal. Due to the mistake, the three taxing entities of Carroll County was short property tax revenues of $355,912.97, the Huntingdon Special School District was $257,074.87 and the Town of Huntingdon's amount was $237,311. All three entities will be made whole thanks to an agreement with the state of Tennessee to replenish the tax revenues. McBride said State Senator John Stevens and State Representative Curtis Halford worked on behalf of the county and local taxing entities to recover the funds. Those funds will be paid in the 2016-17 fiscal year.

his job would be a tremendous understatement.

On September 30, 2014 as family members, postal officials, and fellow postal employees looked on, then-McKenzie Postmaster Darren Riggs presented Putman with a plaque commemorating the dedicated postman's accumulating 5,000 hours of sick leave.

Addressing family members Joanne Putman (wife), Leslie Putman (brother), Tommy Putman (brother) and wife, Martha, and Betty Highfil (sister) and fellow postal employees that day, Riggs said, "We are here to celebrate a work-related milestone that is unheard of. It certainly has to be some sort of record. In his 49 years of postal service, Jimmy Putman has never taken a single hour of sick leave. That is, quite simply, amazing. Your dedication and commitment to report to work as scheduled is outstanding. You have set the bar at the highest level and your work ethic is second to none. Thank you!"

Driving Force As his fellow employees traveled back and forth around his sorting station, Putman said, "Honestly, I could retire and make more money, but I would rather be around my people—that is what keeps me going. I love the people on my mail route. Some of them are all alone, and I am thankful to be able to spend time with them. They matter to me. If I retired, I would probably never see those good people again."

Pausing, he said, "Times have not always been easy, though. I lost my 38-year-old daughter in 2009, and that was a very tough time for me and my family. That kind of loss hurts deep inside, and it stays with you. But the Lord has given me the strength to weather that storm and continue on. Faith got me through that, and keeps me going each and every day."

Smiling, he concluded, "I just want to tell people to hold on to their faith in the Lord and to choose to do His will. He will bless you if you do. He has certainly blessed me, and I am thankful to still be on the job and enjoying my life. I am very grateful."

OPINION

The NeverEnding Story

By Clayburn Peeples

Whether he is your favorite candidate for president or not, you'd probably have to grudgingly give Donald Trump at least one title – "King of Insults." He seems to delight in coming up with derisive names for just about every one of his opponents: "Lyn Ted," "Little Marco," "One for 48," (John Kasich) and "Crooked Hilary" being just a few of his recent jabs.

But just when we were about to crown Trump as the absolute king of invective, up pops recently retired Speaker of the House John Boehner, who, amazingly, out Trumped Trump in the vicious characterization department.

When Boehner was asked a question about Republican presidential candidate Ted Cruz, he replied as follows: "I have never worked with a more miserable son of a b---- in my life." But the recently retired speaker didn't stop there. He went on to refer to Cruz as "Lucifer in the flesh."

And as for those conservative Members of Congress who bedeviled Boehner in Washington – "knuckle-heads and goofballs" is the way he referred to them.

Apparently, now that he is no longer speaker, he is actually speaking his mind.

His comments comparing Ted Cruz to Lucifer were hardly out of his mouth, however, when he was joined in the insult department by both a New York congressman and a spokesperson for the Satanic Temple, each of whom objected, on Satan's behalf, to his being compared to Cruz.

That's very tough, but it's that season again; a presidential election is coming up, and people with short political memories and little historical knowledge are already calling it the "nastiest political season ever."

It's easy to see why. Hitherto, candidates have insulted each other, and even their opponents' spouses, in ways we've never thought of before. They've accused each other of everything from bed-wetting to insider trading, and called each other everything from "donkey of the decade" to "a sniveling coward." I would literally be too embarrassed to write about some of the insults they have hurled at each other. On television!

But "politics," as someone famously quipped, "ain't beanbag." It is a highly brutal, emotional blood sport, where only the winners stay at the table – it is not a good career choice for the thin-skinned.

But are things really worse than they used to be? Most historians say "no," not yet, anyway. Benjamin Franklin, five years before the Declaration of Independence was signed, wrote deploring what he referred to as the "libeling and personal abuse" that were put upon public men of the day. What kind of abuse? Consider this example from our Founding Fathers' era – "That dark, designing, sordid, ambitious, vein, proud, arrogant and vindictive knave" – that's how one of his adversaries described George Washington, before he took office as president.

Washington's successor, John Adams, fared even worse. He was described as "a monkey just put into britches," of being "doggedly and systematically repulsive" and called "a hideous hermaphrodite character."

His successor, Thomas Jefferson, was accused of being "one of the most detestable of mankind," "a slur upon the moral government of the world" and "an apostle of anarchy."

Our 16th president, Abraham Lincoln, may have been the most vilified of all. Filthy Storyteller, Despot, Liar, Thief, Braggart, Buffoon, Usurper, Monster, Ignoramus Abe, Old Scoundrel, Perjurer, Robber, Swindler, Tyrant, Field-butcher and Land-pirate – each one of those terms and nicknames was hurled at Abraham Lincoln during the 1864 election.

And that's just what Northerners said about him. His opponent in 1864, George McClellan, described him as "nothing more than a well-meaning baboon."

Of course, none of those insults stuck, and Lincoln won the election, but the practice of trashing political opponents has continued to the present day.

President Teddy Roosevelt, for example, was fearless in criticizing other politicians, even those for whom he worked. Once, when he was Assistant Secretary of the Navy, under President Benjamin Harrison, he referred to President Harrison as "a cold-blooded, narrow-minded, prejudiced, obstinate, timid old psalm singing Indianapolis politician."

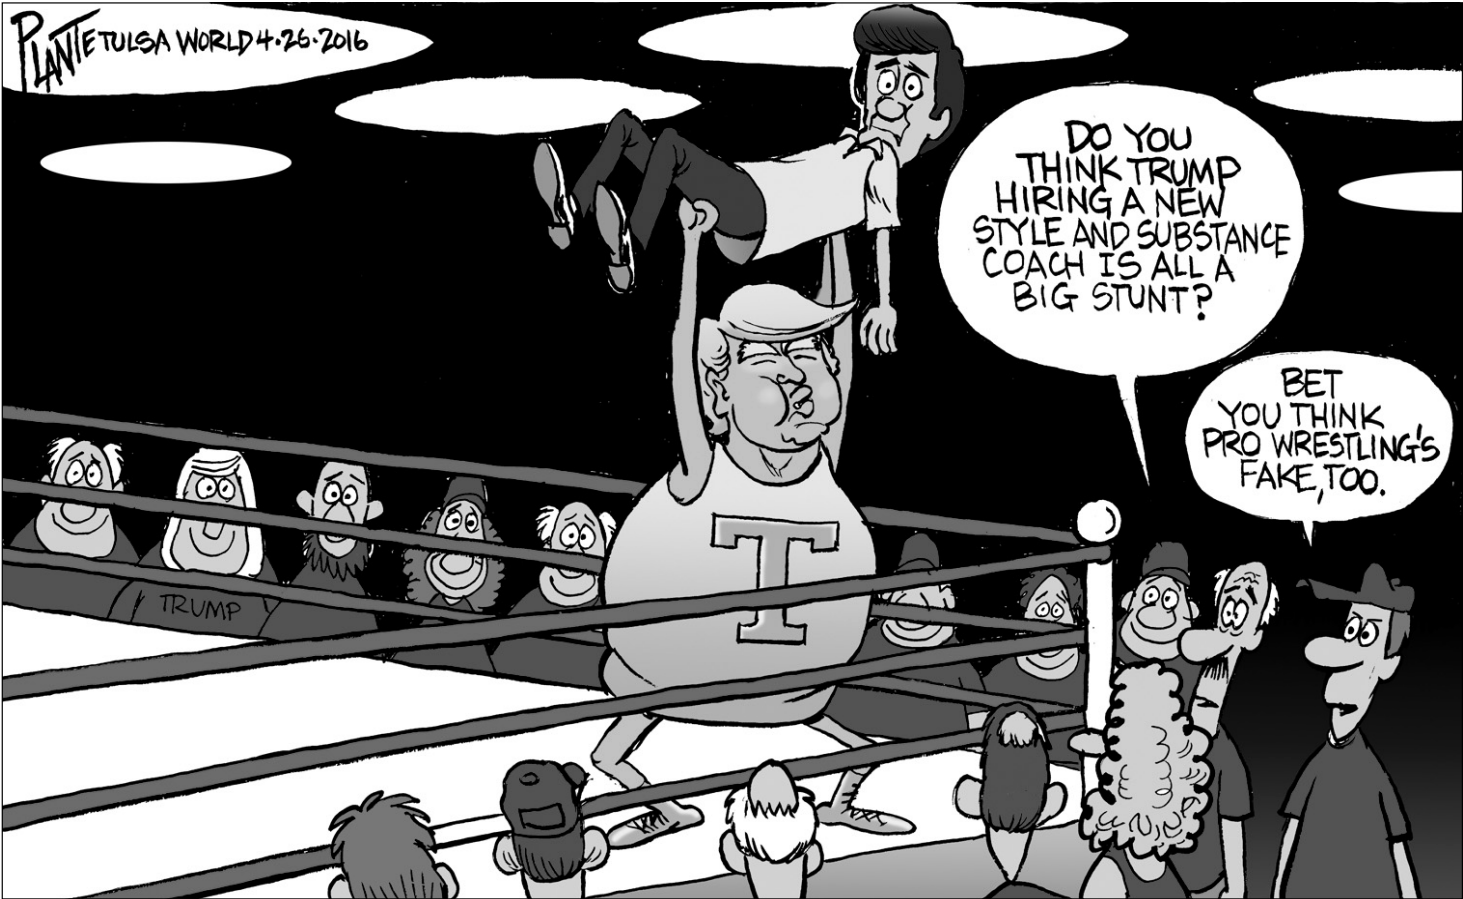

Later on, Roosevelt said of President William McKinley, that McKinley had "no more backbone than a chocolate eclair." Two years later, however, Roosevelt was McKinley's running mate.

A generation later, President Harry Truman said of his successor, Dwight Eisenhower, that the general didn't know any more about politics than a pig knows about Sunday, and he called Eisenhower's running mate, Richard Nixon, a "no good, lying b-----."

But later on, when Nixon was elected president, he made a courtesy call on Truman at his home in Independence, and the two got along very cordially.

Could it be that our national politicians are like the wrestlers on television who jeer and leer and insult each other in the ring, but then after the match is over, go out and have dinner together?

They certainly seem to be just as authentic.

Mothers Are Like That...

Mom always thought we ate too fast. She'd get on us a little about it. But not too much! She didn't have the heart for fussing. And I think she enjoyed watching us eat. She was big on carrots, peas and turnip greens. She allowed those things were healthy for us. She wasn't so keen on Coca-Colas, Snicker Bars and Hostess Cup Cakes. We figured the former was on the table mostly because it was what we grew in the backyard.

Mom never seemed to realize, if we didn't eat in a whirlwind, Leon would wolf down his biscuits and ours too...me and David Mark had to lift fast and chew quickly! And she must have loved cooking that stuff up for us. She spent half of her life in that kitchen.

Mom didn't care how much you'd eaten for supper if you kinda mentioned an hour or so later during "Have Gun—Will Travel" you were still hungry. She'd bolt into the kitchen and fix a peanut butter and jelly sandwich or toast some cheese on a piece of bread quick as a wink. You know, I took that for granted until my first night off at college.

I remember her driving that nail into a coconut and draining the milk out like it was yesterday.

Mom would have tears in her eyes when she was picking the gravel out of your knee after a terrible spill on the Como Road. If you came home after a Little League game with a cramp in your leg, she'd rub it until way past after you went to sleep. If you coughed she'd have that gentle hand on your forehead checking your temperature. If it wasn't broke, spouting blood or have you knocked out cold, she took care of it!

Mom would pull that apron off and come out in the backyard and play pitch with you if there was absolutely no one else around to do it.

Mom was big on church. I ain't got the writing ability to explain to you how big! Once Miss Purvis called her to ask why the lights were on down at the church on a Tuesday night. Mom had no idea that the janitor had lost his watch and was going through the building room by room looking for it. She got us cleaned up, dressed properly in a flash and we were headin' to town "just in case" there was a meeting she didn't know about.

Mom didn't want us to play high school football. She was afraid we'd get hurt. She didn't mind us wrestling in the dining room or jumping off the roof on to each other. She didn't seem to worry about those double back flips off the high diving board at the swimming pool. Nor did she run out waving for us to stop when we'd fly by "skiing" on an upside down '56 Chevrolet hood being pulled behind Nicky Joe's pick-up. 'Course, come to think of it, Nick would slow down to about 40 mph when he made the turn in front of the house. She would fuss at Leon a mite about him shooting at us with his BB gun but, remember, she didn't own a fussing heart.

Mom interceded for me in the ninth grade when I wanted to let my hair grow out like everyone else. Daddy figured if that GI haircut was good enough for him it ought to suit my head just fine. It wasn't so much Elvis that inspired me as it was Butch Dickson and Mike Vaughn. I'm telling you, she worked a miracle in that deal!

Mom could embarrass the dickens out of you back in high school. Buddy or Ricky would swing by and pick me up...and she would hang out the back door hollering "Be careful boys, ya'll be careful!" till we went over the hill plum up by Jim Williams' house!

And, listen, we couldn't go out and drink beer or have a cigarette or two. Eventually we had to go home. And I don't care how late you hit that back door, down the hallway she'd come to give you a big hug. "Did you have a good time? Would you like something to eat? Where did you go tonight?" I'm telling you—it was EVERYTIME I ever walked into that house after dark, be it nine o'clock or two hours past midnight...from the time I was old enough to go somewhere until the day she died.

Mom never quit on us. Or took a day off. She never wavered, strayed, "looked the other way", failed to hail an achievement or correct one or our shortcomings. She didn't tend to a personal need until all else was well in the family. Her faith in God, her husband and her boys was unshakable.

If you are lucky enough to still have your Mom in this life, for goodness sakes don't call her on Mother's Day, you grab a handful of roses and sprint to wherever she is!

If she has gone on to glory, you sit yourself down and write your own story about her meaningful, bountiful, magnificent and endless touch on your life...

Respectfully,
Kes

Everything Is Beautiful...

By Paula Watkins

I sat watching children draw and color their own interpretation of a house last Sunday after they had finished their Bible story. Each child was handed a large piece of blank paper and could choose any color they wanted to create their masterpiece. One beautiful little girl looked over at her neighbor's drawing and asked, "What's that?" "My house," replied the child. They looked back and forth mentally comparing their pictures, looked at each other, and smiled. No judgement, no ridicule – just pure innocence. You learn never to ask what they are drawing, or if they need to improve their house by adding another color to go along with the bright red. In each small child's mind, they had produced artwork worthy of hanging on the refrigerator.

So a few years pass and cynicism rears its ugly head, mostly because we have allowed it. Children become confused as they soon learn that the Golden Rule doesn't apply to all the people they want to be friends with. They look up to those they love the most and see us shake our heads. They frown, get behind their parents' backs, peek out and give an encouraging smile to their new friend. What in the name of time have we done?! Can we go back and rethink this horrendous mistake? Nope – the seed's been planted and the memory is etched in each youngster's mind.

Suddenly we have teenagers. My goodness, the variety of personalities is endless. From a very early age some struggle with grasping even the simplest math equation. Some have difficulty writing their thoughts on paper: A few cannot socialize with their peers as they so desperately want to. And we have a majority of young people who excel in every classroom subject and will certainly become our leaders of tomorrow. But have we taught that, in order to become leaders, we have to be accepting of every personality regardless of differences in economic background, race, and disabilities. I, right along with you, tend to circle the wagons of family and chosen friends. We forget that these babies will someday leave home. We suddenly realize that there was a gap in the circled wagons and human kindness crept in with somebody we didn't plan on asking to dinner.

The grass is growing on the neighborhood baseball field; the net is gone on the basketball goal. Did I, and you, instill love as is taught in the Golden Rule? Ray Stevens said it best. 'Everybody's beautiful in their own way. Under God's Heaven, the world's gonna find a way.' I pray for the ability to love unconditionally, and I pray the same for you. To you and yours!

The Carroll County Library has exciting news; our new Teen Center in the Library is nearly complete and we will be having a ribbon cutting ceremony on May 9th at 6:00 p.m. to reveal the Teen Center. We encourage everyone in the community to come out and show your support for the teens in the community and enjoy a few refreshments!

Last Monday, our Teen Advisory Board hosted Cultural Night and impressed everyone with their presentations on cultures from around the world. Elysia Rhodes educated everyone on the culture and language of the Finnish people and shared a delicious Finnish blueberry pie as well as chocolate and liquorice candies. Jalia Brodie gave a presentation on Puerto Rico and shared first-hand knowledge of the culture and Puerto Rican people. Sarah Hurmiz made a delicious Syrian dessert called baklava made from buttery layers of dough and pistachios and told of traditional Syrian-style dress. Joshua and Nate Hurmiz gave an educational presentation on Australia, brought in an authentic Australian boomerang, and shared Australian pancakes called pikelets with everyone. We are proud of all of our teens who participated in and attended Cultural Night.

Summer Reading Program is right around the corner! We will be having our Summer Reading Program Kick Off and Registration on May 25th at 10:30 a.m. The rest of our Summer Reading Program schedule can be found on the calendar at our website at www.carrollcountylibrary.net

We still have a few copies of Pride and Prejudice and Zombies available at the circulation desk for our teen book club, The Rancous Readers, which is having its first meeting on May 26 at 6 p.m.

The Library appreciates Tony and Janet Welch for donating and planting beautiful flowers at the Library's front entrance and Sonna Fae Ray for her donation.

I could never truly express how thankful I am for each person who has supported and encouraged me so far in this journey. First, I would like to thank my parents for always supporting me and teaching me to follow Jesus' calling on my life, even when it means moving to Haiti. Thank you to everyone who attended the spaghetti dinner and generously donated to my year internship in Haiti. A special thanks to all the men and women at Blooming Grove United Methodist Church who worked many hours to make this event a huge success. I am so excited to begin my year in Haiti. I know God is going to continue to do amazing things in the village of Neply. Thank you again from the bottom of my heart.

MMS Hosts Daddy/Daughter Dance

McKENZIE (April 27) — The McKenzie Middle School Lady Rebel basketball team hosted a Daddy/Daughter Dance Friday night to raise funds for uniforms and supplies.

Dozens of lovely young ladies and dapper dads enjoyed several activities at the school. In the gymnasium was the dance floor, complete with lights, a smoke machine, and balloons. The cafeteria was full of games and prizes, and a photo booth was available for a keepsake. Guests were also treated to punch and snacks in the lobby. The dads were also excited to bid on a baseball autographed by Drew Hayes in a silent auction.

To close out the night, a light show and sing-along of songs from Disney's Frozen was shown, and at the end, a confetti cannon blasted a shower of color over the crowd. Each girl was presented a personalized treat bag as she departed.

McKenzie Police Reports

Indecent exposure-according to a report filed by MPD patrolman Jeff Winberry on April, the officer responded to a call stating that a man had exposed himself to one of the female nurses at McKenzie Regional Hospital. According to the report, Mr. Clifton Wayne Armstrong, 48, West front Street, Bradford, said that he was at the hospital for the birth of his son's child and had to relieve himself behind a rose bush in front of the hospital because he was not able to make it to a restroom. While disposing of a coffee cup inside the building, a nurse inside the hospital saw Armstrong as he turned and exposed himself and called MPD. Armstrong told the officer that he had gout in his feet and was not able to walk fast enough to make it to the bathroom. Armstrong was then cited into Carroll County General Sessions Court for the listed offense. The nurse wrote in her statement that she did not think Armstrong exposed himself on purpose.

Aggravated burglary / aggravated criminal trespassing-According to a report filed by MPD patrolman Kyle Beauchamp, on April 28 at approximately 4:00 a.m., Timothy M. Ridley, David Street, McKenzie, called MPD to report that someone was outside his home on his back deck. Officer Beauchamp and Sergeant Trey Boucher and patrolman Savannah Bigham arrived on the scene to find Mr. Ridley's back garage door standing wide open and the garage light was on. Upon finding no one inside the structure, the officers followed tracks in the fresh dew but were unable to locate the suspect. The report noted that no items were taken from the garage.

Burglary-According to a report filed by MPD patrolman Billy King, on April 28, Phillip T. Dillingham, Elwood Drive, McKenzie, reported that $40 had been stolen from the middle console of his unlocked vehicle at approximately 10:00 p.m. or later the previous night.

Driving on suspended / revoked license #1-According to a report filed by MPD patrolman Andy Weaver, on April 27, the officer responded to a vehicle crash without injuries in the parking lot of Dollar General Store. Upon arrival, I spoke with the two drivers about the collision. A computer check of the license of Keesha R. Johnson, 35, Oaklawn Drive, McKenzie, revealed that they were currently suspended in Tennessee for failure to show proof of insurance. There were no prior convictions on her driving history. She was cited into Carroll County General Sessions Court of the listed offense.

Vandalism-According to a report filed by MPD patrolman Mark Boaz, on April 26 at approximately 2:02 p.m., the officer, accompanied by patrolman Frank McGee, responded to an apartment located at Bethel Court regarding a vandalism call. Upon arrival, a caretaker at the apartment said someone had spray painted blue paint on the concrete sidewalks and outside the apartment owned by Centennial Bank of McKenzie. At that time, the tenant, identified as Jordan H. Malone, 23, Split Rail Cove, Memphis, came upon the scene and admitted to spraying the paint outside of the room on the concrete walkway but did not know who sprayed profanity-based graffiti on the rest of the walkway and steps. When the officer asked Malone who sprayed painted his boots, he told the officer that the fraternity he belonged to asked him to do for the support of his fraternity. He was then advised by the caretaker that if he did not clean up what he had admitted to spraying by the end of the week, she would file charges on him. At that time, Morgan was able to identify the caller as Joseph Dale Umsted, 24, Oaklawn Drive, McKenzie. The officer then contacted Umsted and he confirmed sending the texts to Morgan. Umsted said that he picked a random cell phone number to send a text and request a response. He stated that he had recently moved to the area and only wanted to meet people who he chat with via text messages. The officer then warned Umsted that he would be charged with the listed offense if he continued to contact the victim.

Upon arrival, the officer heard a lame subject yelling loudly inside the residence. Walking up the steps, the officer saw a male sitting in a chair with two females sitting in front of him. The caller noted that an argument was occurring between the male and his mother. After advising the male to calm down while still standing on the porch, the male, identified as Cassius S. Jordan, Maple Street, McKenzie, then invited the officer inside before quickly changing his mind and attempted to make the officer exit the residence. The officer then spoke to the mother of the male, identified as Pamela A. Cook, 49, Magnolia Avenue, McKenzie, who said that an argument had started between her son and she after she brought her daughter home from the doctor and was told by her son that he was too busy entertaining the females inside to attend to the sick daughter. Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:
Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Users can check out periodicals on the same website where they currently borrow eBooks, digital audiobooks, and streaming video titles. All that is required is a valid library card and a Nook account. Titles can be read on a Nook tablet device, or readers can download a free Nook Reading App available for a multitude of smartphones and tablets.

If you are interested in participating in this trial program, please contact your library for assistance with downloading the apps and setting up subscriptions and/or take your device to the library. We urge library patrons to take advantage of this program since high participation levels will demonstrate patron interest and patron need for this service.
