City Receives Grant for Cedar Street Sidewalk

By Joel Washburn
washburn@mckenziebanner.com

McKENZIE (June 30) — New sidewalks are on the horizon for Cedar Street after a $940,500 Tennessee Department of Transportation Multimodal Access Grant. McKenzie Mayor Jill Holland said she was notified of the grant on Thursday afternoon, June 30, just prior to the meeting of the Mayor and Council.

McKenzie, one of 14 Tennessee communities to receive a Multimodal grant, is responsible for five percent ($50,000) of the project, which extends sidewalks from downtown at McKenzie Banking Company, past McKenzie Feed and Grain/Power Supply, and to U.S. 79 at Cornerstone (Raceway) Convenience Store. Holland said it is dangerous for pedestrians and those confined to wheelchairs as they attempt to walk along Cedar Avenue to the business district and Save-A-Lot grocery. Particularly dangerous is the narrow bridge along the route. Holland said the city will have to get easements from landowners to cross their properties. Another sidewalk project along North Stonewall is also in development. The sidewalk will extend from McKenzie Middle School to Brooks Avenue, where McKenzie Elementary School is located. Easements from 19 landowners have been obtained to extend the sidewalk.

McKenzie School Board Approves New Budget, Unchanged Tax Rate

By Brad Sam

McKENZIE (June 28) — The Board of Education for the McKenzie Special School District met Tuesday to vote on the property tax rate and budget for fiscal year 2016-17, one day after hashing out the details in a public workshop meeting.

The resulting $11,395,060 budget and unchanged rate of $1.277 per $100 assessed property value was approved unanimously.

The budget includes a two-percent raise and $1,000 bonus for all district employees.

The General Purpose Fund accounts for $8,944,154, a 1.7 percent increase over the previous budget. The general fund receives $.7256 of the total property tax rate.

The Federal Projects Fund, which accounts for various federal grant funds, is budgeted at $777,303.

The Central Cafeteria Fund has a projected budget of $852,988.

The Education Debt Service Fund, which receives the remaining $.5514 of the tax rate, will total $820,618.

The board also acted on various annual housekeeping measures in anticipation of the coming school term. Members voted to authorize Director Lynn Watkins to file and Supervisor Ladona Herrin to carry out the FY 17 Consolidated Application for various grants. General Fund Expense Accounts were approved for each of the three schools. Watkins was affirmed as the district's fiscal agent.

Food service bids were approved for HPS (produce and food/non-food supplies), Prairie Farms (milk and milk products), Turner Dairy (ice cream products), and Flowers Baking Co. (bread). The district has also been approved to utilize federal produce commodities. Food service charges were approved with no changes from last year. Policy manual amendments were also presented and approved. The changes stemmed predominately from passed legislation.

Requests to inspect records may now be made by e-mail. Schools with AED devices must conduct a CPR and AED drill to make students aware of the steps that will be taken in the event of a medical emergency.

Special Education students who do not meet the requirements for a high school diploma may now earn an occupational diploma, under certain guidelines.

Schools may now exclude TCAP and/or EOC scores from final grades if not received by the district at least five instructional days before the end of the course.

The district must now provide parents with the ability to access the questions and answers on their child's state-required tests.

Complaints of bullying, harassment, and discrimination must now be investigated beginning within 48 hours and completed within 20 calendar days with appropriate action taken. Parents and legal guardians of a student involved in such a violation must now be notified.

Students with head lice must now provide evidence of treatment prior to readmission, and treatment and prevention procedures must be distributed to any affected child's parent or guardian.

New student wellness requirements include three 15-minute periods of non-structured physical activity per day for Kindergarten and first grade students, two such periods of 20 minutes at least four days per week for grades two through six, and at least 90 minutes of physical activity per week for grades seven through twelve.

A new suicide prevention policy requires that all district employees attend either the annual in-service training in suicide prevention or participate in equivalent training.

Director's Watkins monthly report recognized the resignation of Beverly Duncan and Beth Sisson from the elementary school and Haley Glapa from the middle school. Also in the report were the following new personnel: Julia Petering, Sydney Wood, Lauren Banuelos, Meagan Hickman and nurse Beth Ownby (all at MES), Jenna Smith (MMS Special Education), Logan Hubble (MHS Math), and David Featherston (MHS Special Education.) The middle school has an opening for an education assistant.

Watkins also reminded everyone that it is McKenzie's year to host the Fall District Meeting, which will be held Monday, September 29 at McKenzie High School. It will be the first time the meeting is hosted at the new high school.

The board adjourned after 40 minutes.

There will be no July meeting; the board will reconvene on Tuesday, August 2.

Above, Kortnee Brown, 9, of McKenzie sold homemade dog treats. Below, Nakhila Parker, 14, of Trezevant sold her eggs from free range chickens. She is often assisted by her siblings Nevin and Nyonna.

Dottie Walker of Atwood sold freshly picked blackberries.

McKenzie Farmers Market Continues to Grow

McKENZIE (July 1-2) — The new farmers market across from McKenzie City Hall has grown each week since the grand opening the first weekend in June.

On that inaugural weekend, the market hosted seven vendors and scores of customers. By the last weekend in June, there were a dozen vendors and 256 visitors, and a thirteenth vendor joined this past week. Many vendors have consistently sold out of product well ahead of the Saturday afternoon closing time.

According to McKenzie economic director Jennifer Waldrup, interest has grown quickly, and organizers field more and more calls inquiring about the market.

Currently, Waldrup is scouting for potential cooking classes and instructors, as well as other activities to coincide with the market.

The market will operate weekly through October 29, and will tentatively reopen for its first full season next May.

Noranda Auction Update

Sweden's Gränges to Bid On Huntingdon Plant

FRANKLIN — Noranda Aluminum Holding Corporation announced that it has entered into an asset purchase agreement with Swedish-based rolled aluminum leader Gränges AB, under which Gränges subsidiary, Beagle Acquisition, will serve as the "stalking horse" bidder for the sale of debtor rolling mills located in Huntingdon, Newport, Arkansas, and Salisbury, North Carolina.

On June 23, 2016, the U.S. Bankruptcy Court approved the asset purchase agreement between Noranda and Beagle Acquisition for the sale of certain assets.

The Gränges agreement values Noranda's Flat-Rolled Products business at $302.5 million, on a debt-free, cash-free basis. If other qualified bids are submitted, the Company will conduct an auction pursuant to section 363 of U.S. Bankruptcy Code. The asset purchase agreement with Gränges sets the floor for the auction, which is designed to achieve the highest or otherwise best offer.

The purchase price consists of $288 million in cash subject to adjustment to the extent working capital is less than or greater than $60 million. The debtor's assets include substantially all of the assets of flat rolled products business owned and operated by Noranda USA, Inc.

Noranda has scheduled an auction on July 7, 2016 and expects the bidding procedures motion to be heard by the Bankruptcy Court on July 14, 2016. The sale hearing is scheduled for July 14, 2016. The transaction shall close no later than August 31, 2016. Justin R. Howard and Dennis J. Connolly of Alston & Bird LLP acted as legal advisor to the buyer.

Noranda's upstream business will continue to operate normally as it has prior to the Company's chapter 11 filing. In addition, the company's flat-rolled business will continue serving customers normally as it moves through the court-supervised sale process.

Gränges CEO Johan Menckel stated that his company's interest in purchasing Noranda's Flat-Rolled Products business hinges on the entities' quest to remain the industry leader in heat exchanger materials.

The proposed transaction with Gränges is being administered pursuant to section 363 of the U.S. Bankruptcy Code and is subject to, among other things, court approval and other customary conditions.

About Gränges

Since 1972, the Finnpång, Sweden-based Gränges started as a pioneer in the development and production of rolled aluminum for brazed heat exchangers on a small scale. Since then, the business has exponentially developed into a global group employing approximately 964 employees with sales of SEK 5.5 billion.

A global titan in the flat-rolled aluminum products industry, Gränges is the largest manufacturer of rolled aluminum for aluminum heat exchangers.

According to the company's website, every second car presently produced on earth contains Gränges-manufactured material.

A second Gränges production facility, located in Shanghai, China, was established in 1996 and jointly-owned before Gränges took full ownership in 2003. From 1996 to 2015, product capacity surged from 12,000 tons to 120,000 tons annually. The Shanghai plant employs approximately 530 people and is similarly-equipped in equipment and production technologies with the Sweden-based facility.

McKenzie Police Department Designates Safe Exchange Zone

By Ernie Smothers
smothers@mckenziebanner.com

MCKENZIE (June 30) — For buyers who purchase items online on shopping sites like Craigslist and worry that face-to-face transactions with sellers could result in robbery, injury, or worse, the McKenzie Police Department has created a Safe Purchase Exchange Zone.

Joining with law enforcement throughout the United States, MPD erected a highly-visible, Safe Exchange Zone sign in the front parking lot of McKenzie City Hall to allow buyers of online goods to complete transactions with sellers under the surveillance of police officers.

During an interview with The McKenzie Banner, MPD Police Chief Craig Moates said, “A few months ago, our police department united with other law enforcement nationally to start the Safe Exchange Zone project for the people of McKenzie. We got involved in the initiative to provide a safe place for our internet shoppers to meet with sellers and to provide parents involved in custody cases with a safe place to exchange their children. Generally, people will not act improperly if others are watching.”

He concluded, “We hope that the community will utilize the Safe Exchange Zone at City Hall. It is there for them. The safety of our citizens is always the McKenzie Police Department’s first priority.”

Carroll County Electrical Board Future Tower Dismantling Threatens Communications

By Ernie Smothers
smothers@mckenziebanner.com

HUNTINGDON (June 30) — During the regular monthly meeting of the Carroll County Electrical Board, CCED General Manager Danny Brawner and Carroll County Mayor Kenny McBride informed board members that Charter Communication’s plan to dismantle its 500-foot tall transmission tower by the end of the year would lead to county-wide communication dispatch losses for CCED, Carroll County Sheriff’s Department, Carroll County Fire Department, Tennessee Highway Patrol, Federal Bureau of Investigation, and other entities that maintain signal relays on the tower if the predicament is not remedied in time.

Addressing the board, Brawner said, “Charter Communications contacted Mayor McBride and me about their plan to dismantle their 500-foot tall tower by the end of this year. We have to do something by that time or we won’t have radio transmission capability anywhere in the county outside of Huntingdon.”

Mayor McBride added, “I have spoken with some higher-ups with Charter and they are steadfast about doing away with the tower. Charter will not sell the tower to us.”

CCED Board Chairman John Mann replied, “Seems to me that they would want to sell it and make some money instead of just destroying it.”

McBride concurred, “You would think so, but they are dead-set on tearing the tower down. They are going to cut the tower at the base and let it crash down and destroy itself. It will probably cost Charter $25,000 just to destroy it (tower). We would gladly pay them more than $25,000 to keep the tower as-is, but corporate wants it gone. Charter is not going to budge. They have taken all of our options off the table. The bottom line is that we will have to remedy this situation in a timely manner, and it is going to cost financially to do so.”

McBride said that Carroll County Fire Department Chief Terry Bradshaw was working to purchase a used transmission tower.

He said, “I think we will be able to buy a used transmission tower for around $25,000, but the real cost will come to play in putting the tower up. It will cost upward of $100,000 to purchase a used tower, rent a crane that can reach high enough, and hire technicians to assemble the tower and make sure everything is wired properly and works like it should. We have to figure something out, and I know we will. Danny and I just want you all to know about the situation that is facing the county. We will ultimately come up with a resolution that will preserve all communications that are presently tied via relays to the Charter tower. We will find a way.”

McBride said that a study revealed that a tower spanning a minimum of 350 feet will be needed to replace the Charter tower.

He said, “The best place to erect the new tower is on the hill behind the Carroll County Jail. We can secure the location and control the environment, ensuring that that tower will not be tampered with.”

Via unanimous vote, the board approved the system’s writing-off $55,349.99 in bad debts for Fiscal Year 2016.

Prior to the vote, Brawner said, “The bad debt for Fiscal Year 2016 is the lowest that we have had in a number of years.”

CCED Office Manager Ryan Drewry said, “Last year the utility’s total bad debt was $95,516.70. Most of the bad debt is from residential customers.”

Brawner said that Noranda is up to date on its billing.

He said, “Noranda’s sale is next month, so I presume after next month’s billing the new company’s name will be attached to the billing.”

In final business, the board approved the minutes of the May meeting and vouchers.

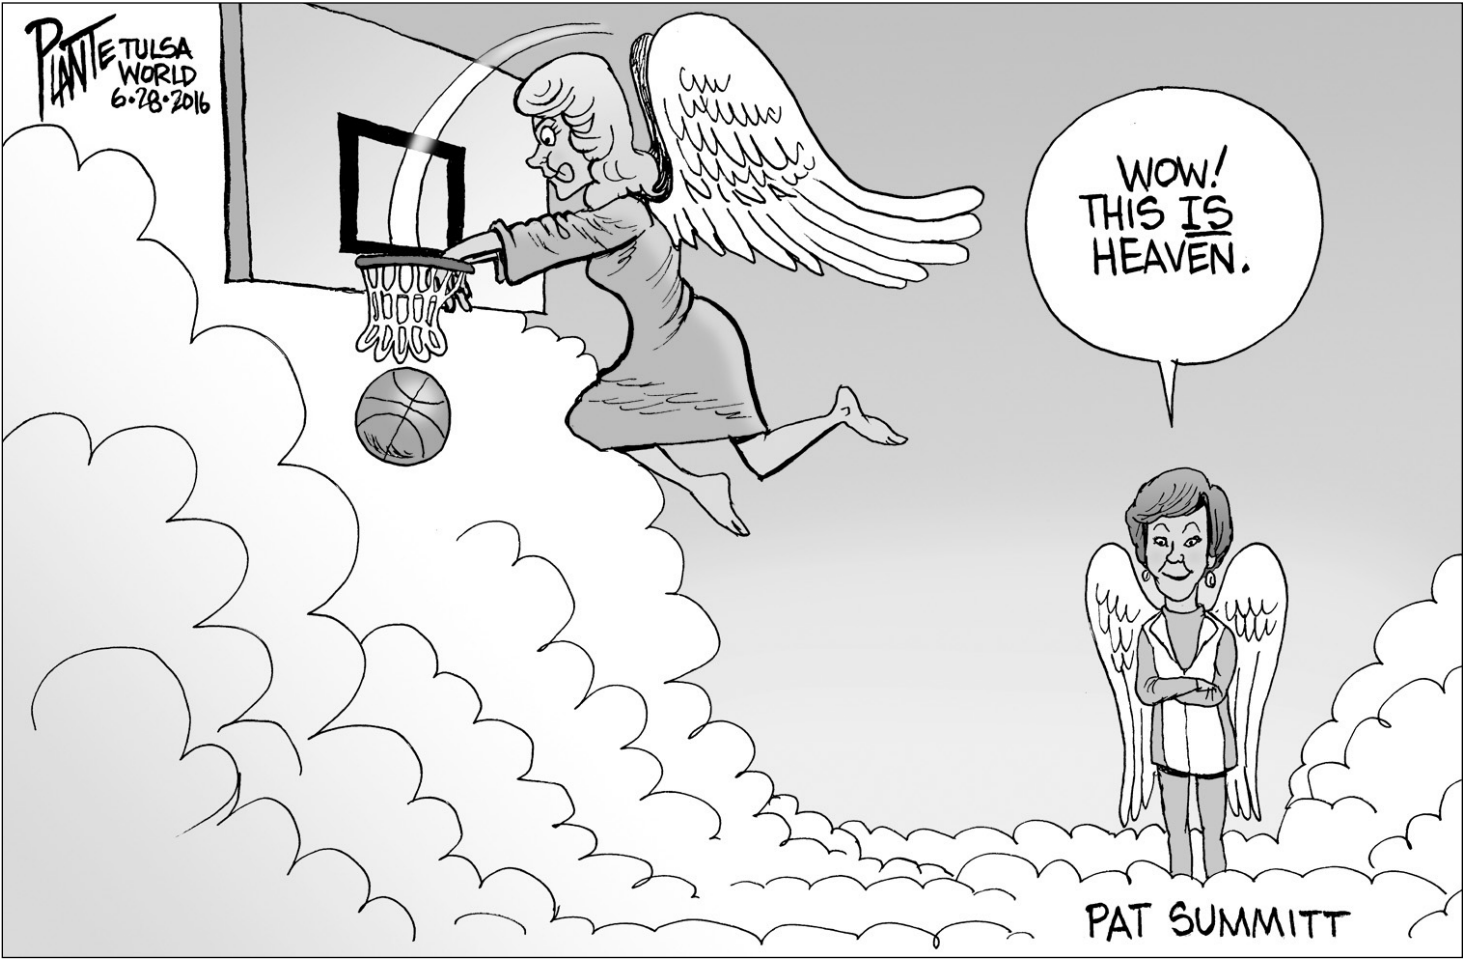

The next meeting of the CCED is July 28 at 2:30 p.m.

Hunker Down with Kes

Who’s Going To Fill His Shoes?

I wish I had a nickel for every time I’ve been asked, “What’s wrong with America today?” Folks are coming out of the woodwork to question everything this nation is doing from what’s going on, or not going on, in Washington to how come Michael Strayhan split with Kelly Ripa.

Let me tell you quickly that the problem has nothing to do with Donald Trump or Hillary Clinton. I don’t think either the Democrats or the Republicans have enough “pull” to get us as far off base as we appear to be. And don’t even talk to me about Great Britain pulling out of the EU or labor problems in Rhodesia causing a drop in the S&P 500 Index.

I don’t ascribe to the theory that “government” got us into this mess and “government” has got to get us out of it. I don’t necessarily blame it on mass media, one parent families, too much television, cell phones or the price of eggs in China. And if the widening gap between the lower and upper income classes bear any responsibility here, that’s way too complicated for me to understand.

I think the answer is much closer to home. It’s been ingrained and entwined with the very fiber of our country for so long that maybe we’ve taken it for granted... so much so that we’ve slowly watched it die off right before our eyes...

Cliff Sanborn shook my hand and I almost went to my knees. Merciful Heavens, what a grip! “Coach, Martha says you are from Tennessee.”

“Yes sir.” This was forty-seven years ago. I was twenty-two and didn’t know my elbow from a hot rock.

“People work where you come from?”

He was looking me right in the eye and I thought he was joking.....until I couldn’t see any humor slipping out of his face.

“Well, if you count chopping cotton, hauling hay, cleaning fence rows by hand, plowing new ground behind a single tree and pulling corn from can to can’t, I reckon folks do a mite of it back in West Tennessee.”

The smile spread across his face. I think that part about the single tree harness must have hit home with him.

“Coach,” I was eating with them fairly often my first month or so on the job, “one of my knucklehead boys don’t do right, you straighten him out anyway you have to.” He wasn’t joking here either.

I took him a ten dollar baseball cap one time from the box I ordered for the team. He gave me eight thousand dollars worth of tomatoes, collards, okra and the like out of his garden. Listen, you get into a “giving contest” with Cliff Sanborn, you were going to lose every time!

And work. You ain’t never seen nobody like him! We were down south of town where he, or maybe a friend of his, had some cattle. He was moving them from one pasture to another. They were acting like cows. I was waving my hand and hollering for them to move along. They weren’t going fast enough for Cliff. He jumped off the fence and went to shoving cows in the right direction.

Way after he retired from the paper mill, I said something about hiring someone to put down a shallow well to water my yard. “Coach, we can jet a well down in twenty minutes, no need to hire anybody.” As was his nature, he hopped right on it. We hit a rock or a shale ridge about halfway down. It wouldn’t go any further. Cliff worked on that simple well like the whole world depended on him finding water. He was drenched in sweat. I told him let’s give it up. I could find— “Coach, we started this, I reckon we’ll see it through.”

For the next couple of days I would come home after work and he’d be in my backyard working like a mad man. “Cliff, this ain’t worth it.” He wouldn’t even stop to discuss it with me. It didn’t matter if it was my yard and my well. It was a job he had started! And he was going to finish it come “hell or high water”!

You reckon America could use a guy like that today.

The passing of a man like Cliff Sanborn has a much greater impact on the nature and fiber of this country than who we elect as our next president. If we could just figure that out—we might possibly get ourselves back on the right track.

Cliff always called me “Coach”. And no one ever said it with more respect and esteem. I will always remember that he did it that way even before I had earned it. He gave everyone that kind of respect. It was not a way of life with him...it was THE way of life!

He loved God. He loved his family. He loved his community. He gave way more than he ever received. He had a million friends...because he was a friend. And he most definitely “toted his own load”.

Yeah, I can tell you what’s wrong with this country. We are looking for the answers in the wrong direction.

Respectfully,
“Coach”

I Say Tomato (Home Grown, That Is)

By Clayburn Peeples

There are, as everyone knows, and as John Denver once told us in a delightful song, two things that money can’t buy. True love, unfortunately, is sometimes beyond our grasp, but home grown tomatoes — home-grown tomatoes are within the reach of just about every-one.

And this year, for a change, I planted mine at the right time, and like a lot of home gardeners in the area, I’ve now got a few ripe ones.

Which means it is time for yet another column on that summertime staple of writers everywhere, tomato sandwiches.

I was thinking about that the other day as I stood over the sink eating my first tomato sandwich of the season. (Actually my first and second both; the first one being so good I couldn’t resist making another, right there on the spot.) I know that’s not a couth way to dine, my lovely and cultured young wife having sternly reminded me of that, but hey, it’s one of the hallowed rituals of summer in the South. Who among us hasn’t experienced that Christmas morning excitement of the first tomato sandwich of the season?

Lots and lots of other people have written about tomato sandwiches, especially around this time of year. Even the New York Times food editor had published a recipe. Southern Living once had an enthusiastic article entitled, “Seventeen Ways to Build a Better Tomato Sandwich.”

There are hundreds, if not thousands, of other recipes for them on the Internet, fully half of them, it seems, claiming to be something like “The best tomato sandwich in the world,” or “The Perfect Tomato Sandwich,” and all sorts of people are passionate about the exact way they must be built. They bring out the food critic in everyone, it seems, but especially in those who grow their own. But all of them have one thing in common, that being that one of the ingredients is tomatoes grown in someone’s back yard or garden.

Usually mine come from my brother’s garden. A tomato grower extraordinaire, every year he grows at least 20, and sometimes as many as 40 different varieties he starts from seed and supports with cages he built out of concrete reinforcement wire. He specializes in the antique, or heirloom, varieties, the ones with the wonderful old-fashioned names and the even better old-fashioned flavor.

Arkansas Traveler, Aunt Ruby’s German Green, Mortgage Lifter, Box Car Willie, Jeff Davis, Cherokee Purple; there are now more than 4,000 known varieties of tomatoes, and he can tell you about the growth characteristics and often subtle flavor differences of at least 200 of them. He compares and categorizes tomatoes the way a wine aficionado distinguishes between a Riesling and a Liebfraumilch.

Red, purple, orange, yellow, green, white and varying hues in between, my brother has grown them all.

And being the great brother he is, he brings me an artist’s palette of varieties three or four times every summer, some of which I simply cannot resist putting into a sandwich.

Now as I suggested earlier, people are highly opinionated about tomato sandwiches. Some people would think I committed a sacrilege by using hamburger buns instead of white bread for mine. A proper Southern tomato sandwich, any purist will tell you, must be made on white bread; some even name their brand.

“What about mayonnaise,” I asked a woman who insisted Wonder Bread was the only one that would do. “Does it have to be made with a particular kind of mayonnaise?”

“Any mayo will do,” she replied, “as long as it’s Hellman’s.” (For me, any mayo will do as long as it’s not light or no fat, but that may be a guy thing.) What I do insist on is that the tomato not be chilled. Write it down, and remember this; cool temperatures kill tomato flavor. Not that you asked, but tomato flavor comes from a plant enzyme that shuts down at 55 degrees. Furthermore, when you chill a tomato the water inside expands and makes it mushy. Keep your tomatoes out of the refrigerator.

And if you’ve never had the pleasure of eating a home-grown tomato sandwich, you need to try one. It’s really quite easy; you just need four things, white bread, (or, for culinary infidels like me, a hamburger bun) mayonnaise, sliced locally grown tomatoes and lots of napkins.

Napkins, because if it doesn’t drip all over the place, you used the wrong kind of tomato. Just put it all together, and then, as Brother Dave Gardner once said, “. . . lift and eat fast, lessen it runs ‘tween the crusts.”

Ah me. As John Denver said in his song, “What would life be like without home grown tomatoes?”

And I haven’t even mentioned fried green tomatoes yet.

Summer Reading Features Generals Mascot, 'Sarge'

By Ernie Smothers

MCKENZIE (June 28) — McKenzie Memorial Library kicked off its popular Summer Reading Series inside the Park Theatre with an energetic presentation featuring Jackson General's beloved mascot, "Sarge".

Prior to "Sarge's" introduction, MML Director Jean Melton introduced Bethel students and "Love Beyond the Page" members Elizabeth DeLong and Meredith Morris.

Melton said, "MML donated 2,000 books to Love Beyond Pages to assist its effort to empower our community through education. The group has set a goal this year to inspire McKenzie youth to read 2,016 books this year. McKenzie Memorial Library is proud to assist Love Beyond Pages in its efforts."

Greeting the large gathering of children, parents, and Summer Reading supporters, Jackson Generals Community Relations Director Tabitha Causey said, "Because the McKenzie Memoria Library's Summer Reading Program is sports-themed this year, I want to share the 3-2-1 rule with you. To encourage all of you to strive to be healthy the 3-2-1 rule consists of these components: consume at least three servings of vegetables per day; watch two or less hours of 'screen time' per day including television, internet, and all electronics-based media; and spend at least one hour of time playing outside. To help inspire you to reach the 3-2-1 goal, please join me in welcoming my pal and Jackson Generals mascot, 'Sarge'."

As "Sarge" entered the theatre, the children laughed and applauded.

After "Sarge" and Causey joined the youngsters in a variety of fun competition games, Causey said, "I want all of you to remember how fun it was today to work as a team to win. Team work involves communication, encouragement, and motivation. You will succeed in life if you strive to work with others for the common good. You can make a difference if you try."

McLemoresville Celebrates Independence Day

By Brad Sam
brad@mckenziebanner.com

McLEMORESVILLE (July 4) — Rainy conditions didn't deter hundreds from the West Carroll area and beyond who gathered in downtown McLemoresville to celebrate the Fourth of July Monday evening.

Festivities began with a parade down Main Street. Nearly 70 entries showing off their patriotism included automobiles, ATV's, Power Wheels, go-carts, bikes, pedestrians, and a few floats. The Grand Marshal was MVFD Chief Billy Younger.

The hamburger stand was as popular as ever, serving "the best hamburgers in the world" to a nonstop crowd throughout the night. The Community Service Group also dished out homemade ice cream.

Spots in the cake walk were prime real estate as a plethora of desserts were up for grabs.

Providing music for the cake walk and then playing on throughout the evening was The Right Combination.

The celebration ended at dark with a fireworks show.

Mayor Phil Williams extended thanks to the Carroll County Sheriff's Department, "for helping keep the event safe again this year."

Super Science Program Delights Summer Readers

By Ernie Smothers
smothers@mckenziebanner.com

McKENZIE (July 1) — The second installment of McKenzie Memorial Library's 2016 Summer Reading Program was a definite crowd-pleaser as Mr. Rich awed a large gathering of attendees young and old with seemingly magical, science-centered "tricks" during his one-hour, onstage performance at the Park Theater.

Following introduction by MML Director Jean Melton, Super Scientist Mr. Rich (Richard Askey) began his presentation by performing some impressive soccer ball balancing tricks.

A semi-pro soccer player and coach hailing from England, Askey, currently playing for Nashville FC in the NPSL, has coached for 12 years in the PDL semi pro as well as coaching at the college, high school, recreation, and travel levels.

Determined to involve all young participants, Mr. Rich commanded the children to join him onstage for some "hands-on" antics.

A highlight of the show occurred when McKenzie youngster Jason Kemp and Mr. Rich spun about onstage in a tug-of-war pitting the "combatants" in a struggle with a powerful electromagnet.

Suddenly, Kemp broke loose from Mr. Rich and tumbled to the ground holding one end of the electromagnet.

Stunned, Mr. Rich declared,

"Well that's a new one. For the first time in all these years that I've performed these events throughout the state, someone has defeated the electromagnet!"

Clambering to his feet, Kemp beamed with joy as the crowd applauded.

Hundreds Gather for Cumberland Presbyterian Youth Conference

By Brad Sam
brad@mckenziebanner.com

MCKENZIE (June 26-July 1) — Hundreds of Cumberland Presbyterian youth of high school age traveled from across the southeast U.S. and beyond for the annual Cumberland Presbyterian Youth Conference, held last week on the campus of Bethel University.

Youth and staff members at the event totaled 240, including youth groups, church leaders, youth ministers, pastors, christian educators, and other individuals.

Teens came from nearly every state in the southeast and several other states. One family came from Colombia to participate, and a pair of teens flew all the way from Hong Kong just for the event.

Things kicked off Sunday as guests checked in and met as a group to get acquainted with the schedule, campus map, and each other. Once everyone moved in to their dorms at Heritage Hall, an opening gathering provided more information and some activities and songs. After dinner was a worship session that included a multitude of activities.

Each weekday, youth gathered for morning devotion and breakfast, followed by “Morning Mash,” where a keynote speaker would prep everyone for the day’s theme. The daily themes for the week were Afflicted, Not Crushed; Hunger/Thirst; Wandering; Wilderness; Hurt; and God’s With Us.

After lunch was afternoon recreation. A plethora of activities were held, including sports and games. On Tuesday and Thursday, some small groups visited Oak Manor Nursing Home for singing and Bingo.

Evening activities included a highlighter dance, trivia night, and talent night. Each night ended with a worship service in the chapel.

Thursday night was the swanky Red Carpet Event, a celebration of the week’s success. Guests dressed up in their finest attire and walked the red carpet into the Vera Low Center cafeteria, hounded by “paparazzi” as they entered. Teens and staff danced, posed for photos, enjoyed a delicious meal, and cheered as a number of awards were presented.

Friday began as the other days, but after Morning Mash, the conference came to a close and the youth departed.

This was the 94th year of CPYC, which stemmed from the advent of the denomination’s youth ministry and has been held at various locations over time. The event has been held at Bethel for the last five years.

Nathan Wheeler is in his second year as director of the event. He graduated from Bethel College in 2002 with a Bachelors in Psychology. Currently a resident of Memphis, he is the Coordinator of Youth and Young Adult Ministries for the Cumberland Presbyterian denomination.

In an interview with The Banner, Wheeler praised the teens. “It’s amazing to see the heart, the compassion, the empathy, and the love that these young people have for one another. It makes me hopeful for the world, that these people are going to be the leaders. It’s such a blessing from God to be just a small part of it.”

He went on to thank Bethel University for graciously offering up the facilities for an entire week. He thanked the Bethel faculty and staff members that assisted throughout the week, especially Myra Carlock, Director of University and Alumni Events.

Nashville teen Claire Temple also spoke with The Banner during Thursday’s Red Carpet

Event. “It’s wonderful,” she said, “A lot of different people from different places. It’s fun to interact with them. But we all worship God and it’s wonderful.”

She added, “And we’re all very tired!”

Huntingdon Police Reports

Public Intoxication / Theft — A Huntingdon woman was arrested on June 23 after returning to a local store, where she had allegedly stolen items on June 22. Sergeant Chris Cole charged Carla Lawton of 277 Knox Street with public intoxication and theft. According to Cole's report, officers received a call from Cash Saver in reference to a woman (Lawton) who had stolen from the store the previous day. A warrant had been issued for her arrest. When officers spoke to Lawton, she had bloodshot eyes, slurred speech, and had trouble standing. She admitted that she had taken some pills that day.
Contempt of Court — A warrant has been issued for a Weakley County man after he allegedly broke into his ex-girlfriend's home. Investigator Joey Hedge has filed charges against Stephen C. Hampton of Gleason for contempt of court. According to Hedge's report, Hampton's ex-girlfriend called officers after Hampton broke into her home in Huntingdon through a window. She ran out of the home, but heard a gunshot. She told officers that there was also another person in her home. When officers arrived, they could not find the suspects. They found shell casings. There was one misfire and another that hit a window sill. Hampton had a bond order not to make contact with the victim.

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

See solution in next week's edition.
