Autopsy: Missing Person Drowned

Robert “Tank” Threadway, Jr., 30, a black male, was found dead on private property on Parkers Store Road in Carroll County on Monday, February 20. According to Carroll County Sheriff Andy Dickson, an autopsy revealed Threadway drowned in the watershed lake. His naked body floated to the surface was found approximately 15 feet off the embankment. Two divers pulled Threadway to the shoreline, where the sheriff and coroner waited.

A small pier was on the lake.

The pier had handrails on all but one side, said the sheriff. The lake’s banks and the bottom of the lake were very steep and the lake was probably 15 feet deep.

Threadway had been living with Roy Gardner, a resident of Parker Store Road in the Cedar Grove area, who called the Sheriff’s Department on February 16 and said he had not seen Threadway since February 5, when he said he was going fishing. His body was found within 75 yards of where Gardner indicated he might be found.

Sheriff Andy Dickson said the body was discovered by one of the landowners. Carroll County Sheriff’s Department transported the body for an autopsy and toxicology exam. The toxicology report is not complete, said Dickson, who noted those reports can take several weeks to complete. He also noted the body was found nude, which sometimes happens after a body has been submerged for a period of time, according to information from the medical examiner’s office.

PARIS — Two people from the Memphis area were arrested for assault of James Hart of Buchanan, who is a perennial candidate for public office and regularly stands on street corners with signs proclaiming his views.

The two, Eleanor Pitts, age 29, of Cordova, and Dallas Hofmann, also age 29, of Memphis, were taken to the Henry County Jail and later released after they posted the $1,000 bonds that had been set for them.

According to the police report, Paris Police were called to the intersection of Tyson and Mineral Wells Avenues on a call that Hart was being attacked.

Sgt. Tony Hutcherson said in the report that Hart said he had been standing at the corner with his sign and that a white man and black woman came up, started hitting him and took his sign away from him. Hart then said he ran into the street and the two ran after him, knocking him to the ground.

CARROLL COUNTY ELECTRIC BOARD

$5,000 Chamber of Commerce Dues Payment Approved

BY ERNIE SMOTHERS
smothers@mckenziebanner.com

HUNTINGDON (February 23) — During the regular monthly meeting of the Carroll County Electric Board, board members, at the recommendation of CCED General Manager Danny Brawner and motion of CCEB board member and Carroll County Chamber of Commerce (CCCC) board member Terry Howell, approved the utility’s annual $5,000 membership dues payment to the CCCC.

Prior to approval, Brawner said, The Carroll County Chamber of Commerce has respectfully requested our payment of $5,000 in membership dues. The dues are the same as in previous years, and I recommend we make the payment.”

Board member Marty Hurley, wife of Carroll County Chamber of Commerce President Brad Hurley added, “I spoke with Brad about the membership dues, and he said the annual dues for Carroll County Electric Department were $5,000 when he joined the Chamber in 1997. That amount has not changed in 20 years.”

At the recommendation of Brawner, the board approved State Comptroller-mandated Tennessee Public Records Policy (TPRA) stipulating Carroll County Board of Public Utility provide for economical and efficient access to public records as specified in Tennessee Code Annotated 10-7-501.

Brawner said the State Comptroller-mandated Public Records Policy applies to all governmental entities.

He read, “The TPRA provides that all state, county and municipal records shall, at all times during business hours, which for institutions shall be during the business hours of their administrative offices, be open for public inspection by any citizen of this state, and those in charge of the records shall not refuse such right of inspection to any citizen, unless otherwise provided by state law.”

The policy stated that personnel of Carroll County Electric Department shall timely and efficiently provide access and assistance to persons requesting to view or receive copies of public records and that no provisions of the policy shall be used to hinder access to open public records.

Brawner added, “I serve as the Public Records Request Coordinator for Carroll County Electric Department. Any questions regarding the new policy should be addressed to me or to the Tennessee Office of Open Records Counsel.”

Brawner read that, although no charge will be assessed to petitioners seeking inspection of open public records, the General Manager (Brawner) of the Carroll County Electric Department may establish reasonable fees to recover the cost of searching, retrieving, gaining access to records, and redaction of records, supervising access and inspection, and reproduction of records.

Fees may include the actual cost of reproduction, labor costs related to time spent searching, retrieving, and accessing, and time spent supervising inspection or reproduction of records. Fee for copies is 15 cents per page for letter and legal-size black and white copies, 50 cents per page for letter and legal-size color copies, postage expenses for mailings, and labor costs when time exceeds one hour.

The TPRA is available for inspection and duplication in the business office of the Carroll County Electric Department and will be applied consistently throughout the various offices, departments, and / or divisions of said utility.

Following approval of vouchers and the minutes of the January 2017 meeting, the board set the next meeting for March 30 at 2:30 p.m.

Five Area Hunters Lose Licenses For One Year

Two Others Waive Preliminary Hearing

BY SHANNON MCFARLIN
WENK/WTPR News Director

PARIS — Five hunters lost their hunting privileges as a result of an order handed down in Henry County General Sessions Court Thursday, February 16 with two more opting for another hearing in the local Circuit Court in the future.

Five hunters—one of whom is the Benton County Director of Schools—appeared for their preliminary hearing Thursday. They were charged with exceeding their daily bag limit of ducks, specifically illegal taking, possessing and destroying of wildlife.

The five were: Mark Florence, Camden (Benton County Director of Schools), Jake Ballard Lumpkin, Camden; Timothy Sanders, Springville; Kody Owen, Gleason, and Gary Troutt, Camden.

The two who waived their right to a preliminary hearing and are seeking a hearing in Circuit Court are Andrew Troutt, who owns the land where the hunting took place and Allen Douglas of Camden.

The charges against the five were brought by the Tennessee Wildlife Resources Agency (TWRA), with Assistant District Attorney Paul Hessing representing the TWRA. The seven hunters were all represented by Attorney Neil Thompson of Paris.

According to Greg Barker of the TWRA, all seven were hunting in an area off of Little Benton Rd. along the Big Sandy River in Henry County.

He said Andrew Troutt also is charged with baiting.

Under the order, the case was continued for a year and Florence, Lumpkin, Sanders, Owen and Gary Troutt lost their hunting licenses for a year and fined a total of $485 ($200 fine and $285 court costs). The five still do have their fishing privileges.

Tennessee Officials to Observe Severe Weather Awareness Week

NASHVILLE — Tennessee's Severe Weather Awareness Week is February 26 to Mar. 4, 2017, and the Tennessee Emergency Management Agency (TEMA), Tennessee Department of Health (TDH), and the National Weather Service (NWS) are asking Tennesseans to make severe weather planning and preparedness a priority.

“One of TEMA's priorities is to help Tennesseans have access to information to ensure they can prepare for any variety of man-made, natural, and technological hazards or disasters,” said TEMA Director Patrick Sheehan. “While severe weather, especially tornadoes, can occur any time in Tennessee, they are most common during the spring months of March, April, and May. We want Tennesseans and our visitors to pay attention to and understand the weather, ensure they have multiple ways to receive severe weather warnings, and have a plan to get themselves and their loved ones to safety when severe weather warnings are issued.”

TEMA will host a Facebook Live event at 10 a.m., CST, on Tuesday, Feb. 28, as part of the agency's effort to help Tennesseans understand the hazards and threats of severe weather. TDH and NWS representatives will also participate in Facebook Live session at www.facebook.com/TNDi-sasterInfo. NWS Awareness and Education Events NWS offices in Nashville, Memphis, Morristown, and Huntsville, Alabama are planning a series of education and training events, using each day of Severe Weather Awareness Week to focus on a different severe weather threat. Information on the NWS activities is available at www.weather.gov/ohx/swaw2017.

TDH recommends thinking about the weather events in your area or while you travel and making a plan before the crisis comes. It is best to write it down but at a minimum, talk with your family about where you'll meet, how you'll communicate and where to go if you need to evacuate or can't return home. Put an emergency kit together so you're ready in the event of severe weather. The most important preparedness tip for severe weather is to stay informed to its potential. Listen to NOAA Weather Radio, watch TV or listen to the radio for weather updates and warnings.

Other severe weather awareness tips and resources include: • Never venture into high water, either on foot or in a vehicle. • If you're outside and hear thunder, go indoors immediately. • Go to a basement or an innermost, first floor room in your home if you're told to take shelter during a tornado warning.

- Know the location of and route to your office or building's tornado shelter.
- Never try to outrun a tornado.
- Have an emergency plan ready at places where your family spends time – work, school, daycare, commuting and outdoor events.
- Emergency plans should include where to meet, and who family members should check in with, if you are separated from family members during a severe weather emergency.

At a minimum, emergency preparedness kits should include one gallon of water per day, per person, and per-pet, for three to five days. The kit should also have enough non-perishable food for each family member, and pets, for three to five days. –

Other items that every kit should include: flashlight, battery-powered radio, extra batteries, first aid kit, personal hygiene items, cell phone charger or solar charger, and copies of important family documents. It is also very important that emergency kits contain extra supplies of medications, especially for those with chronic health conditions. Online Preparedness Resources A number of websites provide resources to help with the creation of emergency plans.

Sitting Pretty

BY CLAYBURN PEEPLES

“Pretty is as pretty does,” just about everyone’s parents have warned them at one time or another, and beauty, as they say, is only skin deep.

According to a male friend of mine, however, “that’s deep enough,” but is it? Is simply looking good, good enough?

Well conventional wisdom, at least since the 1980s, has held that while physical attractiveness isn’t everything, it is an important indicator of how successful a person is going to be in just about every human endeavor possible, and not just in “looks related” industries. In everything from high finance to throwing footballs, it seems that being attractive adds to your chance of financial success. At least that’s what the men and women who work in the field of “pulchronics,” say. “Pulchronics,” (from the arcane word “pulchritudinous” which seems to mean “breathhtakingly beautiful”) is a new term for a new discipline, the study of the economic impact of physical attractiveness.

While there is no consensus on exactly how a person’s appearance at work affects his or her success, many things are known that seem to strongly suggest that there is a “beauty bonus” in professional and occupational worlds, and perhaps an “unattractiveness penalty” as well.

Start with applying for a job. All sorts of studies have been done on this, and they show that attractive job applicants, both male and female, are more likely to be hired for nearly every job position available. As a matter of fact, a survey of business managers rated “looks” as the third most important attribute a job prospect could have, right behind experience and confidence.

Then, once an attractive man or woman joins the workforce, he or she can expect to earn as much as a quarter of a million dollars more, over a lifetime of work, then his or her coworkers who are of below-average attractiveness, and this effect is even more pronounced for men than it is for women.

Some people are so perturbed about this they are advocating creation of a new form of legal job protection for people discriminated against because of their looks.

No kidding; San Francisco and Washington, D.C. already have laws prohibiting discrimination on the basis of appearance, including, in San Francisco, height and weight, so who knows what’s next.

Beyond the work place, attractive people are much less likely to be arrested for crimes, and they receive lighter sentences when they are convicted. In civil cases, attractive litigants are awarded higher damage amounts.

Attractive men and women find it easier to obtain loans, even though they are more likely to default on them when they do.

Those who don’t know them rate attractive people as more trustworthy, more persuasive and more competent than those not so comely. In one university study, professors rated “hot” by students had salaries 6% higher than others in the same departments. Even in professional football there seems to be a beauty bonus. Handsome quarterbacks earn an average of 12% more than their “attractiveness challenged” competitors, even those with similar playing statistics.

Attractive students get more attention from teachers and do better in school, in part because of that attention. The beauty bonus, it seems, is everywhere.

And who is it who gets this bonus? Who is attractive? Well, while the idea of attractiveness differs somewhat from culture to culture, it doesn’t by much. In every society, healthy looking, symmetrical faces are what are considered most pleasing, and apparently they are most profitable as well.

But a brand-new study claims that all those advantages I just cited that are enjoyed by attractive people may be theirs for reasons other than their looks and that all their “benefits of beauty” may actually be from something else instead. Researchers at the London School of Economics and University of Massachusetts followed some 20,745 American kids from age 16 to 29 and rated them four times during that 13-year period for attractiveness. But they also rated them for other characteristics related to health, intelligence and personality. Then, at the end of their study the researchers compared all of their participants’ gross incomes.

Overly attractive people still made more money than others, but the researchers concluded it was not because of their looks. Instead, they claim, it was because the more physically attractive people were also the respondents who just happened to be more intelligent, open, extroverted, conscientious, agreeable and less neurotic, all qualities linked to success.

So the researchers concluded that when we reward attractive people it’s not because they’re prettier or handsomer, but because they are healthier, smarter and have better personalities.

I’m not completely convinced, but I hope that’s true, because when it comes to dealing with people on any sort of personal basis, what’s on the outside really is, as the Preacher said in Ecclesiastes, “vanity and vexation of spirit.”

But what’s on the inside? That’s eternal and enduring.

Not to mention something we can actually do something about.

HUNKER DOWN WITH KES

Play It Again Sam

Some friends at the college asked about my favorite music. I answered immediately, “Chuck Berry, Hank Williams and Martin Paschall.”

“Roll Over Beethoven” was B-22 on that old jukebox out at Frank’s Dairy Bar. I could retire right now if I had every nickel back that I dropped down the slot and pushed that number! I hear it today and a cheeseburger/French fry craving comes over me. Chuck would rock into “I’m gonna write a little letter, Gonna mail it to my local DJ” and the carhops skated a little faster. The conversation grew more animated. The laughter rang louder.

Chuck Berry was a fun singer. If I’d a’had a V-8 Ford, I’d been chasing “Maybelline”. Everyone at Frank’s could relate to “No Particular Place to Go”. If you hung around Bobby Brewer, Ricky Hale and Buddy Wiggleton as much as I did, “Too Much Monkey Business” would have become your theme song too! And who didn’t want to be “Sweet Little Sixteen” or “Johnny B. Goode”.

Listen, as wide eyed, fun loving teenagers in 1963 Chuck kept the beat going for us.

Hank Williams served another purpose. And you talk about staying power. “Your Cheating Heart” was A-11 on Frank’s jukebox even though Hank had been dead for ten years. If your best girl friend was spotted coming out of the Park Theatre with your closest buddy hanging on her arm, you didn’t feel much like Chuck Berry.

You needed to slow things down and think a bit. And pray she’d realize pretty quickly, “Your cheatin’ heart, Will pine some day, And crave the love, You threw away...” It wasn’t all fun and games out at the dairy bar!

If she didn’t come back Hank had another one for you, “Now she didn’t forward no address, Nor she didn’t say goodbye, All she said was if you get blue, Just hang your little head and cry, And that’s all she wrote, dear John, I’ve sent your saddle home.”

Martin Paschall was a year ahead of me in school. He could play any musical instrument that’s ever been invented. He was also a heck of an athlete. We spent our high school days mostly on some ball field. He had a curve ball that dropped off the table. I’m telling you, he threw one to me that started off about tree top high and bent...well, that’s another story.

Martin always had a song on his lips. He would entertain us at lunch. Sometimes between classes. And I will remember forever him banging out the beat with his hands on the locker room door as he covered Roy Orbison’s “Pretty Woman.”

He was the life of McKenzie High School at times. And, I’m telling you, he could sing as good as anyone on Frank Garrett’s jukebox.

These were not the only three of course. The Percy Faith Orchestra was playing “Theme From A Summer Place” when I kissed Millicent Blackburn out on her grandmother’s porch. That made it a favorite at that particular moment! Johnny Cash’s “I Walk The Line” was streaming out of that old stand up Rock-ola at the Skyway Grill the night Rollin Trull drove his big Harley through the door.

I remember riding down the Greenfield highway trying to convince Jane Hill I wasn’t the monster she thought I was. As if a sign from God, Bo Diddley came to my rescue via the car radio with “You Can’t Judge A Book By Looking At The Cover”!

I was left “Blowing In The Wind” during my folk music craze. I sang along with Peter, Paul and Mary, protested with Pete Seeger and barely survived the Dust Bowl days with Woody Guthrie. I discovered Hudie Ledbetter and Big Bill Broonzy on some old Folkway recordings made back in the late Forties. I went surfing with Jan and Dean, did a “Whole Lot of Shaking” with Jerry Lee and took several walks “down lonely street” with Elvis.

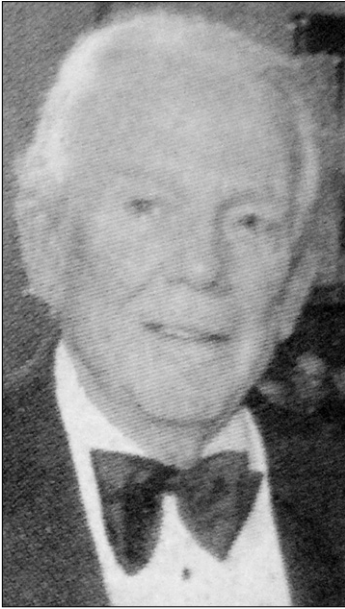

Mr. Jack Cantrell turned me on to country music down at the City Café. Their jukebox played mostly Ernest Tubb, George Jones and Kitty Wells. And it had a good share of up and comers like Marty Robbins and Loretta Lynn. You could pull a pickled pig’s foot out of the big jar of formaldehyde up on the front counter while Lefty Frizzell strummed, “If You’ve Got The Money Honey, I’ve Got The Time”.

I’ve never been exactly sure what “eclectic” means, but if it has something to do with varied or assorted...that describes my teenage listening taste to a T. I’d say I’ve run through about every genre of music there is. I was trying to convey to the group the songs that had evoked some memory, shaped my thinking or moved me along in some way—

“No, Kesley, you don’t understand, we were asking what kind of music do you like today. Who are some of your favorite singers right now?”

I pondered on that for a brief minute or so...and replied, “Chuck Berry, Hank Williams and Martin Paschall.”

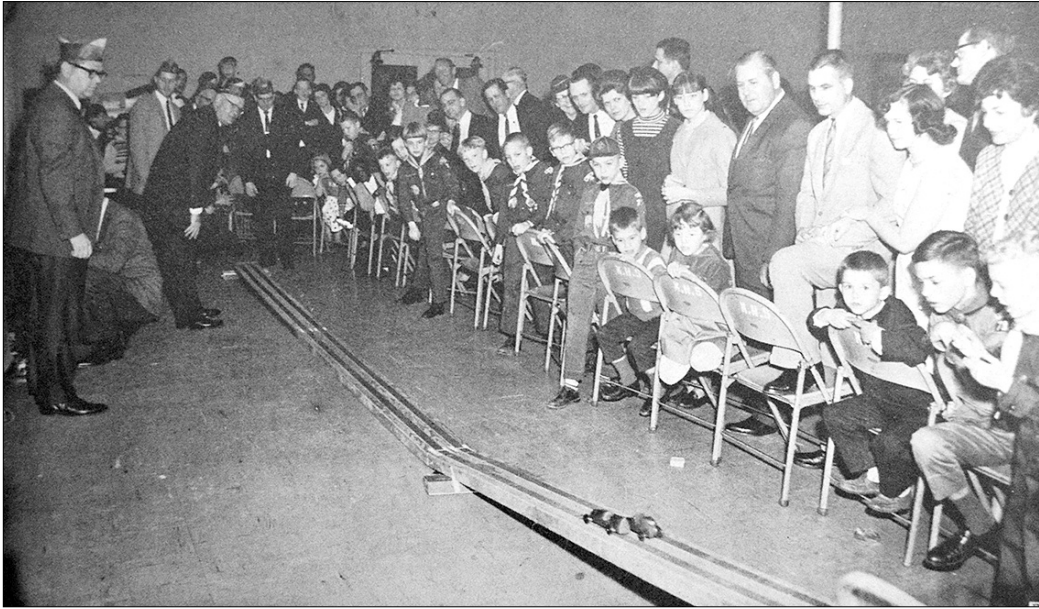

Respectfully,
Kes

McKENZIE (February 24) — The Rebels' season came to an end Friday evening as they hosted the Halls Tigers (District 14A fourth seed) in the opening round of the Region 7A Boys Basketball Tournament. McKenzie took a lead after the first quarter, but was slightly outscored in each of the last three. The game was tied with under three minutes remaining, but Halls went up by seven with 30 seconds on the clock. Rebels Preston Henderson and Brandon Baucum hit heroic three-pointers to keep hope alive, but Tiger Myron McKinney was perfect at the free throw line to give Halls the win, 47-42.

HUNTINGDON (February 24) — In Region 7A quarterfinal boys basketball action, Huntingdon, led by the phenomenal outside shooting of Keeton Bailey (24 points including four treys) and inside production of center Davion Phillips (14), appeared to be on the verge of advancing to the Region Semifinals after Phillips scored via rebound and put back to give his team a 53-52 lead with six seconds remaining in regulation. Racing onto the court as the Mustang players celebrated, Trenton Coach Tim Allen called for a timeout and convinced game officials to place 4.9 seconds on the game clock.

As emotions ran high on both sides of the court, Peabody's Cameron Luten snared the inbound pass under duress and drove right side before swishing the buzzer-beating, game-winning basket as the Golden Tide (18-3) ended the Mustangs season at 17-9 to advance to a Region semifinal showdown on Monday night against the state's #1-ranked Humboldt Vikings (28-1).

The Vikings advanced by eliminating West Carroll, 71-39.

HUNTINGDON (February 23) — The Fillies played a methodical, disciplined game Thursday night to begin the Region 7A Girls Basketball Tournament, possibly their final game in their home gymnasium. The District 13A champs hosted the 14A fourth-seed Union City Lady Tornados, with the loser's season ending and the victor a win away from a sectional appearance.

The Fillies jumped ahead early and had an answer for every Union City rally. When the Lady Tornados hit five threes in the fourth quarter to cut the Huntingdon lead to just three points, the Fillies held them scoreless in the final two minutes to claim the win, 63-55.

Huntingdon advanced to face Trenton-Peabody in Saturday's semifinals at Bethel University for a spot in both the region championship game and the sectional round.

After some back-and-forth, the Fillies pulled away slightly by the end of the opening frame, 18-13. Alli Jones led Huntingdon with seven points, and Jessica Keith scored six. LeAnn Webb hit a three-pointer, and Taylor Smith had a pair. Lady Tornado Dymond Smith scored six, including a three. Alina Bishop had four points, and Tykesha Vaughn hit three free throws.

Huntingdon built a solid lead with a 19-11 advantage in the second quarter, led by Grace Angelos with eight points. Webb scored six, Kaci Fuller had three points, and Marisa Belew had two points. Vaughn scored six for Union City, including a three. D. Smith also hit a three, and Bishop hit a pair of freebies. At the half, the Fillies led, 37-24.

Huntingdon topped the Lady Tornados, 13-8, in a quick third as the Fillies chewed up the clock. T. Smith and Keith scored four points each, Cheyenne Childress scored three, and Webb added a pair. D. Smith scored six for Union City, and Bishop added a pair. Entering the final frame, the Fillies led, 50-32.

A furious, 23-8 Lady Tornado run, featuring a trio of threes by Vaughn, ten points by D. Smith (including a pair of threes) and four points by Bishop, depleted Huntingdon's lead to 58-55 with just over two minutes left in the contest. T. Smith drew a foul and hit both shots at the line, and when the Fillies took possession again, they passed the ball effectively for over a minute. Smith went back to the line with 17.9 on the clock, splitting the freebies. A turnover gave Huntingdon the ball again, and Keith drew the foul with 11.7 remaining. She drained both shots, and the Fillies claimed the win, 63-55.

Lady Tornado Dymond Smith led all scorers with 25 points, including four three-pointers. Tykesha Vaughn scored 18, also with four threes. Alina Bishop had a dozen points.

Jessica Keith led Huntingdon with 16 points. Taylor Smith and LeAnn Webb scored eleven each, Webb with the Fillies' lone three-pointer.

Huntingdon dominated the boards, 40-23, led by Alli Jones with a dozen. Jessica Keith, LeAnn Webb and Grace Angelos had six rebounds each. Alina Bishop led Union City with six.

The Fillies were 22-of-27 at the line (81 percent), and, conversely, didn't send a Lady Tornado player to the line in the second half.

Coming out hot offensively, Huntingdon combined a trey, two deuces and two charity swishes by Keeton Bailey and a put back by Davion Phillips to take an 11-6 over Trenton at the 4:16 mark of the first period.

Following a Golden Tide timeout, Trenton stormed back to outscore Huntingdon, 11-0, and lead the end of the first stanza, 17-11.

Digging deep, Huntingdon coupled a Keeton Bailey trey, a Dylan Johnson assist to Keeton Bailey, a Jeremiah Pearson trifecta off the glass and a Kaleel Bailey deuce in the paint to know the score, 23-23, at the 2:31 mark of the second canto.

Responding, Trenton combined a put-back by Jasper Albea, a tip-in by Jadarius Harris, a put-back by Keyonta Ross and a Albea deuce in the paint to lead Huntingdon at the half, 31-25.

Determined, Huntingdon cut Trenton's lead to 36-34 at the 2:35 mark of the third frame via a trey and deuce by Keeton Bailey and a pair of inside baskets by Phillips. Following two put-backs by Trenton center Khance Hill, Keeton Bailey drilled a trifecta from the right side to cut the Golden Tide's lead to 44-37 at the start of the fourth period.

As physical play ramped-up by both squads, Mustang Keeton Bailey added a put-back and Pearson scored off the glass to cut Trenton's lead to 44-41 at the 5:23 mark of the fourth period. Following a deuce by Trenton's Timothy Fields, Huntingdon stormed into contention via a Tyrese Mebane assist to Phillips, Jeremiah Pearson inside deuce, and two charity swishes by Dylan Johnson to cut the Golden Tide lead to 48-47 with 3:05 remaining in regulation.

Following a Trenton timeout, the Golden Tide spread the court and devoured the game clock before Albea was fouled and converted two charity stripe tosses to put his squad up, 52-49, with 49.3 seconds left on the game clock.

Methodically passing the ball for the open shot, Huntingdon was rewarded with 20 seconds left on the game clock as Johnson swished a deuce off the glass and Mustang Coach Jonathan Kee called a timeout.

Resuming play, Trenton's Harris was quickly fouled to stop the clock at 14.1 seconds. Stepping to the free throw line, Harris missed as Huntingdon snared the rebound and raced across mid-court. In a flurry of action beneath the Mustang basket, Phillips soared to snare the offensive rebound and scored via put-back as Huntingdon's players leapt into the air in celebration. Reacting immediately, Trenton called for a timeout to set up its buzzer-beating, game-winning deuce by Luton as the Golden Tide eliminated the Mustangs in dramatic fashion, 54-53.

Huntingdon was led offensively by Keeton Bailey (24), Davion Phillips (14), Jeremiah Pearson (7), Dylan Johnson (6) and Kaleel Bailey (2).

Peabody was paced via the scoring of Khance Hill (15), Jasper Albea (10), Timothy Fields (7), Cameron Luten (6), Jadarius Harris (5), Keyonta Ross (4), Lavonskia Pirtle (4) and Hunter Hudson (3).

LAKE GUNTERSVILLE, ALABAMA (February 23-25) — The Bethel University Bass Cats competed against one of the largest collegiate bass fishing fields ever assembled as 248 boats representing schools and universities from all over America competed in the FLW Yeti Southern Regional Tournament.

Sunny weather with temperatures in the seventies during the day time practice hours on Thursday and Friday helped to keep the spirits high for all who were among the competitors. However, nature changed course as Friday night temperatures dropped to a chilly forty-three degrees as the wind picked up and changed direction. North winds for Saturday's competition made the morning blast off a cold affair at best.

The cold weather did not slow the Bass Cats as four Bethel teams qualified and broke collegiate records during the event.

Weighing in their five-fish limit early after having mechanical difficulties, Bethel sophomores Cody Huff and Garrett Enders netted a total weight of 18 pounds, 14 ounces for a fourth-place tournament finish.

The Bethel squad would see more great limits of bass as Bethel sophomores Cole Floyd and Carter McNeil brought a limit of five bass to the scales weighing 19 pounds, 12 ounces to put them in third place for the

Bethel wound up with three teams in the top ten as John Garrett and Brian Pahl's five-fish limit weighed in at 16 pounds, 13 ounces, vaulting them into ninth place for the day.

Rounding out the fabulous finish for the Bethel squad was the team of K.J. Queen and Evan Owrey who finished in 23rd place and qualified for the 2018 FLW National Championship along with their six teammates.

"To have three teams to finish in the top ten in a competition of this caliber is fantastic," said Bethel Head Coach Garry Mason.

He added, "To qualify four Bethel teams for the national championship in one tournament is a record to be very proud of."

The Bethel Wildcat Bass Team is the only collegiate bass team with three boats finishing in the top ten in a FLW Regional Championship.

The Bass Cats had three boats in the top ten at the FLW Open in 2015 and once again this past weekend at the FLW Southern Regional.

This is also the first time that one school (Bethel) has qualified four teams for a national championship berth in one FLW competition.

Carroll County Sheriff's Reports

Assault — A Huntingdon woman was arrested February 22 following a domestic incident. Deputy Christopher Adams charged Lara Weakley, 45, of 722 Bobbit Road with simple assault. According to Adams' report, deputies were dispatched to 720 Bobbit Road. Weakley's boyfriend had called to report an act of violence, but immediately claimed it was a joke. When deputies arrived, they found him to have a bloody lip. He admitted that he and Weakley had both been drinking and she had struck him in the face with a bottle but he did not want her arrested. Weakley was taken into custody and charged with domestic assault.

Nonviolent Offense — A Lexington man was arrested February 23 during a residential welfare check. Deputy Michael Taylor charged John David Threadgill, 33, address unknown, with charges not specified in his report. According to Taylor's report, the father of Threadgill's girlfriend asked deputies to perform a welfare check on her. Threadgill had been arrested on a domestic charge on January 25. When deputies arrived, she claimed Threadgill was not at the residence, but he was found in a closet and arrested without incident.

Theft — Deputies are investigating a theft. John Jordan of Huntingdon reported to deputies on February 22 that someone cut the windows in his Jeep and stole several items. Fishing gear and tools worth $1,800 were taken.

Theft — A Lavinia man and a Cedar Grove woman are facing theft charges. According to Deputy Adam Meggs' report, deputies were notified by the mother of Sandra Chatten, who is in a coma, that Chatten's residence was being broken into. Deputies installed cameras at the residence and obtained footage of Randy Collins, 35, of 10195 Terry Road and Stacy Michelle Cochran, 39, of 123 Moss Creek Lane breaking into the home and taking items without permission. Warrants have been issued for their arrests.

Breaking and Entering — Deputies are investigating vandalism to a building. Warren Price of Lavinia reported to deputies February 20 that someone had entered a building he owned on Terry Road by breaking some of the glass on it. Nothing was taken from the building.

Vandalism — Authorities are investigating a case of vandalism. On February 17 Timmie Rader of Huntingdon reported to deputies that a garage door at his home was bent with damages estimated at $900. Then on February 19 his back door was kicked in, causing damages of $400.

Violation of Registration — A Hollow Rock man was cited into court during a February 18 traffic stop. Deputy Scotty Davis charged Charles Robbins, 25, of 270 McKenzie Road with violation of registration and failure to provide insurance. Davis reported that Robbins was stopped for violation of registration. He was unable to provide proof of insurance.

McKenzie Police Reports

Vandalism — According to a report filed by MPD Patrolman Austin Jones, on February 22 at approximately 10:05 p.m., the officer responded to a call from a residence located on Magnolia Avenue regarding a vehicle's tires being slashed. Upon arriving at the scene, the officer spoke with the vehicle owner, Charles P. Brill, 19, Peachers Lane, Indian Mound, Tenn., who said that his roommate heard someone outside of their home before observing someone running from the front yard where Brill's black-colored, 2014 Chevrolet Spark was parked. Asked by the officer if anyone was mad at him, Brill provided the officer with the name of a person who had threatened to slash three of his tires because he thought insurance would not cover tire replacement if all four tires were slashed. Investigation into the matter is ongoing.

Violation of probation — According to a report filed by MPD Patrolman Mark Boaz, the officer, while patrolling on Highway 423, observed a red-colored, 2004 Ford Explorer with four forward-facing lights mounted on a LED light bar on the front bumper that also contained five forward-facing lights. After stopping the vehicle, the officer explained why he performed the stop and requested the driver license of driver and vehicle owner

Samantha Lawrence Roberts, Oak Manor Road, McKenzie. Roberts told the officer that, although she did not have her license with her, she did possess a license. At that time, MPD Sergeant Trey Boucher ran her license via dispatch and learned that they were valid. After running a check of the license of passenger Blake S. Roberts, 20, Winston Road, McKenzie, dispatch informed the officer that Roberts had a warrant out of Henry County for violation of probation totaling $2,271.88 in fines and that Roberts' license were revoked. Dispatch informed the officer that Henry County Sheriff's Department would meet him at the Henry County line to take custody of Roberts. Miss Roberts was cited for not carrying her driver license, no insurance on the vehicle, and warned about excessive lighting via the LED light bar attached to the front of the vehicle.

Violation of probation — According to a report filed by MPD Sergeant Trey Boucher, on February 24 at approximately 10:42 p.m., Joyce A. Biggs, 27, Elm Street, McKenzie was located at a residence on Elm Street and arrested for violation of probation out of Henry County. Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!
